No. 3447S.R.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 8-A of the Indian Tariff Act (VIII of 1894, as amended by Acts III of 1896 and XIV of 1899), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules regarding the assessment of the additional duties on sugar imported from countries where differential rates of bounty are payable according to percentage of polarisation:—

(1) If the importer declares that bounty has been paid on the sugar imported at the highest rate shown for the country of production or export in the Notification of the Government of India in the Finance and Commerce Department No. 1327-S.R., dated the 20th March 1899, the corresponding rate of additional duty shall be levied, and it shall not be necessary to have the sugar tested in India.

(2) If the importer declares that the bounty was paid at any rate below the highest, the sugar shall be tested.

(3) The object of the test shall be to enable the Collector of Customs to determine the class in which the sugar should be deemed to have been placed for the payment of bounty; and the additional duty shall be assessed at the rate corresponding to the rate of bounty, which the result of the test, in the opinion of the Collector of Customs, indicates as the rate of bounty paid. The additional duty shall be collected at the rate assessed by the Collector of Customs under this rule, unless the importer shall produce documentary evidence to the satisfaction of the Collector that the bounty was actually paid at a lower rate, when the additional duty shall be collected at the rate corresponding to such lower rate of bounty.

A DICTIONARY OF THE ECONOMIC RRODUCTS OF INDIA.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); but a tenth volume has been issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index is practically a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

Index to ditto ditto, 8vo. Rs. 2. (4*s.*)

AUSRTALIA, EAST COAST—CLAREMONT ISLES.

McDonald reef—Helms shoals.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 362 of 1899) of the existence of a coral shoal (known as McDonald reef) north-eastward of Pea reef, and of an unsuccessful search for the Helms shoal, Claremont group, as follows:

a McDonald reef is 3 cables long, N.N.E. and S.S.W., and half a cable wide; it has a least depth of 24 feet on it at its south extreme, from which the centre of Pea reef bears S. 32° W., distant 5 cables, and Red cliff N. 78° W.

Approximate position, lat. 13° 32′ 20″ S., long. 143° 39′ 40″ E.

b. A very careful search was made for Helms shoal, originally reported in 1890, by Mr. Helms of the S.S. Tannadice, without any indication of shoal water being found, nor any ripple observed near its supposed position, although the Sullivan shoal was at times clearly indicated; and as Mr. Helms is of opinion that his vessel may have struck the Sullivan shoal, the Helms shoal has been erased from the Charts.

Approximate position, lat. 13° 51′ 25″ S., long. 143° 41′ 0″ E.

W., then alter course and steer with these two objects in line until the bar is crossed. No stranger should, however, attempt to cross the bar without a pilot.

TASMANIA WEST COAT—Macquarie harbour.

Tidal signals at entrance.

With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 161, dated 23rd July 1898, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further Notice (No. 336 of 1899) that the undermentioned tidal signals are now shown from the Bluff flagstaff on the south-western side of the entrance to Macquarie harbour in lieu of those previously exhibited:—

Day Signal.	Meaning or depth on bar.	Night Signal.
Two balls at masthead denote ...	Flood tide ...	White light waved from signal cabin.
One ball at masthead denotes ...	Ebb tide ...	Red „ „ „
	Ft.
Two square flags on eastern yard-arm	8½
Red flag on eastern yard-arm ...	9	Red light shown from signal cabin.
Ball over red flag on eastern yard-arm	9½
Blue flag on eastern yard-arm ..	9¾	Green „ „ „
Ball over blue flag on eastern yard-arm	9¾
Two balls on eastern yard-arm ...	10	White „ „ „
Red flag at topmast head ...	Bar dangerous.	Red light shown from Pilot's house to outgoing vessels.

The figures signalled are those indicated by the tide gauge inside the heads. Mariners take the bar at their own discretion, as it is impossible that the exact depth signalled should be guaranteed, and those wishing the night tidal signals to be made must give four short blasts with the fog-signal, and, after they have been made, one long blast, showing that they are understood.

Pilots will, if the weather permits, board vessels outside the bar; when this is not the case, vessels should be steered with the leading lights in line, and they will be directed by signals from the flagstaff, as follows:—

(a) A pennant at eastern yard-arm indicates alter course to the eastward.
(b) A pennant at western yard-arm indicates alter course to the westward.

The pennant will be kept hoisted until it is observed that a safe course is being steered; no signal will otherwise be made.

When unable to go outside, the pilot will, if practicable, come out in a boat and direct the vessel's course by a flag waved on that side of the boat to which the course is to be altered.

Strangers should not attempt to enter at night, and no sailing vessel should cross the bar on an ebb tide without a commanding breeze.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is merely to consolidate the several Acts relating to prisoners confined by order of a Court which are now to be found in different parts of the Statute-book, and so to replace a number of separate enactments by a single Act, expressed more simply and intelligibly. Only a few explanatory remarks seem to be called for, and these will be found in the Notes on Clauses annexed.

The 27th June, 1899. T. RALEIGH.

Notes on Clauses.

The first seven Parts reproduce Act V of 1871 and the Acts relating to the confinement of prisoners, and the remaining Part contains the provisions of Act XV of 1869 which deal with the production of prisoners in Court for the purpose of giving evidence and the service of process upon them while in confinement.

Clause 2.—Act V of 1871 refers somewhat indiscriminately to "prisons" and "jails". The former word has been adhered to throughout the Bill.

Clause 18.—The wording of section 19 of Act V of 1871 is somewhat equivocal, and doubts have in practice been felt as to whether it requires a special order in the case of each prisoner. The necessity for this is not apparent, and the opportunity has been taken to remove all doubt on the point by making it clear that a general order is admissible.

The original section has, it will be observed, been considerably shortened and, it is thought, simplified. All the offences specifically described in the earlier part of the section are covered by the sections mentioned in the schedule to the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879 (XXI of 1879), to which reference is made in a later part of it, and this tautology has been avoided in the Bill. It is believed that, with one exception, the clause now proposed exactly reproduces the law contained in the old section. The exception consists in the circumstance that, while section 19 refers to the abetment of suicide by burning or burying alive only, clause 18 of the Bill, read with the first schedule, refers instead to sections 305 and 306 of the Indian Penal Code, i.e., to the abetment of suicide in any form.

Section 34 of Act V of 1871, giving power to make rules as to convicts, has not been reproduced, as power has been already taken in the Prisons Act, 1894 (IX of 1894), to make rules providing for all matters referred to in that section.

Clause 44.—The reference to "the Gazette" in section 10 of Act XV of 1869 has here been amplified. Where the Government of India is concerned, it is the Gazette of India that should be alluded to ; where a Local Government, the local official Gazette.

Clause 53.—It is altogether supererogatory to declare, as does section 19 of Act XV of 1869, that rules made thereunder "shall be deemed to have the force of law." The language has, therefore, here been altered so as to provide that all rules duly made under the proposed Act "shall have the same force as if enacted" thereby. The effect of the provision so expressed will be apparent if the decision of the House of Lords in Institute of Patent Agents v. Lockwood (1894), L. R. App. Cas. 347, be referred to.

Secretary to the Government of India.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CIVIL VETERINARY DEPARTMENT, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31st MARCH 1899.

RESOLUTION No. 2630.

READ—

The Annual Report of the Civil Veterinary Department, Bengal, for the year ending 31st March 1899.

Letter No. 55T.A., dated the 19th June 1899, from the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal, submitting the above.

THE Annual Report of the Civil Veterinary Department, Bengal, for the year ending 31st March 1899, which was due on the 1st of June reached this Government 23 days after the date fixed for its submission, or two months earlier than was the case last year. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the Director of Land Records will find it possible to submit the report still more punctually in future. The report affords a clear and short account of the important matters with which the Department has to deal; and the Statistical tables appended to it contain much valuable information in a convenient form.

2. The Veterinary College.—In the year under report the status of the Bengal Veterinary School was raised to that of a College, and the course of instruction was extended from two to three years. The institution has fairly earned this promotion by good work in the past; and the Lieutenant-Governor has every confidence that its future will justify the action of Government. Revised rules for the admission of the students, the regulation of their studies, and the admission of animals into the hospital attached to the college have, since the close of the year, been published under Government Notification No. 523T.—R., dated the 14th June 1899.

Though the number of students attending the college throughout the year under report was smaller than in previous years, the results of the annual examinations of the institution were most satisfactory. All the six students of the first-year class, and the 15 students of the second-year class, passed creditably and were promoted to the respective higher classes. At the prize distribution made by the Lieutenant-Governor at the college premises on the 25th March last, he had the pleasure of expressing his satisfaction at the excellence of the arrangements of the institution, the thoroughness of the instruction imparted to the students, and the rapid advance made by it within the short space of five years from the commencement of its existence.

3. Stipends.—Out of the 30 monthly stipends of Rs. 5 each annually allotted by Government, only four were awarded in class A, and 10 in class B of the college during the year under report. The remaining students were assisted, six by District Board Stipends, one by the Burdwan Raj Stipend, and one by the Shew Buksh Bagla Scholarship.

4. The Managing Committee.—The Managing Committee was strengthened by the addition of Mr. C. L. S. Russell, C.S., and Mr. Abdur Rahman, Khan Bahadur, and after the prize distribution, at which the Lieutenant-Governor commented on the small amount of interest shown in the college by Muhammadans, two other members, viz., the Hon'ble Nawab Syed Amir Hossein, C.I.E., and Maulvi Budruddin Haidar Khan Bahadur, were appointed. It is hoped that the addition of these gentlemen will induce the community to which they belong to turn their minds to a form of employment, which in other provinces has proved very attractive to them.

5. The Veterinary Infirmary.—There has been a large increase in the number of sick animals treated in the infirmary and in the income from fees for treatment and shoeing. There is still, however, much room for development, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that as further knowledge is gained of the advantages offered by the institution the public generally, and official bodies especially, will resort to it with increasing frequency and confidence.

6. Veterinary Assistants.—Of the 35 students who passed out of the institution as Veterinary Assistants from March 1896 to March 1898, 19 have obtained permanent appointments, 3 are in temporary employment, 10 have started private practice, 2 are studying medicine, and 1 only is out of employ at present. It is clear from these figures that there is a considerable demand for veterinary assistants, which is likely to still further increase in the near future, and the students have the great encouragement of a practical certainty of immediate employment on completion of their curriculum.

7. Veterinary Dispensaries.—Altogether nine veterinary dispensaries were at work in this Province during the year under report. Those at Sitamarhi, Patna and Dumraon were established during 1897-98; and the remaining six at Gaya, Muzaffarpur, Cuttack, Balasore, Burdwan and Tippera were newly opened during the year. Preparations were also made for the opening of two more dispensaries at Dumka and Kanti, but these could not commence regular operations until after the close of the year. From the accounts given in the report of the working of these nine dispensaries, it appears that the Sitamarhi, Patna and Dumraon dispensaries were in good order, each of them showing a surplus of income over expenditure. The working of the Balasore and Cuttack dispensaries was also satisfactory, though their financial condition was not so sound as those of the three mentioned above. The Gaya and the Muzaffarpur dispensaries were established too late in the year to make much progress. Considering that Burdwan was one of the few districts in Bengal which suffered very severely from the outbreak of cattle disease during the year, the amount of work done by the Veterinary Assistant, appointed by the District Board of that district, was very small. The arrangements of the Tippera dispensary are not satisfactory, and the attention of the District Board is invited to the matter.

In the letter with which this report was forwarded, the Director of Land Records emphasised the need these infant institutions are in, of the care of the Commissioners and District Magistrates. The Lieutenant-Governor fully agrees with him that the hearty help of those officers should be given, especially in the early years of the dispensaries.

8. Outbreaks of contagious disease among cattle.—Reports of the outbreaks of cattle disease in epidemic form were received from 29 districts during the year under report, but the services of Veterinary Assistants were required only in the districts noted on the margin. Their services clearly saved the peasantry much loss. The largest number of deaths was reported from Cuttack, where, out of 5,425 total deaths, 2,586 or 48 per cent. were from rinderpest alone. The disease, however, was most fatal in Chittagong where, out of 3,422 animals attacked with the disease, 3,253 or 95 per cent. are said to have died. Burdwan and Puri also suffered severely from the disease, and the latter from foot and mouth disease as well.

During the year the Director of Land Records arranged with the Inspector-General of Police, that in order to give earlier intimation of the outbreak of cattle disease, the officers in charge of police-stations should send post-cards direct to the Superintendent, Civil Veterinary Department, Bengal. This was done for two or three months towards the end of the year and the arrangement was found to work well.

9. Rinderpest experiments.—Successful experiments were conducted during the year by Veterinary-Major Raymond, to demonstrate the value of serum injection as a preventive and a cure for rinderpest. Experiments were also conducted by him with rinderpest hides and hides of animals, which had died of malignant sorethroat, from which it appeared to be certain that no danger could arise from the exportation of such hides into foreign countries. The enquiries made in the previous year into the value of Köch's system of bile injection were also continued with favourable results.

10. Operations under the Glanders and Farcy Act in North Bihar.—The operations under the Glanders and Farcy Act, which were commenced in the three districts of Saran, Champaran and Muzaffarpur in the latter part of the year 1897-98, were continued throughout the year under report. The Superintendent, Civil Veterinary Department, has promised to submit a report when they are completed.

11. Cattle-fairs, shows, &c.—The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the Superintendent could not manage to visit personally more than two cattle-fairs in the Province, as compared with five in the previous year. This was due to his pressing duties in connection with the numerous scientific experiments carried on by him, and the high pressure at which both he and his college staff had to work throughout the year. Veterinary-Major Raymond recognises, however, the importance of this branch of his work, and will no doubt be able to devote more time to it in the present year.

12. Horse and pony-breeding in Bengal.—The enquiries which were instituted at the desire of Sir Alexander Mackenzie into the possibility of improving the breed of country ponies in Bengal, were conducted by Veterinary-Major Raymond throughout the year, and after its close he submitted to Government a report, in which he suggested that the operations should, in the first instance, be confined to the Bihar districts, Darjeeling and Sikkim, as being the most promising localities in the Province, and might then if desired be gradually extended to the districts of Lower Bengal, where the necessity for such operations is not so great at present. It has been decided to confine present experiments to two districts of Bihar.

13. Cattle-breeding.—Appendix XXIII to the report furnishes an interesting synopsis of the results of the attempts made during recent years to improve the breed of cattle in this Province. Though the results of the experiments have hitherto been generally successful, Veterinary-Major Raymond considers the methods which have been adopted to be of doubtful expediency. The Hissar bulls introduced into Bihar were not a success: and the number of really good bulls of the local breed in Bihar is limited. Hence, if their exportation to Bengal is persisted in, there is a danger of permanently injuring the stock. He, therefore, adheres to the opinion he has previously expressed that the best way to improve the breed of local cattle is to rear bulls for breeding purposes under the immediate supervision of the Bengal Civil Veterinary Department. The advisability of establishing farms where this could be done, at Pusa and at Sripur in the Hatwa Raj, is engaging the attention of Government.

14. Financial and General.—The receipts from fees and the Provincial share of the expenditure of the Civil Veterinary Department, Bengal, during the year 1898-99 were Rs. 6,046-12-9 and Rs. 37,011-6-10 respectively, as against Rs. 4,988 and Rs. 27,310-3-11 during 1897-98.

Veterinary-Major Raymond was on tour for a period of 119 days, during the year under report. The Government of India having declined to meet the expenditure on account of the entertainment of a Personal Assistant for the Superintendent to carry on a portion of his duties during his absence on tour from Calcutta, this Government has been compelled to abandon the proposal for the present, or till the Provincial finances admit of the requisite expenditure.

The Lieutenant-Governor's thanks are due to Veterinary-Major Raymond for the ability with which he has conducted the affairs of this Department during the year, and he congratulates him and his staff on the success which has attended them in developing the Veterinary College.

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

CALCUTTA;
The 7th August 1899.

A. H. C. MACCARTHY,
Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

FIRST FORECAST OF THE SUGARCANE CROP IN BENGAL, 1899.

THE following is published for general information.

REVENUE DEPT., F. A. SLACK,
The 7th August 1899. Offg. Secy., to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FIRST FORECAST OF THE SUGARCANE CROP IN BENGAL, 1899.

Explanatory.—The following preliminary forecast of the area and outturn of the sugarcane crop in Bengal is issued under the recent orders of Government directing that two forecasts of this crop should in future be submitted in the place of the note on the crop that has hitherto been incorporated in the final note on the rabi harvest. This is the first separate note on the sugarcane crop published by this Department.

Estimates of the sugar produced from other sources than cane will be included in the final forecast of sugarcane to be issued in December next, as the juice of the date palm, which is the only other source of sugar in Bengal, is usually extracted in the winter, and no reliable estimate of the outturn can at present be made.

2. Character of the season.—Frequent showers fell in the early and latter parts of January, and the total rainfall for the month was above the average in all Divisions, except Orissa, where it was only half the normal. Rain fell in scattered showers at the beginning of February in most parts of the Province, and after a short spell of fine weather, again fell in heavy showers towards the close of the month in the south-eastern districts. The total rainfall for the month was, however, much below the normal in all parts of the Province, except East Bengal. In March the rainfall was less than the normal in all parts, except North Bengal. In April more than the average rain fell in all districts, excepting North Bengal, where it was slightly in defect. The rainfall in May was, on the average, below the normal in North Bengal and in the Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions, normal in the rest of Bihar, but much above the normal in Orissa and Lower Bengal. In June the rainfall was general, and largely above the normal in all parts of the Province, except Orissa, while the rainfall in July has also been unusually heavy. On the whole, the season has been favourable for the cultivation and growth of sugarcane, except in some of the districts of Lower Bengal, especially in Nadia, Khulna, Pabna, Bogra, and Noakhali, where the crop appears to have suffered from excessive rain. In Dacca the crop has been partially damaged by sugarcane disease.

3. Area sown.—In the note on the outturn of the rabi crops in Bengal, published in April last, the normal area under sugarcane in the Province was shown as 996,100 acres. The normal area has since been revised by some District Officers, in consequence of which the provincial total stands at 896,700 acres, showing a reduction of about 100,000 acres. Even this figure appears to be high, and the figures returned by some of the District Officers appear to represent maxima rather than normal areas.

The total area under sugarcane this year is estimated at 868,300 acres against 868,900 acres cultivated in 1898. These figures do not, however, illustrate the general extension of cultivation since last year, observable from a detailed examination of the district returns. This extension would have shown an increase of nearly 18,000 acres since 1898, had it not been counteracted by a reduction due to climatic causes alone in Nadia and Pabna, and to an unexplained drop of 6,900 acres in Manbhum. The figures for this district appear open to doubt.

4. Outturn.—From the statement appended to this note, it will be seen that an outturn above the normal is expected in 6 districts, while in 19 districts the outturn is estimated at the normal. In 7 other districts the estimate varies between 90 and 100 per cent., in 6 others between 80 and 90, and in the remaining 8 districts it falls below 80. Generally speaking, it would appear that the prospects of the sugarcane crop are good in the comparatively dry districts of Bihar, Orissa and Chota Nagpur, and indifferent in the damper districts of Lower Bengal.

According to the returns of the District Officers, the outturn of the sugarcane crop in Bengal should be estimated at 96 per cent. of a normal crop against 90 per cent. estimated in 1898; but as there appears to be a tendency on the part of some District Officers to underestimate the outturn, it may be safely anticipated that the sugarcane crop for the Province will, as far as can be at present foreseen, yield about a normal outturn in the current year.

D. L. Roy,
Asst. Director of the Dept. of Land Records and Agri., Bengal.

Countersigned.

P. C. Lyon,
Director of the Dept. of Land Records and Agri., Bengal.

Calcutta,
The 2nd August 1899.

Preliminary forecast of the Sugarcane crop of Bengal, 1899.

Division.	District.	Approximate normal area in acres.	Approximate area sown last year (1898) in acres.	Estimated area sown this year (1899) in acres.	Taking 100 to represent the normal outturn, how much represented outturn last year (1898)?	Taking 100 to represent the normal outturn, how much will represent this year's outturn (1899)?	Remarks by District Officers.	Remarks by the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Burdwan ...	Burdwan	27,400	27,400	27,400	100	100	Owing to seasonable rainfall, a normal outturn is anticipated.
	Birbhum	9,000	6,000	7,000	40	90	The outturn is expected to be better than that of last year, owing to favourable weather. Sugar is not produced from other sources in this district.
	Bankura	18,000	17,000	17,500	97	100	It is too early to make an accurate estimate of the outturn of the sugarcane crop now. The outturn may, however, be estimated at 100 per cent.	The Collector states that the estimates of sugar produced from the date-palm will be submitted later on.
	Midnapore ...	20,400	18,300	18,700	72	97	Owing to seasonable rainfall, the area brought under cultivation this year has been greater than that of last year and from the growth of the plants generally a normal outturn may be expected, provided no accident occurs in the meantime.	The Collector estimates 800 acres as the area covered by sugar crop other than cane and this year's outturn as 83 per cent.
	Hooghly	14,500	12,900	13,300	86	83	On account of seasonable rainfall a larger area has been sown with this crop than in the previous year. Prospects as yet are fair, the Subdivisional Officer of Jahanabad, however, fears that the crop will be damaged by the present excessive rains. Information regarding sugar produced from other sources will be furnished in the final report.

Division.	District.	Approximate normal area in acres.	Approximate area sown last year (1898) in acres.	Estimated area sown this year (1899) in acres.	Taking 100 to represent the normal outturn, how much represented outturn last year (1898)?	Taking 100 to represent the normal outturn, how much will represent this year's outturn (1899)?	Remarks by District Officers.	Remarks by the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Presidency ...	24-Parganas ...	4,500	4,000	4,000	107	107	Owing to the favourable rainfall, the outturn is expected to be above the average. The decrease in the area sown, as compared with the normal, is ascribed to insufficient rainfall when cultivation commenced. Accurate estimates of sugar produced from the date-palm and other sources cannot be furnished now.
	Nadia	14,000	14,000	10,500	90	75	The decrease in the area sown, as well as in the outturn, is due to the unfavourable state of the weather during the sowing season and to excessive rainfall. The estimate of sugar produced from the date-palm will follow.
	Murshidabad .	17,000	16,800	17,000	76	100	The increase in area and outturn is due to the seasonable rainfall and to a sufficient store of water being available for early irrigation. No sugar is produced from any other sources in this district, but molasses are manufactured in some places from date juice, but there is no regular cultivation or garden of date-trees.
	Jessore	15,000	11,200	14,800	67	82	..	The Collector estimates this year's area under sugar crop other than cane as 20 000 acres and the outturn as 100 per cent.
	Khulna	3,100	3,300	3,100	88	81	The crop has been slightly damaged by the rains of the last two months.	The Collector states that the estimates of sugar produced from other sources will follow.

Rajshahi	Rajshahi	7,700	8,000	7,700	83	93	The figure in column 3 has been raised from 7,000 acres to 7,700 acres owing to the addition of a new tract to this district. Sugar produced from the date-palm is estimated at 1,200 maunds.
	Dinajpur	24,000	24,500	30,000	100	100	Sugar is not produced in this district from other sources than cane.
	Jalpaiguri ...	3,100	3,200	3,300	80	80	No sugar is produced from other sources than cane.
	Darjeeling ...	400	400	400	75	100	A normal outturn is expected on account of the seasonable rainfall.
	Rangpur	24,100	23,500	22,500	86	100	.....	The figures for area have been revised since the submission of the last rabi forecast.
	Bogra	12,000	12,000	12,000	110	100	Excessive rainfall in the early part of the season prevented timely weeding.
	Pabna	66,000	60,000	52,500	70	60	Last year the cultivators sustained a heavy loss in this crop owing to the high flood. They did not consequently sow this crop in the low lands this year, hence the decrease in area. The continual heavy rain in May and June marred the prospects of the outturn. There is no regular cultivation of the date-palm. It is grown in gardens, and is not worth separately reporting on. Palm sugar is not seen in this district.
Dacca	Dacca ...	25,000	25,200	26,800	86	70	The sugarcane crop was partially damaged in the subdivision of Munshiganj by a disease (Trichosphæria Sacchari).
	Mymensingh ...	35,600	33,800	33,600	98	97	. . .
	Faridpur ...	42,000	42,000	42,000	88	100	The rainfall of this year has been very favourable to the growth of this crop, so a full average outturn is expected.
	Backergunge ...	20,000	20,000	20,000	95	100	The sugarcane crop is normal both in area and outturn. It is impossible to give any figure for the area covered by date-palms, as they are not grown here in regular orchards, but are generally scattered among other crops or orchards of other trees. The outturn from the date-palm is nominal.

	Saran	40,000	40,000	42,000	105	110	This has been a favourable year to the crop owing to the timely rainfall. The cheap prices of foodcrops and the high price of raw sugar have also increased the cultivation. The normal area has been revised with reference to the survey figures.
	Champaran ...	13,000	13,000	13,000	90	100	The season is favourable for this crop, and the outturn is expected to be a normal one. No sugar is produced in this district from other sources than cane.

	Muzaffarpur	8,400	8,500	8,500	100	100	The area shown against sugarcane in the estimate of outturn of rabi crops, 1898-99, was inclusive of the area under other sugar crops, as there was only one heading "Sugarcane" in that estimate. The correct figure under sugarcane alone is shown here. The area under date-palm is 600 acres, and the estimated outturn is 100 per cent.

Orissa	Balasore	4,400	3,300	4,400	88	100	A normal outturn is expected owing to seasonable rains.
	Angul	2,000	2,000	2,000	100	100	The season has been favourable to the sugarcane crop, and an average outturn is expected.
	Puri ...	3,500	4,000	3,000	75	75	The decrease in the area as compared with that of last year may be attributed partly to the unfavourable weather at the sowing time and partly to the cultivators' want of means to grow this crop, which is more expensive than all other crops grown in this district. The outturn has been estimated at 75 per cent. only on the assumption that there will be timely and well-distributed rainfall.

WORKING OF THE INDIAN FACTORIES ACT IN BENGAL DURING 1898.

No. 2466.—The 7th August 1899.—The following is published for general information.

F. A. SLACK,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

No. 2250, dated Calcutta, the 26th July 1899.

From—F. A. SLACK, Esq., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, General Dept,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

I AM directed to submit the Report on the working of the Indian Factories Act, XV of 1881, as amended by Act XI of 1891, in Bengal, during the year 1898. The prescribed statements, Forms I and II, are appended.

2. Number of factories and system of work.—The total number of factories actually at work at the end of the year 1897 was 167. Sixteen factories were brought under the Act during the year under report, viz., 3 in the 24-Parganas, 1 in Hooghly, 1 in Howrah, 8 in Dacca, 2 in Purnea, and 1 in Cuttack. At the same time 2 factories in Howrah were removed from the list, and 1 in Jessore remained closed during the year. The total number of factories actually at work at the close of the year 1898 was therefore 180. In 88 factories work was carried on by shifts or sets; in 73 by midday stoppages; in 4 by a combination of shifts and midday stoppages; and in 14 by other means. There is one factory in Dacca, not at work at the close of the year, for which no return was received. The number of factories exempted from the rule requiring a Sunday or weekly holiday was 33 as against 28 in the previous year. The average daily number of operatives in the mills aggregated, men, women and children, 165,027 against 166,828 in 1897. The details for both years are given in the table below. To it have been added, for the purposes of illustrating the growth of factories in Bengal, the figures for 1893:—

* A large factory at Serajganj was destroyed by the recent earthquake, and the business was re-opened on new premises erected near Calcutta.

If the returns have been accurately furnished, the plague scare of 1898 produced no serious diminution of labour at the factories except in the city of Calcutta Proper. The managers had just cause for anxiety, but the effects seem to have been much smaller than was at the time believed.

The Special Inspector of Factories reports that electricity as an illuminant has become quite general in the large mills and in a few workshops; but that as a motive power it is little used.

The question of the closing of jute mills early on Saturdays was considered during the year, and a special report was submitted to the Government of India on the subject. The mill-owners agreed to close their mills entirely on Saturdays for six months, commencing from the 1st April 1899, an arrangement which happily obviated the necessity of future consideration of the conflicting proposals on the subject. Subsequently, however, to the great regret of all concerned, this agreement was abandoned by the contracting parties; and the matter stands exactly where it did. * * * *

3. Inspections.—Ten factories were inspected once, 12 factories twice, 41 thrice, and 114 more than three times. Three factories in the district of Dacca, viz, the jute presses of Mr. J. Nicholas, Tanbazar, and of Messrs. Alexander and Company, Sital Lakhya, and the jute factory of Messrs. Watt Brothers and Company, Madanganj, were not inspected. An explanation of the omission to inspect these factories will be called for. It is reported that the results of inspections were generally satisfactory, and that the suggestions of the inspecting officers as regards sanitary arrangements, fencing of machinery, and other matters were, as a rule, readily attended to by the mill managers.

4. Sanitary arrangements and ventilation.—The sanitary condition of the factories and the sanitary arrangements in them continued to be generally satisfactory. Factories were, as a rule, well ventilated, and proper steps were taken by mill managers to keep them clean.

5. Quarters for operatives.—There is still much that is unsatisfactory in the reports received this year. The Superintendent, Campbell Hospital, made certain remarks with regard to the overcrowded and insanitary condition of the bustis in Cossipore-Chitpur. The Magistrate of the 24-Parganas, to whom the matter was referred, reports, however, that he visited some of these bustis where cases of plague had occurred, and was generally satisfied with their cleanliness. The Civil Medical Officer of Serampore states that the mill hands there are mostly low-class up-country people who habitually neglect all rules of sanitation, with the result that their bustis become hot-beds of disease. Similarly, the Magistrate of Howrah writes that the mill operatives, chiefly from Bihar and the North-Western Provinces, live in ill-ventilated huts specially set apart for them. They cluster in hundreds on undrained sites, and are a source of danger to others. These men are for the most part drawn from country villages where rules of sanitation are unknown; and it is not strange that they should keep to the rustic methods to which alone they are accustomed. On the other hand, all the best mills in the neighbourhood of Calcutta have constructed excellent quarters for their coolies. They find it profitable to do so. Even rustics of the Upper Provinces prefer clean, tidy, healthy dwellings, if they can get them, and the mill which provides these will always command the best supply of the best labour. For this reason, that good housing of the mill hands is to the true interest and advantage of the mills themselves, the Lieutenant-Governor has the hope that the example of the better mills will quickly spread. Meanwhile the Magistrates of Howrah and Serampore will use all their influence to that end.

6. Vaccination of operatives.—As a rule no one is admitted into a factory unless he has been vaccinated. Why the practice is not invariably insisted on appears from the following remarks of the Magistrate of Howrah:—

"The up-country part of the population is, however, averse to vaccination, and unprotected persons are everywhere sufficiently numerous to be a great source of danger when small-pox appears. Attempts to get managers of factories to use their influence in this matter have not, as a rule, been successful. It appears to me that there is a great and, I think, excessive tenderness on the part of managers in doing anything to arouse the prejudices of their employés, and this has undoubtedly been increased by the scares involving a temporary loss of labour which have occurred in recent years. In some respects it seems to me that this is pushed beyond the limits of real prudence. I mean that the employés learn to count on getting their own way and that future trouble is thereby stored up"

7. Water-supply.—The water-supply in most factories, though drawn from various sources was, as reported last year, generally satisfactory.

8. General health of the operatives.—The general health of the operatives was good during the year. A few cases of cholera occurred at the Pottery Works of Messrs. Burn and Company at Raniganj, and in the Narayanganj cooly lines in the district of Dacca; but these occurrences were not due to any negligence on the part of the managers to adopt precautionary steps. The Commissioner of the Presidency Division has made the following observations on this subject:—

"The general health of the operatives was, on the whole, good. During the latter half-year, malarial fever prevailed in some quarters. There was an outbreak of low malarial fever at the Budge-Budge and the Clive Jute Mills. Dr. Comley, who was especially appointed to report about this, considered that the prevalence of the disease was for the most part due to the insanitary condition of the bustis near those mills. He suggested certain remedies, and steps are now being taken for the improvement of the bustis on the lines suggested."

9. Wages and general condition of the operatives.—There was no material change during the year under review in the rates of wages paid to different classes of operatives, which are generally higher than those prevailing for agricultural labour in the neighbourhood. It is, however, to be borne in mind that the coolies recruited from the North-Western Provinces and Bihar come here to save the greatest sum of money in the shortest time. They rigidly limit their expenditure to the lowest sum necessary to support, not health, but life. They live in the meanest huts, and eat the worst food, because these are the cheapest. Hence there is no necessary connection between the wages received by them, and their physical condition. Last year it was stated that the condition of the operatives in the Kajla Silk Filature was poor, though the rate of wages paid was fair. The Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division reports that during the year under report the operatives in this factory received good wages in comparison with those received by labourers employed on other works. Their condition is reported to have been tolerable.

10. Employment of women and children.—The rules regarding the employment of women and children were duly observed. Light work such as spinning, weaving, &c., was given to them. Women and children were employed in large numbers in jute and cotton mills and presses, where the system of work was carried on mainly by shifts or sets, with intervals of rest and general and occasional holidays. Special care was taken not to admit children of doubtful ages until they were examined and passed by the certifying surgeons. Accidents to children in cleaning the machinery when it was in motion were very few, and these were due to disobedience of the factory rules.

With regard to the improper employment of children, Mr. Duke, Magistrate of Howrah, on two or three occasions detected children under age working in certain jute mills. The excuse invariably was that their presence was unauthorised; that they had come with food for their parents. He remarks that it is against the interest of the managers to enrol children in their books as workers until they are worth the pay of their class; hence there is a strong temptation to let them hang about the mills and pick up the necessary knowledge beforehand. He suggests as the best remedy the absolute prohibition of the presence of such children in rooms in which work is going on—a prohibition perhaps hardly required by the present dimensions of the evil.

The Special Inspector has made the following remarks on this subject:—

"As several fatal accidents have happened in jute mills to women working at the softeners, I think it would not unduly hamper the managers if women were forbidden to work at these machines, at least at the feed-end: the work is decidedly arduous, and bangles on their arms and wrists, and anklets on the feet, have, on several occasions, been the direct cause of fatal accidents. In the majority of mills only men are employed for this work."

The fatal accidents to women in jute mills were this year very numerous, and these remarks will be commended to the managers of all jute mills.

11. Fencing of machinery.—The machinery in the factories is generally reported to have been properly fenced. The following remarks are quoted from the report of the Special Inspector of Factories:—

"It will be seen from the list of fatal accidents that several have occurred again at the jute-softener. I have always considered this machine one of the most dangerous to work at, and years ago recommended that automatic travelling tables should be fitted at both ends, and thus avoid the necessity of placing the jute by hand near the rollers. I inquired into the cause of the last accident at this machine, which occurred at the Sibpur Jute Mill, and it appears that the woman allowed jute to become entangled with her foot. I calculate that six or eight seconds must have elapsed before her foot entered the rollers, and had any of the workers about (and there were numbers of them) thrown over the lever to stop the machine, no accident would have happened; but it transpired that many hearing her screams rushed away, and those that came to her assistance simply pulled at her: not one having the sense to throw over the lever. I do not think anything further can be done to guard the machine, but, as already suggested, women might be forbidden to work at the 'softener.'

"A fatal accident occurred at the Bengal Spinning and Weaving Mill, whereby the oil-man lost his life when oiling the bearings of the first-motion pulley. I regret that I did not specially specify a guard to be placed near this bearing, as I had always considered such places dangerous. I note from my back inspection report the following passage, with reference to this factory, dated 12th May 1896:—

'Nothing has been done to place a hand rail from the engine-room to the first and second-motion pulleys, the bearings of which have to be oiled and examined by walking along a narrow plank saturated with oil: any slip might result fatally.'

"At my subsequent inspections hand-rails had been erected, but an additional guard in this place would have been some help when oiling, although in large steamers the engineers are compelled to oil the engines with less guards than mill engines are provided with, and frequently in very rough weather."

12. Accidents.—The number of accidents that occurred during the year was 553 as against 651 and 493 during the two preceding years. Two hundred and seventy-nine were of a serious nature, and 246 were of a slight nature; and 28 proved fatal, nine more than in any previous year.

The following is a list of the more notable of the fatal accidents:—

(1) One man was killed by being jammed when shunting wagons on the East Indian Railway workshop.

(2) A girl (four years of ago) was found dead under a bundle of twist yarn at the Baranagore Mill (North).

(3) A man was killed at the Khardah Mill working at the jute-softener: his arm was torn out at the shoulder.

(4) A woman was killed at the jute-softener in the Clive Jute Mill: the jute became entangled in a bracelet she wore, and drew her arm into the rollers.

(5) One man was killed at the softener machine in the Shamnagore Jute Mill.

(6) A man was killed at the Victoria Jute Mill; jute having lapped his body, he was drawn into the jute-softener.

(7) A woman engaged in feeding the softener at the Sibpur Jute Mill got some jute entangled round her foot, and the leg was drawn into the rollers.

(8) One man died at the Bally Mills from scalds he received by opening the man-hole of a boiler (for boiling grass or rags) before all the steam had been exhausted.

(9) An oil-man was killed at the Sibpur Jute Mill when engaged in oiling the mill engine: he was knocked over by the crank and crushed.

(10) One man (a prisoner) in the Bhagalpur Jail was killed in endeavouring to replace a belt on the pulley: he was caught by the belt and carried round the shaft.

(11) One man was killed at the Dunbar Cotton Mill by replacing a belt: he was carried round the shaft and received injuries, from which he died.

(12) The oil-man at the Bengal Spinning and Weaving Company was killed when oiling the first-motion pulley shaft: the ropes must have caught some loose clothing and severed the legs from the body.

(13) One man was killed by a fall when oiling a shaft at the Ganges Jute Mill.

(14) A woman was killed in the Howrah Mill by a trolly accidentally knocking her down and running over her.

(15) } These men were killed at the Mathematical Instrument Department on 16th February 1898, by an explosion of gas. The men were searching for an escape of gas, and finding a small locked godown smelling strongly of gas, went inside and struck a light causing the explosion. Ventilators have since been put in.

13. Prosecutions.—There were three prosecutions under the Factory Act during the year under report. The proprietors of the Jheel Press at Cossipore in the 24-Parganas were prosecuted under section 15 (g) of the Factories Act for neglecting to keep their latrine in a cleanly state and on conviction, they were fined Rs. 50. The Manager of the Sura Jute Mill in the same district was prosecuted under section 15 (i) of the Act for neglecting to send notice of an accident either to the Magistrate or to the Police. On conviction, he was fined Rs. 32. The Manager of the Magra Bone Factory in the district of Hooghly was prosecuted for neglecting to give the notice required by section 14 of the Factories Act, and on conviction was fined Rs. 40.

"RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATION AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1898-99."

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 5th August 1899.

RESOLUTION—No. 4557 Mis.

READ—

The Report on the Government Cinchona Plantation and Factory in Bengal for the year 1898-99.

Read also—

The Report for 1897-98 and the Resolution of Government recorded thereon.

THE rainfall for the year was normal. The low temperature which prevailed in January 1899, did considerable injury to the nursery beds of the Mungpoo Division, and the mortality among the seedling plants was so great that the proposed extension of the plantation for the coming year will have to be considerably curtailed. The number of trees uprooted at the plantation for their bark was 469,440 against 245,109 in the previous year, while 170,136 young trees were planted out. The result of the year's operations was that the total number of living plants (excluding the nursery stock, which amounted to 138,080) at the close of the year was 2,179,245.

2. The crop of the year amounted to 236,098 lbs. of dry bark, all of which was obtained from the trees uprooted in the Government plantations in Sikkim. The bulk of the bark was of the quinine-producing sort, and, with the exception of 1,003¼ lbs. supplied to medical depôts or sold to Government officers and to the public, the whole crop was, as usual, made over to the cinchona factory for manufacture into quinine and febrifuge. Besides the bark obtained from cropping, 131,615 lbs. of bark were purchased from private plantations in Sikkim and Southern India. The Superintendents of Cinchona Cultivation, Bengal and Madras, met at a conference to consider the question of the relationship of the Bengal and Madras factories, respectively, towards the bark market in Southern India, and a definite understanding was come to regarding future purchases of bark in that locality.

3. The outturn of the factory was 10,335 lbs. of sulphate of quinine and 3,921 lbs. of cinchona febrifuge against 10,149 and 4,075 lbs., respectively, in 1897-98. The following statement compares the issues of the year with those of the preceding year :—

The decrease in the issues of sulphate of quinine is due to a diminished demand on the part of the medical depôts in the Bengal and Punjab Commands, to the transfer to the Madras factory of the obligation to supply the North-Western Provinces with the drug, and to the falling off in the demand by Government officers and medical missions for distribution to the poor. The decrease of 404½ lbs. in the issues of cinchona febrifuge is attributed to the fact that Government officers took smaller supplies than in the previous year. The stock of sulphate of quinine in hand at the close of the year was greater by 1,569 lbs. than it was at the close of the year 1897-98.

4. The following statement compares the receipts from the sale of sulphate of quinine, cinchona febrifuge, cinchona bark, and other products of the plantation during the last two years :—

5. The expenditure on the plantation amounted to Rs. 58,472 against Rs. 66,509 in the previous year, the decrease being chiefly in the temporary establishment and in the salaries of European assistants. The amount spent on account of the factory fell from Rs. 89,278 to Rs. 65,468. Of this reduction however, Rs. 25,756 was due to smaller purchases of bark in Madras, and the Superintendent points out that this cannot be regarded as a true saving as it would have been to the advantage of the factory to spend the full allotment of half a lakh.

6. The cash receipts show a surplus over cash expenditure of Rs. 35,579; but, owing to the fall in the price of bark, there has been a large decrease in the value of the stock in hand; and Dr. Prain estimates the net profits at Rs. 10,879 as against Rs. 11,632 last year. Under the circumstances this must be held to be satisfactory.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank Major Prain, and also Mr. R. Pantling, the Deputy Superintendent of the Cinchona Plantations, for their efficient management of the plantation and factory during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

F. A. SLACK,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE TRIENNIAL REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE CHARITABLE DISPENSARIES IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1896, 1897-98.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.—MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 7th August 1899.

RESOLUTION—No. 3991Medl

The Triennial Report on the working of the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the years 1896, 1897 and 1898.

The Triennial Report for the years 1893, 1894 and 1895, and the annual returns for 1896 and 1897 and the Resolutions recorded upon them.

THE Triennial Report was due to Government on the 1st of May and was submitted on the 3rd of July. It is explained that the delay is due to the necessarily large volume of statistics required and the difficulty of obtaining correct figures from the local officers.

2. Number of Dispensaries.—The number of dispensaries rose from 450 in 1895 to 492 in 1898. There is a gratifying increase in the number of Local Fund dispensaries, which have increased from 215 to 289 during the period under review. To this total the District Board of Backergunge contributed no less than 14 new dispensaries. In the same district a system of medical relief was inaugurated which Colonel Hendley rightly regards as being almost as important as the opening of new dispensaries. This is the bringing of medical aid to the homes of the people by entrusting simple medicine chests to the headmen of villages remote from dispensaries. Another system favourably noticed by Colonel Hendley is that by which a medical officer visits certain centres at short fixed intervals. This system has been worked with success in Ranaghat by private agency, and is said to be employed extensively in the more sparsely populated parts of Russia. Both systems seem well suited to Bengal, and the Lieutenant-Governor will be glad if the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals can arrange to give them a more extended trial.

3. Administration.—An unsatisfactory feature of the administration noticed in the last report was the inferiority of the subordinate medical staff relatively to that of other provinces. During the past three years important steps have been taken towards remedying this, both by improving supervision and by the introduction of several necessary reforms. Of these the most noticeable is the improvement in the position and prospects of Civil Assistant Surgeons. Seven Civil Surgeoncies have recently been allotted to this class of medical officers, and a senior grade on Rs. 300 per mensem has been created. Unemployed pay, which was felt as a serious hardship, has also been abolished. These changes should go far towards increasing the attractiveness of this branch of the service.

In the matter of the medical education of Hospital Assistants an important advance has been made by extending the course of instruction in vernacular medical schools from three to four years, with the special object of including medico-legal work in the curriculum.

It was noted in the last resolution as a serious defect in medical administration that the power given to the supporters of private dispensaries of engaging any medical men they chose often led to the appointment of unsatisfactory persons. This has since been remedied by making all such appointments subject to the approval of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals. Colonel Hendley is now of opinion that still more power in this respect should be put into the hands of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, and that he should be given authority to remove any man whom he considers incompetent, and to veto the removal of any incumbent. It may, however, be doubted whether the advantages to be gained by a more efficient and centralised control would not be more than counterbalanced by the alienation of sympathy and interest of those who support the institutions, and who would feel that their powers and rights had been impaired. Another change which has been made is the fixing of an average rate of contribution from local bodies for the loan of Government Medical Officers. Instead of paying the actual grade pay of the officer appointed—a charge which often weighed heavily on their resources when a senior officer was appointed to a poor dispensary or was promoted while in charge of it—they are now required to pay a fixed contribution irrespective of the grade of the officer in charge. The advantages of this change are obvious, and the system has worked excellently in practice.

4. Inspections.—The number of inspections of outlying dispensaries by Civil Surgeons rose from 391 in 1896 to 409 in 1897 and 420 in 1898. Colonel Hendley has paid particular attention to the question of inspections and has treated the subject in a thoroughly practical manner. While reducing where necessary the number of inspections previously prescribed, he has taken great pains to ensure that inspections shall in all cases be thorough, and such as will be of practical assistance to the Civil Surgeons' subordinates. Since his appointment in April 1898, Colonel Hendley has himself visited nearly all the important civil stations in Bengal, and subsequently to the amalgamation of the Sanitary Commissioner's office with that of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, he has had the benefit of Major Dyson's assistance in this branch of work.

5. Management by local bodies.—The number of dispensaries managed by local bodies during the last three years was as follows:—

	1896.	1897.	1898.
Municipalities	122	123	125
District Boards	138	153	157
Joint	1	2	3

In the last Triennial Report the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals had to complain that local bodies generally showed a want of interest with regard to the management of dispensaries. Colonel Hendley now reports an improvement in this respect. He has, however, still some complaints to make, of which the most important is given as follows in his own words:—

"Municipal contribution towards the maintenance of dispensaries is fitful, and is regulated in accordance with the amount of private subscriptions, &c.; that is to say, if the income of a dispensary from these and other sources is sufficient just to meet its bare requirements, the Municipality expends nothing from municipal funds upon it No great improvement or reform can be hoped for unless it is laid down that, no matter whatever the income from local sources may be, the municipalities must contribute a certain percentage of their income towards the maintenance, improvement, etc., of the medical charities under their care, or that they must meet all ordinary charges, leaving most extensions and all those extra expenses which go to make up the success of a medical institution to the charity of the public."

The Inspector-General has already submitted proposals to Government on this point, and the matter has been separately considered and orders passed. While fully sympathising with Colonel Hendley's laudable desire to remove the deficiencies in dispensary administration which do no doubt exist, the view of the Lieutenant-Governor is that the proper remedy is to be found, not in fixing a minimum for all municipalities, whose needs and resources must vary according to their circumstances, but in watching individual cases of neglect, and in stimulating expenditure in such cases by bringing them to the notice of the local officers. To adopt Colonel Hendley's proposal would be to check the flow of private charity by declaring that it shall in no case whatever suffice. It is to be observed that additional motive power in this matter has been given to municipal expenditure on medical charities by the amendment in 1896 of section 69 of the Municipal Act, under which medical expenditure is now under the control of the Commissioner. That municipalities are on the whole not backward relatively in contributing to dispensaries is shown by the fact that in 1897-98 the municipalities of the North-Western Provinces with a total income of nearly 45 lakhs contributed Rs. 60,000 to dispensaries, while in Bengal out of an income of 38 lakhs municipalities contributed Rs. 1,86,000. Moreover, the figures given in paragraph 12 of Colonel

These statistics have been obtained from the collation of figures in the now amalgamated offices of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals and the Sanitary Commissioner, and have been corrected from the later figures received in the separate report of the latter on sanitation. It will be seen that only a very small percentage of cholera and small-pox cases are taken to dispensaries for treatment. The largest number of admissions, as is natural, is due to malarial fevers. In this connection it is noticeable that during the period under review the quantity of quinine sold at post offices fell from 31,867 packets in 1896 to 27,905 in 1897 and 24,295 in 1898. This subject is engaging the special attention of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals.

9. Surgical operations.—The division of operations into "major" and "minor" which was followed in previous reports has now been abolished under the orders of the Government of India. The consensus of professional opinion in the province is that the present system of classification is in several ways defective, and that opinion is now being considered by the Government of India. The progress made during the last three years is shown by the following statement:—

	Number of operations.
1896	124,067
1897	135,505
1898	137,123
Average 1893 to 1895	105,740

Large as has been the increase in the number of operations during the present period, it still remains far below that in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab. Colonel Hendley does not accept the explanation which is frequently given that the inhabitants of Bengal are averse to surgical operations, and ascribes the comparatively low figures in Bengal to lack of attention on the part of medical subordinates to this branch of work. The remarks contained in his circulars and inspection notes which are annexed to the report show that he has given special attention to this subject, and the Lieutenant-Governor will await the results with interest.

In the selected list of surgical operations performed by individual officers, the list is headed among Civil Surgeons by Major T. R. Macdonald, I.M.S., with 419 operations, Lieutenant-Colonel A. Tomes, I.M.S., with 413, and Lieutenant-Colonel Macrae, I.M.S., with 406. Among Civil Assistant Surgeons Babu Bepin Vehary Gupta stands first with 482, and among Civil Hospital Assistants Babu Nibaran Chunder Sen and Babu Basanta Kumar Chakerbati performed 136 and 101 respectively.

10. Class and sex of patients.—The sexes of patients treated during the period under review are given as follows:—

	Men.	Women.	Children.	Total.
1896 ...	1,603,533	423,238	657,839	2,684,610
1897 ...	1,711,742	458,670	663,700	2,834,112
1898 ...	1,762,033	462,412	655,400	2,879,845
Total ...	5,077,308	1,344,320	1,976,939	8,398,567
Total for 1893, 1894, and 1895 ...	3,901,382	1,060,813	1,729,562	6,691,757

The continuous rise in the number of females is particularly satisfactory, and shows clearly the increasing confidence of the people in the dispensaries. The proportion of females is slightly lower in 1898 than in the previous year, owing to the credence given to rumours that Government plague measures in some way affected the honour and safety of women. Even in this year, however, there is an increase in the total numbers treated. The number of Hindus treated in 1898 was 1,735,605 as against 1,059,108 Musalmans.

11. Finance.—The following table compares the income and expenditure of the dispensaries for the last three years:—

The main sources of income are of course contributions from local funds and private subscriptions. Of these, the former has already been noticed. As regards subscriptions, Colonel Hendley now renews a suggestion previously made by Dr. Harvey in 1894, that subscriptions for special objects tending to the improvement of comfort in dispensaries should be kept distinct from the fund administered by the local managing authorities, and should be administered solely by the Civil Surgeons.

He bases this proposal on the fact that in many cases private subscriptions to a dispensary show a falling off after it has been taken over by a Municipality, the reason given being that people are unwilling to pay twice, once in the form of subscriptions, and once in the form of taxation, for the same charity, and that they consider that their subscriptions, intended by them for a special charitable purpose, are merely applied to the relief of local taxation. Colonel Hendley's proposal has been separately submitted, and is now engaging the attention of Government.

In the meantime it may be remarked that though in some cases there has undoubtedly been a falling off in subscriptions of the nature indicated, still their total amount in 1898 was higher than it has ever been before, and aggregated in that year over 2¼ lakhs. The income derived from subscriptions in the North-Western Provinces is slightly over 1 lakh; and after making all due allowances for the difference that exists between the two provinces in wealth and population, it cannot be said that the standard of charity in Bengal is unduly low. On one point in this connection the Lieutenant-Governor is altogether unable to agree with the Inspector-General. Referring to the maintenance of private dispensaries by wealthy individuals, Colonel Hendley says:—

"These are not charitable institutions, but such as it is either incumbent on such persons from their position to maintain for their tenants, servants, or employés, or which they desire to keep up for their own convenience. In all these cases the individual is under the same obligation as, and takes the place of, Government. The inclusion of such expenditure under the heading of 'Subscriptions' is likely to lead to a false impression of the amount of charity which prevails in the province."

The Lieutenant-Governor cannot share this view. He has frequently had much pleasure in publicly acknowledging the munificence of the landed nobility and wealthy classes in this respect, and would on no account wish to convey to them the impression that their generous donations are not received in the spirit in which they are offered. Charity is, it is true, an obligation incumbent upon all alike, but all do not equally appreciate the obligation, and the greater credit is due to those who do.

Deducting the amount invested there was an increase of expenditure of Rs. 66,953 in 1896 and of Rs 78,435 in 1897, and a decrease of Rs. 27,558 in 1898. Under the head of "Diet" there was an increase of Rs. 9,484 in 1896 and of Rs. 28,458 in 1897, and a decrease of Rs. 26,094 in 1898. The variations are accounted for by the famine of 1896-97.

The amount spent on European medicines rose by Rs. 1,743 in 1896, by Rs 4,952 in 1897 and by Rs. 10,094 in 1898. The large increase in 1898 was due to the purchase of new surgical implements and appliances. The system introduced in 1894 of obtaining the supply of medical stores from Messrs. Burgoyne, Burbidge and Company, of London, and tinctures and other preparations from Calcutta has been generally approved by Civil Surgeons, but has not led to the decrease in expenditure which was anticipated in the last Resolution.

12. The office of Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals was held during the three years by Colonel G. C. Ross, from 1st to 27th January 1896 and from 9th May 1896 to 2nd February 1897; by Colonel G. Hutcheson, from 28th January 1896 to 8th May 1896; by Colonel B. Franklin, from 3rd February 1897 to 27th March 1897; by Colonel J. H. Newman, from 30th March 1897 to 9th April 1898; and by Colonel T. H. Hendley from 10th May 1898 to date.

The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to Colonel Hendley and his predecessors for the care and attention that they have bestowed upon the administration of dispensaries, and to Colonel Hendley in particular for the present very interesting report. The Lieutenant-Governor also wishes to express his appreciation of the work done by the Civil Surgeons and the subordinate medical staff, whose skill and energy have led to the general improvement which has been made in the period under review, and on whom Sir John Woodburn relies for its continuance in the future.

General Summary.—There has been general but comparatively moderate rain during the week. A break has now set in and has been very beneficial to the transplantation of winter rice. The bhadoi crops in the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions have been seriously damaged, and the present break may help to a partial revival only. Reports of the sugarcane crop are good except in parts of Lower Bengal, where it has suffered from excessive rain. The harvesting of early rice and jute is going on. Cattle-disease continues in some districts. Fodder is generally abundant. There was a rise in the price of common rice in the districts of Bihar and Chota Nagpur; elsewhere it was practically stationary.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·6° higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew Standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; t, thunder; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; lr, lightning reflection.

CITY OF BOMBAY IMPROVEMENT TRUST.

ISSUE OF Rs. FIFTY LAKHS FOUR PER CENT. GUARANTEED DEBENTURES, REPAYABLE IN SIXTY YEARS.

WITH the sanction of the Government of India, and under the provisions of sections 52-59 of the City of Bombay Improvement Act, 1898, the Board of Trustees for the Improvement of the City of Bombay hereby invite tenders for a loan of Rs. fifty lakhs, bearing interest at four per cent., repayable in sixty years, by a Sinking Fund to be invested (as required by sections 55 and 56) half yearly in public securities.

The interest and sinking fund charges as aforesaid will be a charge on the property and revenues of the Board, which include, in addition to the properties for the purchase of which the loan is chiefly required, the rents of certain vacant lands in the City of Bombay, valued in the Schedules of the said Act at Rs. 91,01,551, and an annual contribution from the Municipal Fund, not exceeding 2 per cent., on the total rateable value of all buildings and lands in the city (exclusive of buildings exclusively occupied for public worship or for charitable purposes), which contribution is estimated for 1899-1900 at Rs. 4,75,000, besides other receipts reserved to the Board by the provisions of the Act which will be developed by the operations to be undertaken.

The interest on these debentures will constitute a charge on the revenue of the Board prior to the charge for interest payable to the Secretary of State for India in Council and to the Corporation on and from 1st April 1909 in respect of the debt on account of the lands vesting in the Board (section 54)

The payment of interest on these debentures and the setting aside and investment of the sinking fund required for their repayment are guaranteed by the provisions of the Statute (assented to by the Governor-General of India), whereby it is directed that, in the event of any default being made by the Board in any payment of interest, or in the event of the Board failing to set aside and invest any sum required to form the sinking fund, the Accountant-General of Bombay, or other officer for the time being performing the duties of the office of the said Accountant-General, shall make such payment or set aside and invest such sum as may be required to be invested (section 80).

The Board reserve to themselves the right of refusing tenders if they consider the rates offered to be too low; but, subject to this reservation, allotments will be made in full to the highest tenderers, and rateably to the tenderers offering the lowest rate accepted by the Board.

These debentures will be issued for sums of Rs. 500, or multiples of Rs. 500, as may be required; they will be repayable to holder in sixty years, and will bear interest at 4 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly.

2 per cent. of the amount tendered to be deposited on application, and the balance on or before Saturday, the 30th September 1899, from which date interest will accrue.

The deposit of 2 per cent. will be returned if no allotment is made, and it will be forfeited if an allotment is not fully taken up on the last date named.

Tenders will be received by the Secretary, Bombay Improvement Trust, up to one o'clock P.M. (gun-fire) on Thursday, the 31st August 1899, and they will thereafter be opened in the presence of the Chairman of the Improvement Trust.

Printed forms of tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary.

By order of the Board,

W. N. SHILSTONE, Secretary.

Office of the Improvement Trust, Albert Buildings, Hornby Road, Bombay, the 7th August 1899.

LOAN NOTIFICATION.

THE Commissioners of Calcutta are prepared, with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council given under section 404 of Act II (B C.) of 1888, to open a Debenture Loan for Rs 25,00,000 (twenty-five lakhs) on the security of the rates, taxes and dues imposed and levied under the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1888.

2. The debentures will have a currency of twenty-five years from the 1st November 1899, and will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, payable on the 1st May and the 1st November of each year.

3. The form of the debentures will be that given in the Twelfth Schedule of Act II (B.C) of 1888.

4. No debentures will be issued for any sum less than Rs. 500, and above that amount debentures will be issued only for multiples of Rs. 100.

5 Tenders for the whole or any part of the above loan of Rs. 25,00,000 will be received by the Secretary to the Corporation up to 2 o'clock P.M. on Wednesday, the 6th September 1899.

6. Each tender must be made out in the form annexed to this Notification, and enclosed in a sealed cover addressed to the Secretary to the Corporation, and superscribed—"Tender for Municipal Loan of 1899-1900."

7. Each tender must be accompanied by an earnest deposit in Government promissory notes, Calcutta municipal debentures, currency-notes or cheques for not less than 3 per cent. of the amount tendered.

8. When a tender is accepted, the earnest deposit, when made in currency-notes or cheques, will be held as a payment in part of the amount tendered, and will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, from the date of acceptance of the tender, provided that the whole amount tendered is paid up in the manner hereinafter prescribed; but no debenture will issue for the amount of the earnest deposit so long as the entire amount of the tender is not paid, but debentures may be issued for each instalment paid in full, the earnest deposit not being included in any but the last instalment.

9. The earnest deposits on tenders, which may not be accepted, will be returned on application, and no interest will be payable on such deposits. If an allotment after being made is not taken up, or the full amount allotted is not paid as hereinafter prescribed, the earnest deposit will be forfeited.

10. The rate at which a tender is made must be specified in rupees, or rupees and annas: but not in any fraction of an anna. If a rate containing a fraction of an anna is inserted in any tender, such fraction will be struck out, and the tender treated as if the rate did not contain such fraction of an anna. A tender in which the rate is not specified in rupees or rupees and annas will be rejected as null and void.

11. The whole amount of each allotment will be divided into three equal instalments as follows, payable into the Bank of Bengal:—

Instalment	I.	As near as possible to 33⅓	per cent.	payable on	22nd September 1899.
Do.	II.	Ditto	33⅓	ditto	6th October 1899.
Do.	III.	Ditto	33⅓*	ditto	27th October 1899.

N.B.—The word "as near as possible" are used in this paragraph for the purpose of making each instalment an exact multiple of Rs. 100 for debentures in excess of Rs. 500.

12 Parties, whose tenders are accepted, will have the option of paying all or any of the instalments before the dates specified above and will receive interest from the date of such payment.

13. Anticipation interest will be paid on all instalments from the respective dates on which such instalments are paid into the Bank of Bengal to the 31st October 1899.

14. In the case of two or more tenders at the same lowest rate accepted, a pro rata allotment will be made, but no such allotment will be issued if the amount thus allottable on any tender is less than Rs. 500.

THE LALBAG SUB-DIVISION.

The Hon'ble Raja Ranajit Sinha Bahadur of Nashipur asked :—

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the inconveniences felt by the people residing within the jurisdiction of the old sub-division of Lalbag in the district of Murshidabad owing to the abolition of the said sub-division and to the transfer of the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the thanas of Kalaynganj, now called Nabagram, and Sagardighi to the Kandi and Jangipur sub-divisions respectively, and to the orders recently passed by the District Magistrate withdrawing the powers hitherto been exercised without interruption for over four years by the Honorary Magistrates of Lalbag authorized to sit singly to take cognizance of offences on complaints and Police reports? Has the Government any intention to restore the Lalbag sub-division, and, if not, will the Government be pleased to re-transfer the jurisdiction over the thanas of Nabagram and Sagardighi to the Lalbag civil and criminal courts and to appoint a City Magistrate at Lalbag, or to order the Magistrate of Murshidabad to cancel the orders above referred to?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bolton replied:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor took the opportunity of enquiring locally into the matter referred to by the Hon'ble Member during his recent visit to Murshidabad, and has come to the conclusion that the restoration of the Lalbag subdivision is the most suitable arrangement. Steps will accordingly be taken to re-establish the subdivision, with jurisdiction over the area formerly attached to it."

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE ON ACCOUNT OF ROAD CESS.

The Hon'ble Raja Ranajit Sinha Bahadur of Nashipur, said:—

Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the income derived from road cess and the expenditure incurred from that fund, item by item, in respect of the several districts of Bengal for every year from 1892-93 to 1897-98?

The Hon'ble Mr. Baker replied :—

"I lay on the table a statement showing the income from Road Cess in each district for each of the years 1892-93 to 1895-96.

"As regards expenditure 'incurred from that fund' the question is not clearly understood. Under section 109 of the Cess Act of 1880, the receipts from Road Cess, after payment of the costs of assessment and collection, are payable to the District Fund, and there is no expenditure incurred specifically against them.

"If the Hon'ble Member requires details of expenditure on public works incurred by District Boards, the figures will be collected, but the operation may take some time."

CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL BILL.

THE Hon'ble MR. BAKER moved that the Hon'ble Mr. MACKENZIE and the Hon'ble MR. APCAR be added to the Select Committee on the Calcutta Municipal Bill.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. BAKER also moved that the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE be re-appointed to the Select Committee on the Calcutta Municipal Bill.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BAKER also moved that the Calcutta Municipal Bill be referred back to the Select Committee for further consideration, with reference to the correspondence between the Government of India and the Government of Bengal, which was published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette of the 12th July, 1899, and with instructions to report within two weeks. He said:—

"The object of this motion is to enable the Select Committee to consider the views expressed by the Government of India in their letter No. 93 of the 17th June last, which have received the acceptance of the Local Government.

"After the remarks that have fallen from His Honour the President, it is not necessary for me to enlarge upon the proposals put forward by the Government of India. Those proposals and the reasons for them have been before the Public since the 12th of last month, and are no doubt familiar to all Members of this Council. They are four in number. Firstly, it is proposed to reduce the number of Ward Commissioners from 50 to 25, so that the Corporation shall consist of 50 Commissioners, of whom one half are elected at ward elections and one half are appointed by Government or nominated by special constituencies. This plan follows generally the model of the Bombay Corporation. Secondly, it is proposed to follow the same model in respect of the constitution of the General Committee, and to provide that of the total number of 12 members, eight shall be elected by the entire Corporation and four shall be appointed by Government. Thirdly, it is proposed to enact provisions to secure that the proportion of the General Committee which is to be elected by the entire Corporation, shall be a strictly fair and proportionate representation of the constituents of the electoral body. And fourthly, it is proposed to lay down rules for the appointment of Special and Sub-Committees which shall secure their being truly representative.

"These proposals, if adopted, will involve comparatively few changes in the Bill as now amended, and the Select Committee should have no difficulty in coming to a decision upon them within the time allowed.

"There is, however, another point as to which I wish to say a few words; for although it arises directly out of the proposals of the Government of India, it is not expressly mentioned in the correspondence. I refer to the initial arrangements for constituting the first body of Commissioners under the new Bill. It will be within the recollection of Members that the Select Committee proposed that the 25 Commissioners appointed by Government or nominated by the Chamber of Commerce, the Trades Association, and the Port Trust should all vacate their seats on the 1st April, 1900, the date on which it is expected that the Bill will come into force: but that, at the instance of the members representing the Corporation, it was provided that the 50 elected Ward Commissioners under the present Act should retain their seats until 1st April, 1901, the date up to which they would have been entitled to sit if there were no change in the law. This arrangement was urged upon us with a view to avoid the trouble and expense of holding a fresh general election in advance of the usual date. As the original Bill proposed no change in the number of the Commissioners, there seemed no good reason why the wishes of the representatives of the Corporation should not be acceded to: and for this reason the Select Committee agreed to adopt them.

"But if, in accordance with the views of the Government of India, it is now decided to reduce the number of elected Commissioners to 25, it is no longer possible to allow the old Ward Commissioners to retain their seats when the new Act comes into force. They will have to vacate their seats, like the nominated Commissioners, and arrangements must be made to constitute an entire new body of Commissioners, who shall hold office from 1st April, 1900. As regards the nominated Commissioners, there is no difficulty. The Bill already provides for their appointment in advance of the necessary date, and no change is required. But as regards the elected Commissioners the matter is less simple. We cannot hold an election under the new Act in advance of the due date, because under the Bill changes have been made in the procedure for holding elections. The preparation of an election-roll has been made compulsory, and the compilation of this must be taken up in the month of September preceding the elections. These conditions could not, for obvious reasons, be carried out in respect of the first general election if that is held before the Act comes into general operation. It has accordingly been suggested that the first general election should be held in March, 1900, under the provisions of the present Act of 1888, with the proviso that each ward shall elect only one Commissioner instead of two; and each Commissioner so elected shall hold office under the new Act, from the 1st April, 1900, for the usual term of three years. This is the solution of the difficulty which commends itself to Government as at present advised, and it will be laid before the Select Committee, with a view to the necessary amendments being made in the Bill. Government, however, does not desire to bind itself to this plan, and if any Member has a better solution to offer, it will be open to the Committee to consider it."

The Hon'ble MR. APCAR said:—"I crave the indulgence of the Council, which I am sure will be extended to me by yourself, in consideration of the circumstance that I appear here for the first time to-day, and because of the present juncture relating to the great and engrossing subject which Your Honour has referred to, namely, the Calcutta Municipal Bill.

"If I am in order, I desire to explain, in order that I may not be put into a false position, the reason why I ask for an adjournment of the Council to enable me to prepare myself to represent the interests I have come here to represent. Your Honour is aware that there have been circumstances that delayed my appointment as a Member of this Council being made, and as a matter of fact it was not made until the 18th July last. I could not be expected before my appointment was made to begin to prepare myself for the consideration of the subjects to be brought before this Council. I have found that my attention has been required to be given to an overwhelmning mass of material which has occupied my time wholly. I have been most anxious to learn what the course of business at this meeting would be, but I have for various reasons which are known to you, Sir, wholly failed to learn anything with certainty until Thursday last; and therefore I could not, I dared not, stop my study of the subject as a whole to give my mind to the preparation of any particular matter. I do not seek to attach blame to any one for my being left uninformed as to the business to be brought forward. I certainly have not, on my part, been remiss in any way, and the fact remains that I tried my best and I received no notice of the business until very lately. And, lastly, my attention was drawn to certain points of detail in the Bill which I have not had time to consider, but to which I have thought that I ought to give my attention with the view of proposing amendments to help the Council. That distracted my attention and threw me back, and I am now in the position that I have not got the papers I require and I am not prepared. If Your Honour desires that I should go on, I shall do so; but I shall be better able to do so if I am allowed an extension of time, and I shall be glad if you, Sir, will see your way to postpone the further consideration of the matter now before the Council to next Saturday. I leave myself entirely in your hands, feeling sure that every consideration will be shown to me, and that Your Honour will do what is right under the circumstances."

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said:—"Gentlemen,—I think it would be the wish of all of you that every reasonable consideration should be given to any Hon'ble Member of this Council, particularly to a newly-joined Member, who has described the difficulties of his position in the very feeling language in which the Hon'ble Mr. Apcar has described his difficulties to you. But I venture to think that the question upon which he and other Hon'ble Members of this Council wish to address us is, after all, however grave, not a very complicated or difficult subject. The issue before us at this moment is simply the proposal of the Government of India as to the alteration in the constitution of the Corporation. These are, as I have said, grave matters in which we are all deeply interested, and upon them there are very strong and differing opinions. But the issue is not one which requiries great study or extremely elaborate application. And therefore I think it will meet all purposes of Hon'ble Members of this Council if, in order to give time to finally prepare themselves upon an issue of this description, I adjourn the Council till Monday. The Council is accordingly so adjourned."

The Council adjourned to Monday, the 7th August, 1899.

CALCUTTA;
The 15th August, 1899.

F. G. WIGLEY,
Assistant Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORTS ON THE ALIPORE AND HAZARIBAGH REFORMATORY SCHOOLS FOR THE YEAR 1898.

No. 483P.—D.

POLITICAL—(Jails).

Dated Darjeeling, the 6th July 1899.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No. 4306, dated 26th April 1898, from the Inspector-General of Jails, submitting the Annual Reports on the Alipore and Hazaribagh Reformatory Schools for 1898.

Read also—

The Reports for the years 1897 and 1896, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

The Report on the Reformatories for the year 1898 was received from the Inspector-General of Jails in print on the 23rd May.

2. The two institutions had, on the last day of 1897, 554 inmates, of whom 212 were at Alipore and 342 at Hazaribagh. The number of boys who were released, or transferred, or who died or escaped was 178, and the admissions were 92; the total number remaining at the end of the year being thus 468, of whom 194 were at Alipore and 274 at Hazaribagh. Of these, 304 were Hindus and 148 Muhammadans; 15 belonged to aboriginal tribes, and 1 was a Native-Christian. The admissions during the year fell off largely, the figure for the previous year being 167 and the average for the five preceding years 135. The decrease was presumably due in a large measure to the use by Magistrates of the provisions of section 31 of Act VIII of 1897. Information on the subject is not, however, available, and the Commissioners of Divisions will be requested to furnish it in future, for incorporation in this report. It is expected that, under the provisions just mentioned, the annual admissions into the Reformatories will be substantially reduced. Rules were issued, under the Act, in February last, defining what youthful offienders should be sent to the Schools by the Courts and regulating the periods of their detention. The number of releases from the institutions was considerably in excess of admissions, including the cases of 40 young boys whom the Government thought it desirable to release under section 14 of the Act, on account of their extreme youth. The Lieutenant-Governor will be obliged if the Commissioners will examine the records in recent admissions to see whether there are cases which might have been more suitably disposed of under section 31. The daily average number of boys was 203·98 at the Alipore School and 311·16 at the Hazaribagh School, as compared with 189·89 and 344·04 respectively in 1897. The general health of the boys was good, although there was an increase, as compared with the previous year, both in the number of admissions to hospitals and in the average number of sick, due, at Alipore, to epidemics of chicken-pox and influenza, and, at Hazaribagh, to an increase in cases of intermittent fever.

3. Offences, Punishments, and Marks.—The total number of offences recorded at Alipore was 217 against 222 in the previous year, and at Hazaribagh 173 against 248. In all, 95 boys, or 46 per cent. of the daily average number of inmates, were punished during the year at Alipore, and 111 or 36 per cent. at Hazaribagh. The Inspector-General reported on the marked divergence in regard to offences and punishments between the two schools which the Lieutenant-Governor commented on in the Resolution on the Report for 1897. The returns showed a continuous decrease in offences at Hazaribagh against a continuous increase at Alipore, and a much higher proportion of "serious" offences, with fewer punishments for such offences at Hazaribagh than at Alipore. The Inspector-General explained that the high proportion of "serious" offences at Hazaribagh was due to thefts of fruit in the garden and attempts to damage looms and otherwise obstruct the new industry of blanket-weaving which was then being introduced, and that the personal influence of Mr. Hill, who has had charge of the Reformatory for many years, probably enables him to maintain discipline with fewer punishments. The matter is not of practical importance, as the Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied that there is no laxity in the management of either School, but the Inspector-General will probably be able to ensure a more uniform classification of offences for the future. Marks for good conduct were earned by 172 boys or 84 per cent. at Alipore, and by 295 boys or 90 per cent. at Hazaribagh. Marks are awarded weekly and entitle the boys to a small money gratuity, half of which may be spent in small luxuries, such as fruits and sweetmeats, while the other half is placed in the Post-office Savings Bank for the benefit of the boys on their release. The advantage of earning marks being thus immediately apparent is said to be well understood and appreciated.

4. Instruction and Gymnastics.—The only change made in the educational system during the year was the discontinuance at Hazaribagh of night school from 6 to 7-30. The Superintendent found that little good resulted from it, and the difficulty in maintaining discipline among the boys while doing their lessons at that hour in a bad light was great. Night school was abandoned at the Alipore Institution in 1897 for similar reasons. Both the Reformatories were visited by the Inspector and Deputy Inspector of Schools of their respective circles. The teaching of drill and gymnastics is reported to have been continued during the year with good effect. At Alipore sports were occasionally held on holidays, and the boys competed for small prizes. The trades taught at Alipore were the same as in the previous year, viz., carpentry, book-binding, cane-work, blacksmith's work, gardening, tin-work, and printing. At Hazaribagh shoe-making and tin-work were discontinued, owing to failure to obtain work to employ the boys engaged in them. Blanket-weaving was also discontinued. The trades remaining are weaving, tailoring, carpentry, blacksmith's work, and gardening. The question of the proper training to be given to the boys at the Reformatories has engaged the Lieutenant-Governor's attention. The results of the enquiries made as to the occupations followed by the boys after their release, as stated in the next paragraph, show a fair proportion of the boys actually earning a living, but very few, indeed, making use of the training which they received at the Schools. The caste system is a serious impediment in the case of Hindu boys, but more of the Muhammadan boys ought to be found employed in the trades taught to them. It is clear that more endeavour must be made to adapt instruction to the hereditary occupation of the boys, and more systematic efforts to obtain employment for them on their discharge. Only then can it be hoped that the instruction given at the schools will result in equipping a larger proportion of the boys for earning a livelihood in after-life. The pursuit of profit in the Reformatory industries is a most laudable object, but it can be carried too far. The first and essential object is to teach boys their own trade, as a trade they are likely to follow on discharge if they are not incorrigibly idle or vicious. The variety of instruction will cost money, but the money must not be grudged. A separate communication will be addressed to the Inspector-General on this subject. He has already interested himself in finding employment for boys taught weaving at Hazaribagh, and the thanks of the Government are due to Mr. Mehta, C.I.E., proprietor of the Empress of India Mill and a member of the Board of the Alipore Reformatory, for consenting to give a trial to some of these boys at his mill on their discharge. Five boys have recently availed themselves of the opportunity thus offered to obtain suitable employment.

5. Character and occupation of released boys.—Of 66 boys discharged from the Alipore School in 1897, 41 were reported to be well conducted, 17 could not be traced, 6 were in jail, 1 was looked on as a suspicious character, and 1 had died. Of 72 boys released from the Hazaribagh School, 27 were well conducted, 7 not traceable, and 5 in jail, 5 were viewed with suspicion, 1 had died, 5 had emigrated to other districts, and 22 were not reported on. The failure to obtain information regarding many of the boys released from this institution was noticed last year, and it should not have recurred. The Inspector-General of Jails is requested to draw the Superintendent's special attention to the point, and to insist on complete reports being punctually submitted in future. The employment of the police to make these enquiries will be discontinued. The boys are likely to be less disposed to evade information as to their residence after release if another agency were employed, and the services of educational inspecting officers and members of village panchayats, as well as of private persons of respectability who may be willing to give their assistance, will be utilised. In the letter from the Home Department, No. 424, dated the 15th September 1898, the Government of India directed that in future annual reports a statement should be furnished showing the industries followed by the boys at present in the schools and by boys after release, contrasting the numbers following agricultural with those following other pursuits. Neither of the school reports gives details as to the number of boys under detention following each of the trades taught. Information on this point is, however, furnished by the Inspector-General of Jails in his forwarding letter. The reports contain a statement showing the occupation of boys after release, but the information regarding those following agriculture is not precise. The head under which the largest number of released boys is shown is that of labourers. A proportion of these is probably engaged in field operations, and in future those so employed should be shown under the head of agriculture. Of the boys discharged in 1897 from both schools (138), only 8 are shown as following the trades taught to them. Of the rest regarding whom information was obtained 63 were in employment of some kind.

6. Manufactures.—The financial results of the manufactures in the schools show a net profit at Alipore of Rs. 9,862-9-6 against Rs 7,098-8-8, and at Hazaribagh of Rs. 9,268-15-2 against Rs. 5,960-0-1, in the previous year. The profit per head of the number employed was Rs. 54-12-8 against Rs. 42-9 in 1897 at Alipore, and Rs. 35-10-4 against Rs. 25-7-7 at Hazaribagh.

7. Financial.—The total cost of the Alipore Reformatory was Rs. 22,062-15-7, and of the Hazaribagh Reformatory Rs. 22,738-1. The cost per head for each boy was Rs. 110-9-5 at the former school and Rs. 73-0-11 at the latter, against Rs. 119-5-3 and Rs. 71-5-2 respectively in 1897. The increased cost per head at Hazaribagh was mainly due to a large issue of new clothing to the boys and the heavier incidence per head of establishment charges on a smaller number of boys.

8. General.—One boy was admitted from Assam during the year. With a view to allow of transfers as a means of maintaining discipline among the guard, orders were issued towards the end of the year sanctioning the amalgamation of the three lowest grades of warders at the Hazaribagh Reformatory with the warder establishment of the Central Jail of that place. The desirability of a similar change at Alipore is under consideration. Sanction was also granted to the renewed entertainment of a Civil Hospital Assistant for the Hazaribagh School. On the reduction of the Hazaribagh Jail from a Central to a District Jail, it was arranged that one of the Civil Hospital Assistants attached to the Jail should also attend on the Reformatory boys, and the appointment of a special medical officer for the school was dispensed with. The increase of work in the Jail, consequent on its reconversion into a Central Jail, necessitated the renewal of the separate appointment for the Reformatory. The number of visits to the Alipore School paid by members of the Board of Management was 39 against 37 in the previous year. At Hazaribagh 10 visits were paid by members of the Committee against 5 in 1897. Captain Maynard succeeded Captain Nott as Superintendent of the Reformatory during the year, and has submitted the report on that institution.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the Reports and a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the President of the Board of Management of the Reformatory School at Alipore, for information and for communication to the members of the Board.

Letters No. 423A., dated the 9th May 1899, from the Board of Revenue, No. 4908., dated the 14th March 1899, from the Director of Land Records, and No. 1207, dated the 27th October 1898, from the Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division, and a Note by the Collector of Bogra, reviewing the Report of the Settlement Officer.

THE Jaipur Government estates, with an aggregate area of 44·1 square miles, are comprised in 153 villages, lying a few in the district of Rajshahi, the rest in that of Bogra. Of some of these villages Government is sole proprietor, in others it has a separate share, and in the remainder it is a joint proprietor. The tract, which is well watered, and has a fertile soil, and a rainfall generally sufficient for purposes of agriculture, appears, from ruins and other evidence, to have been at one time populous and flourishing; but, owing to a change in the course of the rivers, it became malarious and partly depopulated, and dense jungle is still to be found in many places. The construction of the Northern Bengal State Railway, which runs through the estates, the making of new roads, the establishment of new markets, and the general rise in the value of agricultural produce, have brought about a marked change for the better. While formerly settlers had to be attracted by low or nominal rents and advances of money, and were ready to throw up their holdings if the slightest increase in the rent was proposed, there is now an immigration of cultivators from other districts, and a consequent demand for land.

2. The Government estates were originally eight in number, seven of which were purchased by Government at revenue sales, between 1828 and 1837 A.D., for nominal sums, as neither the owners nor any one else would hold the lands at the revenue fixed. They were let out to farmers, who held them up to 1878, when direct management was introduced on the completion of a settlement made for 15 years. The remaining estate escheated to Government in 1882. In 1894 the eight estates were by amalgamation reduced to two, in order to obviate much unnecessary work.

3. A resettlement under the Bengal Tenancy Act was ordered in January 1893. As the maps of 1878 were imperfect, and as the record-of-rights had not been kept up to date, a fresh survey and record-of-rights was considered necessary. The survey was begun by a professional party in February 1893, and was completed in June 1894. The Settlement Officer first appointed joined on the 9th February 1894, when the cadastral survey with initial record-writing was in progress; but proving incompetent was removed in August following. In November 1894, Babu Sarat Chandra Das, Deputy Collector, was appointed Settlement Officer, and was in charge of the operations till the 17th of June 1896, except for a short interval in the recess of 1895. This officer was another unfortunate selection, for during his long tenure of office he did very little; and much of what he did had to be done over again by his successor, Mr. Sorab S. Day, who was obliged to re-attest 91 of the 121 villages dealt with by his predecessor. The work was not finished till February 1898.

4. In the villages in which the Government lands are mixed up with private estates, attestation was difficult, as neither the tenants nor the agents of the private proprietors had any idea of the estates to which particular plots of land belonged; and it was therefore necessary to make a comparison, plot by plot, between the present maps and records and those of 1878. The subsequent proceedings in these villages also appear to have given much trouble; and it is evidently a desirable conclusion that application be made for the partition of kismut Saguna, to which the joint tenures are confined. This should be effected as speedily as possible.

5. Proceedings under section 103 of the Bengal Tenancy Act having been sanctioned by the Board of Revenue, on applications made by the landlords concerned, in respect of the principal private estates whose lands are interlaced with the Government estates, the survey and record-of-rights embraced the whole area of the 153 villages in which the Government lands lie. The area of the whole tract surveyed is 34,558 acres, or about 54 square miles, of which 28,233 acres, or 44·1 square miles, belong to Government, and the remaining 6,325 acres, or 9·9 square miles, to private proprietors. The following table compares the results of the present and the previous survey in respect of the Government estates:—

	Total settled area.	Unsettled area, including waste.	Total area.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Previous survey	18,343	9,794	28,137
Present „	22,223	6,010	28,233

The apparent increase in the total area of the estates by 96 acres is attributed to the greater accuracy of the present survey made by the plane-table, as compared with the prismatic compass survey of 1878. Statistics as to the cultivated area in 1878 not being available, it is not possible to ascertain exactly the increase in cultivation since the last settlement; but there has been an increase of 3,880 acres, or about 21 per cent., in the settled area, which approximately represents the increase in cultivation.

6. In the whole area surveyed, the extent under crops was found to be 21,307 acres, of which 7,869 bore two crops in the year. Winter rice occupied 11,007 acres, or 37·7 per cent., of the total of 29,176 acres, and bhadoi or autumn rice 6,366 acres, or 21·8 per cent. Jute was found to be the next most important crop of the tract, occupying, as it did, 4,187 acres, or 14·3 per cent.; but the recent rise in the price of rice and the coincident fall in that of jute has had the effect of bringing under rice much of the land formerly sown with jute. There are over a thousand acres of sugarcane.

7. The following table shows the several classes of tenants in the Government estates, the areas held, and the rents payable by them as now assessed:—

Class of tenant.	Number of holdings.	Aggregate area held by each class.	Average area per holding.	Rent payable according to present settlement.	Average rent per acre.

Under-raiyats of raiyats paying rent to Government.	3,767	3,611	·96	13,081 0 0	3 10 0

* The difference of one acre between this and the total settled area is not explained in the final report, but is trifling.

The istimrardars are holders of tenures granted in perpetuity at a fixed rent, some of them before the Permanent Settlement. The rent-free tenures are of three kinds, viz. :—

(1) Brahmottar tenures, or lands granted for the support of Brahmins;
(2) Pirpal tenures, or lands granted for the performance of rites at the tombs of pirs or Muhammadan saints;
(3) Niskar tenures, or small plots of land granted by Government to the khas mahal raiyats for the purpose of excavating tanks.

8. Transfers of raiyats' holdings were formerly unknown, as, for reasons briefly explained in paragraph 1, lands were not considered of much value. Owing to the change that has since taken place, cultivators' rights are now valuable; and the custom of transferring them by sale, without seeking the permission of the landlord, has grown up. It is stated that the Manager of the Government estates has avoided the open recognition of this practice by causing the vendor to file a written relinquishment and then settling the holding with the purchaser. In spite of this, however, the Settlement Officer found numerous instances where even this formality had been dispensed with; and he entered the new tenants in his records. Care must be taken to see that the splitting up of holdings is not allowed

9. The number of under-raiyats holding lands under the Government raiyats is large, being 3,767. This is stated to result from a practice, prevalent among the raiyats of the Jaipur estates, of holding lands under each other. It is stated that the raiyat-landlords do not stand on ceremony in ousting their under-raiyats, who can acquire no occupancy-rights, as there is no custom in their favour. There would, however, appear to be no reason why these under-raiyats should not enjoy the measure of protection afforded them by the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act; and it is desired that the local officials will endeavour to enforce an observance of the law so far as lies in their power.

10. At the time when the Government estates were let in farm there were very few raiyats, and the farmer found it necessary to settle the lands practically for what he could get, whereby great inequalities resulted in the rents. In 1865 an attempt was made by him to introduce a scale of rates: but the raiyats would not agree, and were prepared to relinquish their holdings; and at last the farmer had to accept whatever they chose to pay. At the settlement of 1878 the attempt was repeated by the Settlement Officer; but the raiyats again refused to pay the new rents, and an addition of from 1 anna to 4 annas in the rupee to the existing rent was made by compromise, the exact increase being a matter of bargain in each case. This arrangement caused greater inequalities of rent than ever. In 1882 Mr. D. J. Macpherson, who had been deputed in connection with the Tenancy Bill to enquire and report on the practicability of framing tables of uniform rates in these estates, found that there was still greater competition among landlords for raiyats than among raiyats for land, and came to the conclusion that any attempt to introduce rates based on soil classification would probably fail.

Under these circumstances it was found, as was indeed to be expected, that each raiyat was paying a specified rent for a specified area of land without reference to the capabilities of the soil, and that the incidence of rent was very unequal. A further development of the country had, however, taken place since the date of Mr. Macpherson's report, and it was decided that an endeavour should again be made to equalise the incidence of the rents. The Settlement Officer describes the principle of the assessment in the words of the Commissioner. He says he was directed to take the more highly-assessed holdings as the standard and then to level up to these the rates of rent of the other holdings. As the description stands, it would certainly be understood that a uniform rate of rent was imposed on all tenants. It is abundantly clear, however, from the Settlement Officer's papers that nothing of the sort was intended, and nothing of the sort was done. What was meant was that, below a certain maximum of existing rent-rate, there should be drawn up a series of lower rates, graduated according to soil or other agricultural advantages. This was in fact suggested by some of the raiyats themselves, who strongly protested against an all-round addition to the existing rents, such as was made in 1878. The legal basis of enhancement applicable was that of the rise in prices since the former settlement, and this, it appeared from careful enquiries independently made by the Settlement Officer and the Manager of the estates, admitted of an increase of 8 annas in the rupee, or 50 per cent. The lands were classified as follows:—

(1) Bastu or homestead lands which, in accordance with the custom prevailing in the tract, were to be most highly assessed.

(2) Cultivated lands, which were divided into high and low lands, the latter being the better class of the two Each class was subdivided, according to the local practice, into aul (first class), dain (second class), chhaim (third class), and chaharam (fourth class). First-class high lands included lands bearing thatching grass or bamboo clumps.

(3) Fallow and waste.

For the purpose of determining the new rates, the several villages were divided into seven groups, each group consisting of villages which showed a similarity in the average of the existing rents paid by the group of raiyats paying the highest rents. A separate scale of rates for each group was then worked out, subordinate to this maximum, for the several classes of soil in the group. These rates ranged from two rupees to eight annas per acre in the best groups; from one rupee to four annas in the poorest. The rates so determined were applied to holdings paying the lower rent-rates. If the resulting rent was less than the existing rent of the holding, the latter was taken; but if it was greater than the existing rent, plus an enhancement of 50 per cent., plus a fair rent for any excess area, it was reduced to the total thus obtained. In assessing excess areas, a deduction of 5 per cent. of the entire area of the raiyat's holding was made as a concession to possible errors in the measurement of his lands at the previous survey; and the rate of rent generally imposed on the excess area thus determined was that fixed for second-class low lands as being the average of the scale of rates determined for the group. On this method, the existing rents of 1,335 out of the 5,699 Government raiyats have been retained, and those of 3,691 raiyats enhanced. The remaining 673 raiyats were found in possession of unsettled lands for which fair rents were settled. As many as 5,044, or 88·5 per cent., appeared before the Settlement Officer and accepted the rents assessed. The rents of 655 raiyats were settled ex-parte on their failure to attend. There was no suit under section 106 and no appeal to the Special Judge. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to find that suitable rates of rent based on a classification of the soil have at last been introduced in these estates, and that this has been achieved at the instance, and with the general approval, of the raiyats themselves.

11. The total rental of the estates, as finally settled in 1878, was Rs. 38,358, which was found to have increased, owing to the settlement of waste lands, to Rs. 39,872 in 1893-94, when the settlement operations began. The new rental being Rs. 51,068, there has been an increase of Rs. 11,196, or about 28 per cent., over the rental of 1893-94. The increase over the rental fixed in 1878 amounts to Rs. 12,710, or about 33 per cent., out of which 21 per cent. appears to be due to the increase in the settled area since the last settlement, and 12 per cent. to the increase in the rates of rent based on the rise in prices. The collections under the new arrangements have, so far, been very satisfactory, and the Lieutenant-Governor sees no reason to question the opinion that the assessment, if tardily, has been fairly done. Government also derives a fluctuating revenue from ferries, fisheries, tolls at markets, sales of trees, and permits for collecting honey; but the details and total amount of this income have not been stated in the report.

12. For the whole area dealt with, including private estates (34,558 acres), the cost of the survey amounts to Rs. 12,773-8-3, and that of settlement to Rs. 33,350-11-1, the incidence of cost per acre being—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Survey	0	5	11
Settlement	0	15	5
Total ...	1	5	4

The cost has been excessive owing mainly to the bad work done by Babu Sarat Chandra Das, whose conduct has been separately dealt with. Out of the total cost of Rs. 46,124-3-4, Rs. 6,728 have been apportioned to the private proprietors.

13. The Lieutenant-Governor confirms the Board's action in fixing the term of the present settlement at 20 years from the 1st April 1898, the date on which the new rents came into force.

14. The rents are payable in two kists—6 annas in September and 10 annas in March. The Settlement Officer, agreeing with the Manager of the estates, recommends that the two kists should be equal, or 8 annas each. The Lieutenant Governor wishes to be informed of the result of the further enquiry which the Board intend to make in order to ascertain whether the raiyats would agree to such an arrangement, and awaits the Board's recommendations as to the maintenance of the settlement records.

15. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board in thinking that much credit is due to Mr. Sorab S. Day for the manner in which he has brought the settlement operations to a conclusion; but he is compelled to record his great regret at the absence of supervision in 1894—96, which resulted in so small an undertaking being so grievously delayed. The acknowledgments of Government are also due to the Manager of the estates, Babu Annada Nanda Sen, for the efficient help given by him throughout the proceedings.

RESOLUTION ON THE FINAL REPORT OF THE SETTLEMENT OF CHARS LAKHI AND BADU IN THE DISTRICT OF NOAKHALI.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 11th August 1899.

RESOLUTION—No. 2716.

The Final Report on the Settlement of Chars Lakhi and Badu in the district of Noakhali.

Letters No. 540A., dated the 8th June 1899, from the Board of Revenue, No. 537S., dated the 20th March 1899, from the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, and No. 281S., dated the 8th December 1898, from the Collector of Noakhali, reviewing the Report.

In August 1896 orders were passed for the settlement of five Government estates in the district of Noakhali under the provisions of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the survey being made by the professional Survey Department. Three of these estates are small and the final reports relating to them have been disposed of by the Board. For the remaining two, Lakhi and Badu, a single report has been rightly submitted, for they are adjoining alluvial formations of the same character and entirely owned by Government. The Director of Land Records has suggested that for the future the two estates, which have always been similarly treated, should be amalgamated for purposes of settlement and collection of Government revenue; and the Board have called for reports from the Collector and Commissioner. It is desired that the decision of the Board may be communicated to Government.

2. The two estates in question are chars lying off Sandwip, and probably of later formation than that island. They front the sea, and are exposed to the diluviating action of the tides. At the last census the people numbered 3,764, the majority being Muhammadan. In spite of their litigious disposition they are exceedingly prosperous, and the wages of an ordinary labourer are 5 annas a day. To the happiness of the Hindus there are, it appears, some drawbacks; for not only do they lie under the social cloud common to their race in Sandwip, but owing to the calamity of the flood of 1876, which carried off three-fourths of the people, they had to resort to widow-marriage. This has so far lowered their prestige with the people of the mainland, that they now are for all practical purposes excluded from their castes.

The two estates were in the hands of the Salt Department up to 1839, when they were transferred to the Collector. It was not, however, until 1846 that the latter took steps to grant leases, for the purpose of reclamation, free of rent; and seven years later they were again given rent-free to a Mr. Ronald, whose family continued to hold them, at increasing rents, until 1867. They continued in farm until 1872, since which year they have been held khas.

From the four measurements of 1846, 1865, 1879 and 1897, it appears that Lakhi is diminishing in size somewhat rapidly, whilst Badu is slightly increasing.

The present survey and settlement proceedings were commenced in December 1896; Mr. E. F. Berkeley took charge of the survey, and Babu Bhupendra Nath Gupta, Officiating Deputy Collector, was in charge of the settlement. The survey and record-writing were finished by the following hot weather. The settlement operations were completed by September 1898 and the final report was submitted two months later.

3. Since the last settlement which took effect from 1883-84, Char Lakhi has lost 4,167 acres by diluvion, and Char Badu has gained 638 acres by alluvion. The present areas of the two estates are 15,642 and 5,745 acres, respectively, the area of the two together being 33·42 square miles. The following table gives statistics as to the settled and cultivated areas:—

Name of Estate.	Area according to present survey.			Cultivated area, including homesteads, orchards, thatching-grass lands, and new fallows.
	Settled area.	Unsettled area at the disposal of Government.	Total	Last settlement.	Present settlement.	Increase since last settlement.	Percentage of present cultivated area on total area (column 4).

Lakhi ...	14,977	665	15,642	11,438	12,852	1,414 acres, or 12·3 per cent.	82·1
Badu ...	5,093	652	5,745	3,822	4,173	351 acres, or 9·1 per cent.	72·6
Total ...	20,070	1,317	21,387	15,260	17,025	1,765 acres, or 11·5 per cent.	79·5

The percentage of the present cultivated area is very high. The staple crop is rice.

4. In the present settlement the rights of the inhabitants have been classified according to the nomenclature of the Tenancy Act. The local names howladars, nim-howladars, krishaks, and jotdars are used somewhat loosely, and, in the case of jotdars, with two entirely different meanings. The howladar was the original tenant, who brought the land under cultivation. If his land exceeded 100 bighas, or was mainly cultivated by under-tenants or sub-tenants of long-standing, he was recorded as a tenure-holder; otherwise as a settled raiyat. Similarly, the nim-howladars have been entered as under-tenure-holders or settled raiyats. The krishaks, with the exception of two entered as tenure-holders, have been recorded as settled raiyats. The jotdars are what are elsewhere known as shikmi viz. under-raiyats or korphas, without occupancy rights. They have by local custom no rights whatever in the land, and their tenancy is usually of very short duration. They appear to share, however, in the general prosperity of the islands. The word is also used of six tenants who were originally howladars; and these have been recorded as tenure-holders. The statement below shows the number and class of tenants paying direct to Government:—

	Number of tenants.	Area held in acres.	Rent payable according to the present settlement.	Average area of holding in acres.	Average rent per acre.

5. There are 1,470 under-tenants in Lakhi, and 482 in Badu, who have been classified in accordance with the provisions of the Tenancy Act as follows :—

	Char Lakhi	Char Badu.	Total.
1	2	3	4
Under tenure-holders ...	35	7	42
Settled raiyats	736	268	1,004
Occupancy raiyats	8	6	14

Under-raiyats of the 2nd degree ...	5	.....	5
Rent-free under-raiyats ...	7	2	9
Total ...	1,470	482	1,952

The Settlement Officer has not furnished information as to the areas held or the rents paid by the under-tenants. Occupancy rights are freely sold, and it is stated that the landlords never deny the right of an occupancy raiyat to alienate his holding. It is also stated that non-occupancy raiyats and even under-raiyats usually transfer their rights.

6. In both Lakhi and Badu the soil consists of a rich loam, with little sand in it, and there is very little difference in the quality of the cultivated lands. The classification made is as follows:—

Class A-1.—Hasila or cultivated land, new fallow (sanpatit, i.e., left fallow for a year) orchard, homestead, and thatching-grass land.

„ A-2.—Laikabad or virgin soil, jungle, and sonait patit or cultivated land abandoned for more than three years.

„ A-3.—Malangchar or valuable pasture land, unfit for rice.

„ A-4.—Degichar or land little better than mud, washed at ordinary tides, but growing nonagach or sâl tree in abundance.

B.—Nalaik or unculturable, held free of assessment.

7. The legal ground for enhancing the existing rates of rent was that of the rise in the price of rice. For purposes of comparison the quinquennial periods 1879-1883 and 1892-96 were selected; and it was ascertained that a rupee would purchase 23 seers 2 chitaks in the former period, and 14 seers in the latter; or, in other words, that the maximum enhancement permissible under the Bengal Tenancy Act was 7 annas in the rupee. But the only class of tenants whose rents have been generally raised are the howladars, viz, those who have been classed as tenure-holders and those who have been given the status of settled raiyats. These men, or their predecessors in title, as the first settlers, had to contend with many difficulties and to undergo considerable trouble and expense in clearing the jungle and bringing the land under cultivation, and they suffered very severely, both in life and property, from the cyclone and storm-wave of 1876. It was, therefore, decided that, whether classed as tenure-holders or settled raiyats, their rents should not be raised by more than 25 per cent. In accordance with this principle, the rate of rent for hasila lands held by howladars has been raised from 10 annas to 12 annas 6 pies per standard bigha, except for five howladars in Lakhi, who had for a long time been paying rent at a rate of 8 annas a bigha, which has been raised to 10 annas. In each case the rent settled was accepted by the tenant, and there has been not a single appeal against the Settlement Officer's decision.

8. No application was filed for the settlement of fair rents for under-tenants, but certain of the landlords represented to the Settlement Officer that the rents paid by some of their tenants were unusually low, and in the case of 42 under-tenants in Lakhi and 10 in Badu, the existing rents were enhanced with the consent of the parties concerned.

9. The Government revenue now fixed is shown below in comparison with the demand finally fixed at the last settlement, and the existing demand as increased by subsequent settlements of waste lands:—

Name of estate.	Revenue fixed at last settlement.	Existing revenue.	New revenue.	Percentage of increase over:—
				Revenue fixed at last settlement.	Existing revenue.
1	2	3	4	5	6
	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
Lakhi ...	22,718 9 8	24,276 9 8	29,848 6 5	31·3	22·9
Badu ...	7,506 6 2	7,631 12 8	9,946 10 0	32·5	30·3
Total ...	30,224 15 10	31,908 6 4	39,795 0 5	31·6	24·7

The Settlement Officer states that, owing to the extension of cultivation since the last settlement, the revenue demand could have been raised from that given in column 2 of the above statement to Rs. 26,653-1-11 in Lakhi and to Rs. 8,273-9-11 in Badu, without any enhancement of the rates of rent. Approximately, therefore, Rs. 3,935, or 55 per cent. of the increase of revenue in Lakhi over the demand of the last settlement, and Rs. 767, or 31 per cent. of the increase in Badu, are due to extension of cultivation, and the remainder is due to the enhancement of rates.

10. The present kists for the payment of the rents are considered inconvenient, and, at the instance of the raiyats, the Settlement Officer has recommended that they should be altered as follows:—

Present kists.			Proposed kists.

The recommendations of the Settlement Officer may be disposed of by the Board on receipt of the further report called for by them.

11. The new settlement came into force in April 1899; and the Settlement Officer recommends that it should run for 20 years. Looking to the moderation in the present enhancement, the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board in thinking that there is no necessity to fix a longer term than 15 years for the present settlement.

12. The total cost of survey and settlement debitable to these estates is Rs. 14,721-10-9, or 11 annas per acre. His Honour agrees with the Board that this is not excessive.

13. The settlement record should, as proposed, be maintained by the khas mahal staff, in accordance with the rules given in Appendix M to the Survey and Settlement Manual, 1895. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board that the khas tahsil staff and the local Revenue Officers should regularly inspect the permanent boundary marks and take the necessary steps for their maintenance.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor confirms this settlement. It has been made throughout under the rules contained in the revised Survey and Settlement Manual of 1895, and he agrees with the Director of Land Records in thinking that their working, as evidenced here, is satisfactory. The Settlement Officer, Babu Bhupendra Nath Gupta, has carried out the settlement with marked ability. The acknowledgments of Government are also due to Mr. E. F. Berkeley of the Survey of India Department; and the services rendered by the Assistant Settlement Officer, Babu Kailash Chandra Bose, and the settlement staff generally, are commendable.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that a copy of it be sent to the Board of Revenue.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

F. A. SLACK,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1898.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Calcutta, the 14th August 1899.

RESOLUTION—No. 4123S.

READ—

Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1898.

Read again—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1897 and the Resolution of Government recorded thereon.

The report, which was due on the 1st May, was received on July 6th. The delay is due to the fact that the Sanitary Commissioner necessarily had to devote almost all his time to the supervision of plague measures. The report was submitted for the first time through the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, who has appended to it a valuable note in which he reviews the salient points in the sanitary history of the year, and compares the conclusions drawn from the figures with those derived from the statistics of hospitals and dispensaries.

2. Birth-rate.—The number of births registered in 1898 was 2,543,701 against 2,625,844 in the previous year; the ratio per mille of population being 35·79 as against 36·94 in 1897 and 35·61, the average of the previous five years. A particular interest attaches to the figures for the year under report, which illustrate the concluding chapter in the history of the recent famine. The decrease in the birth-rate was anticipated by the Sanitary Commissioner in his last report, and is now considered by him to be without doubt due to the low vitality of the people in the preceding year caused by the effects of famine and high prices. He points out that the number of births was everywhere considerably higher during the last five months of the year than during the earlier months, and that this was particularly noticeable in those parts of the Province which were most severely affected by famine.

While, however, there can be no doubt that the famine did exercise a certain influence in this respect, its effects are nevertheless by no means so clearly marked as would naturally be expected, and the view of the Sanitary Commissioner must be accepted with modifications. If the famine were the sole cause of the reduction in the birth-rate, we should expect to find that there had been a corresponding reduction in the birth-rate of other provinces where famine prevailed, and that in Bengal the reduction was most distinctly marked in the districts most severely affected by the famine. This, however, is not the case. Both in the North-Western Provinces and in the Central Provinces the birth-rate shows an increase, the former having actually risen from 31·10 in 1897 to 37 35 in 1898; and in Bengal, of the 15 districts which were classed as famine districts, six including Saran, Champaran and Muzaffarpur, show an appreciable increase over the previous year's birth-rate. In Saran and Champaran the birth-rate was in advance of the mean of the previous five years, while the birth-rate in the Patna Division as a whole, which last year was the lowest in the Province, now stands above those of Burdwan and Chota Nagpur, and is only fractionally lower than the average. Moreover, reference to the figures of previous years shows that the greater incidence of births in the later months of the year is by no means an abnormal state of things. It was pointed out by Government in 1894 that it was due to certain months being considered as lucky or unlucky for the celebration of marriages, and this view was accepted by the Sanitary Commissioner in his report for 1895. It would appear then that the fall in the birth-rate during the year under report is due, as the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals points out in his note, not solely to the effects of the famine, but in great part to other special causes which can only be fully ascertained by a careful study of the subject extending over a long term of years. Attention, however, must again be drawn to the fact which has on several previous occasions been pointed out, that considerably greater accuracy in registration must be attained before the vital statistics of the Province can be considered as a basis on which definite and satisfactory conclusions can be founded.

Among individual districts, Murshidabad stands first with 43·59 followed by Tippera (43·40) and Noakhali (42·22). Malda shows a remarkable decline from 47·40 last year to 41·56 this year. Calcutta is, as usual, at the bottom of the list with 13·98; the departure of women from fear of plague having doubtless caused the large decrease since last year. Of rural districts Shahabad stands lowest with 29·79. Among towns, Jangipur has been taken to the head of the list by a rise from 37·67 to 42·82, while Jamalpur in Monghyr is second with 44·05 as against 52·62 last year.

In only 12 rural areas was the recorded birth-rate up to the general estimate for the whole Province of 50 per mille, and of these there were 3 in each of the districts of Mymensingh and Murshidabad. The lowest birth-rate is as usual in Jhalakati. The Government of India having in their review of the report for 1897 repeated an opinion previously expressed that the extraordinarily low rate recorded was due not so much to any special cause as to defective registration, a careful enquiry was made by the Sanitary Commissioner and the District Magistrate, which disclosed the curious fact that out of a total population of 2,365 of whom 399 are females, only 49 of the latter are married women capable of bearing children. The birth-rate, however, has increased from 2·11 to 8·45 since last year.

3. Death-rate.—The number of deaths registered in 1898 was 1,888,468, giving a ratio of 26·57 per mille as against 2,341,632 and 32·94 in the previous year, and an average for the past 10 years of 2,044,902 and 28·77. The mortality from fever and cholera was particularly low, and the other principal diseases also show a decline. Climatic conditions and an abundant supply of food were no doubt the most important and obvious factors in bringing about this fortunate state of things.

In towns the death-rate, owing to the general absence of epidemics, fell to the remarkably low figure of 27·50, as against 35·09 last year, and an average for the last five years of 34·15.

No exceptionally high death-rate was recorded anywhere; the only towns which exceed the provincial estimate of 44 per mille being Garulia (52·84) Malda (49·54) and Serampore (44·72).

Only 14 rural areas as against 60 last year show a death-rate in excess of 44 per mille. In Maskhal and Chakaria the after-effects of the cyclone and storm-wave which devastated Chittagong in 1 97, made themselves felt in the shape of a severe epidemic of cholera, and in Siliguri in Darjeeling the malarial fever of the Terai claimed even more victims than usual.

4. Death-rate by age and sex.—The death-rate among males in 1898 was 28·75 as against 35·87 in 1897 and 30·87, the average of the preceding 10 years. Among females it was 24·40 as compared with 30·03 and 26·68. The diagram appended to the report again shows that at every stage of life the mortality among males is reported to be slightly higher than that among females. So far as children are concerned, the Inspector-General points out that the experience of India does not differ from that observed in Europe. In his last report, Major Dyson expressed with some confidence the view that the explanation was to be found in the greater difficulty of rearing male children, and the greater extent to which male adults are exposed to accidents and the hardships and vicissitudes of an outdoor life in the fields. As regards children, his previously expressed view holds good; but Major Dyson now admits the difficulty of maintaining the correctness of figures which show that the mortality among women of child-bearing age is less than that among males of the same age; and, while partially admitting the soundness of the explanation that registration in the case of females is more defective than in the case of males, calls attention to the large number of widows of child-bearing age, who are exposed to neither the perils of childbirth nor to the hardships undergone by the male sex. Until, however, the standard of correctness in registration is considerably higher than at present, it will be impossible to give a satisfactory explanation of this and other difficulties which present themselves in the examination of vital statistics. The following table compares the mortality according to age during the last two years with that of the previous decade:—

	In 1898.		In 1897.		Average of past ten years 1888—97.
	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.

It is curious that the mortality among Musulmans during the year under report is given as 29·53, as against 25·51 among Hindus. The variation is unexplained, and is not a normal one.

5. Registration.—The perpetual stumbling-block of defective registration was dealt with by the conviction of 1,935 persons for failure to register and the cautioning of 362 more. The amount of fines imposed was Rs. 3,052. During the year 239,885 births and 151,285 deaths were enquired into by the vaccination staff, with the result that 3,332 births and 1,776 deaths were found not to have been registered at the thanas. If these figures could be regarded as typical, they would indicate that registration is defective to the extent of 13 per mille in the case of deaths and of 11 per mille in the case of births. The accepted normal estimates are 50 per mille for births and 44 per mille for deaths in Bengal. It is probable, however, that the verification itself was not altogether complete. It must be remembered that it is only since 1892 that any real progress in the improvement of registration has been made. In order to verify the estimate as at present accepted, the results of the approaching census must be awaited. When they are known, much that is now hypothesis will be ascertained fact, and will provide a starting point from which more satisfactory deductions can be made than is at present the case. The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals selects the low mortality registered in Chota Nagpur as a particular instance which throws doubt on the general accuracy of the returns.

6. Principal diseases.—The question of the influence of meteorological conditions on the prevalence of fever and cholera is a perennial subject of discussion. In the present year the mortality from fever has been lower than usual, and that from cholera the lowest ever recorded in the Province. The former of these facts Major Dyson can only ascribe to the general healthiness of the year; the latter he considers to be due to the almost normal rainfall of the year and the satisfactory agricultural outturn.

The following table shows the mortality from these two causes and the corresponding rainfall in 1898 and each of the five preceding years:—

	Rainfall.	Deaths from fever.	Deaths from cholera.
1893	80·96	1,477,288	126,976
1894	68·81	1,799,833	236,150
1895	54·42	1,634,254	177,087
1896	51·10	1,760,225	226,824
1897	63·53	1,679,132	196,247
1898	68·54	1,419,483	65,020

A glance at these figures will show how difficult it is to establish an immediate connection between meteorological conditions and the prevalence of these two diseases. In 1894, when the rainfall was almost exactly the same as in the year under report, the mortality from each of them was the highest in the quinquennium, and the decrease in fever in 1897, which was noticed in last year's report as being due to the early cessation of the rains in the previous year, has occurred to a still greater extent in 1898, in spite of the abundant rainfall of 1897. It appears impossible to generalise on this subject with the means at our disposal; but much may be expected from Colonel Hendley's proposal to prepare medical histories of each district, which shall combine information as to the character and peculiarities of the country in each particular instance with observations on the varying local influence of meteorological conditions on the public health. The mortality from cholera was highest in Chittagong (7·92), while Puri, where the congregation of pilgrims usually gives rise to a high death-rate, of which an unfortunate instance has occurred during the current year, was comparatively free from it in 1898.

The high rate of mortality in Chittagong has already been explained. The Sanitary Commissioner and the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals have under consideration a plan for working out in full detail the sanitary arrangements necessary to guard against outbreaks of cholera at fairs and assemblages of pilgrims. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that it will be found possible to put this plan into force at once Inoculation against cholera has been carried on throughout the year at the Purulia cooly depôt; and while no information is available from Assam as to its results, the work is obviously a necessary one, and is reported to have been well and carefully conducted. The seasonal incidence of the disease was highest in Bengal and Orissa during the first five and the last months of the year, while in Bihar it was highest in April and May.

Fever claims, as usual, by far the largest number of victims, though fortunately fewer than last year. It is again pointed out that in the mind of the chaukidar fever includes all diseases except cholera and small-pox, and the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals specially notices the probable inclusion of respiratory affections and parasitic disorders. The character of the country and the habits of the people, however, make a large mortality from malarial fevers unavoidable. In the last report special notice was given to the opinion of the late Civil Surgeon of Faridpur to the effect that the high mortality from fever in that district was due in great part to the practice of steeping jute in all the standing water available. The opinions of other Civil Surgeons have accordingly been invited, and the Sanitary Commissioner agrees with the views expressed by the Civil Surgeons of 10 out of 13 of the districts where the practice obtains, that, though disagreeable, it is not proved to be specially favourable to the development of malaria. In so far, however, as the practice fouls the water supply, it must prejudice the public health, and is probably one of the causes of bowel-complaints.

Of individual districts, the death-rate from fever was highest in Noakhali (35·16), Dinajpur (33·43) and Rajshahi 31·16), all of which show an increase on last year's figures. In each of these districts a high rate of fever mortality is constant, and the only special factor noted by the Civil Surgeons is in Rajshahi, where waves of unhealthiness of the nature of influenza passed over the district in March, August and October.

The mortality was lowest in Puri (5·53), Calcutta (8 89) and Ranchi (9·89). It was as usual much lower in urban than in rural areas.

7. Small-pox.—14,269 deaths from this cause, or ·20 per mille, were registered during the year under report as against 19,655, or 27 per mille in the previous year. By far the highest mortality (5·82) was in Puri, where the disease is believed to be fostered by the practice of inoculation. This question is engaging the special attention of the Sanitary Commissioner.

8. Dysentery and Diarrhœa.—The deaths from this cause were 37,155—a large falling off from last year and from the average of the last 10 years. The decrease is ascribed to the plentiful harvest and to the lesser incidence of malarial fevers. The highest death-rates were returned from Calcutta (4 51) and Howrah (4·08).

9. Other causes.—The mortality from other causes, excluding injuries and those already noticed, was 320,081 as against 350,180 in the previous year.

10. Expenditure on Urban Sanitation.—The following table shows the municipal expenditure on sanitation during the last two years:—

Heads of Expenditure.	Total Expenditure.		Difference.
	1897-98.	1896-97.	Increase	Decrease.
1	2	3	4	5

Total, including roads ...	23,71,332	24,70,948	...	99,616

The decrease in expenditure on water-supply is more than accounted for by the reduction of capital expenditure in Howrah and Bhagalpur by Rs. 72,000 and Rs. 244,000 respectively.

The large increase in expenditure on conservancy is due to salutary apprehensions of the advent of plague. 45·75 per cent. of the total income of municipalities was spent on sanitary works, original and recurring. Major Dyson notices with regret that in certain important towns nothing was spent on original sanitary works; but until definite instances of actual deficiencies and neglect are pointed out, the Lieutenant-Governor hesitates to impute default to any local body simply on the ground of their expenditure sheet under this heading being blank for the year. The principal deficiency noted in all municipalities is the want of pucka drains and of proper levelling of the drains. These defects are universal in the smaller municipalities, and are in their case more or less inevitable owing to want of funds. It may, moreover, be noted that the desirability of having pucka drains everywhere is by no means universally admitted. Special remarks were made on this subject in the last Municipal Resolution. It is satisfactory to note that in almost all cases where defects are mentioned, remedial measures have been adopted. In Dacca, where the most serious defects are pointed out, great progress has been made in improving the conservancy, though much yet remains to be done. The Sanitary Commissioner includes in his report a table showing the comparative death-rate before and after the introduction of drainage and water-supply systems in various towns in Bengal. He, however, admits that the deficiences of registration in the earlier years prevent any useful inference being drawn from the figures—a remark which unfortunately applies, as has already been noticed, to most of the statistical portion of the report.

11. Precautions against plague.—The four observation camps at Chausa, Chakradharpore, Mairwa and Khurda Road were in full working order throughout 1898. In the Chausa Camp 636,819 persons were inspected and 24,776 were detained. Among the latter there were 18 deaths, only 5 of which were from plague. The expenditure incurred was Rs. 89,359. At Chakradharpur 57,624 persons were examined and 6,012 detained There was not a single death in the camp. The cost amounted to Rs. 61,860. At Mairwa the number of persons inspected and detained was 177,501 and 4,757 respectively. There were four deaths during the year, none of them from plague. The cost was Rs. 68,520. At Khurda Road 110,083 persons were examined and 3,478 detained. One death from small-pox occurred in the camp. The expenditure was Rs. 5,063.

12. Sanitary Board.—The Board were unfortunately unable to hold more than one meeting during the year. They were, however, enabled by circulation of files to undertake the usual consultative work; the most important scheme which came under their consideration being that for the supply of filtered water to the municipalities on the right bank of the Hooghly. Eight alternative projects were prepared by the Sanitary Engineer, the estimated cost varying from 24 to 35 lakhs. These have been separately submitted to Government. The possibility of providing a supply of drinking-water for the Patna Municipality from wells sunk in the old bed of the river Sone has now been fully proved, and the work has been taken in hand.

An important experiment in sewage disposal was inaugurated during the past year by the Sanitary Engineer, who was placed on special duty in England for the purpose of enquiring into the subject.

His proposal to carry out experiments on the septic tank principle has been sanctioned by Government, and is now being carried out. The Lieutenant-Governor will await the results with much interest. The suggestions made last year by the Board with a view to causing experiments to be made locally on the system of filtration through cinders of sullage water and waste liquids have been circulated to all municipalities. From the reports received it appears that little or no attention has been paid to the subject by municipalities, and that no results of any importance have been achieved. It is probable that the suggestions of the Board were found to involve more intrusion on the privacy of houses than municipal authorities were willing to undertake, or individuals to submit to.

13. Inspections.—Major Dyson was on tour for 162 days during the year. Almost the whole of his time had to be devoted to the organisation and inspection of precautionary measures against plague, and the ordinary sanitary work of the Province has of course suffered from this to a certain extent. Indirectly, however, it may be hoped that compensation will be found in the increased attention on the part of local bodies to sanitation generally, and conservancy in particular, which has been the result of the fear of plague which has overhung the Province during the year under report. Should it prove to have thoroughly and permanently awakened the local authorities to the supreme importance of an efficient system of sanitation, the plague will have done the people of Bengal a service which will go far to counterbalance the trouble and anxiety which it has caused.

The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank Major Dyson for the care he has bestowed on sanitary administration generally and in particular for the untiring energy and attention to detail which he has displayed in all matters relating to the protection of the Province against plague.

I submit a statement showing the receipts and expenditure on account of the Fire Brigade. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 17,269-5-4. The receipts were Rs. 54,746-4-2, which fell short of the estimate of Rs. 64,112, some of the receipts having been overestimated in the budget estimate. Rupees 7,587-8 represents the amount due, but not paid in by the municipalities during the year. Of this sum Rs. 7,285-8 have since been realized, and Rs. 302 are in course of realization. The total receipts during the year were Rs. 72,015. The expenditure amounted to Rs. 71,125-12-5 against an estimate of Rs. 74,730. The actual balance on the 31st March 1899 was Rs. 889-13-1.

3. During the year under review 38 fires occurred, in which the value of the property destroyed in each case exceeded Rs. 50.

At 32 of these fires the Brigade were in attendance, and in 5 the fires were extinguished by the local police and the residents of the locality. A fire on a country boat, which occurred off Ghoosery on the river, was extinguished by the Port Commissioners' fire-engine Hooghly.

4. In addition to the 38 serious fires already noted, 71 small fires occurred, 31 in the Town, 36 in the Suburbs of Calcutta, and 4 in Howrah.

The Brigade attended 7 of these fires, the remaining 64 being extinguished by the residents of the localities.

The average value of the property destroyed at each of these petty fires was Rs. 9-15-11.

5. The total estimated value of all property destroyed by fire during the year under review amounted to Rs. 4,49,579-15 as against Rs. 3,82,605 in 1897-98.

6. There were no lives lost during the year.

7. There were 3 fires in buildings licensed under Act I (B.C.) of 1893 and Act I (B.C.) of 1894, the total estimated value of property destroyed at these fires being two lakhs of rupees.

8. Six fires during the year 1898-99 call for special notice:—

(a) On the 11th April 1898, the S.S. Otterburn laden with jute cuttings and pressed bales of jute, lying at the Hastings Moorings, caught fire; the origin of the fire is not known. It lasted for 70 hours and 30 minutes. The efforts of the Fire Brigade resulted in saving a quantity of the cargo and in also, by unloading the vessel, preventing the wet bales of jute from starting the plates and rendering the ship a total wreck.

(b) On the 17th March 1899, at Hogulkooria Gully, Burtolla, a large oil mill shed caught fire accidentally. Machinery, mustard-oil and seeds were destroyed. The fire lasted 5 hours and 50 minutes. Greater damage would have been caused and probably loss of life had not the Fire Brigade succeeded in reaching the boiler house and letting off the steam from the boilers, and thus averting an explosion.

(c) A fire broke out on the early morning of the 29th October 1898 in the "Empress of India" Hydraulic Jute Press, Howrah. Five masonry warehouses containing a large quantity of jute, loose and in bales, were destroyed. The machinery was, however, saved. The fire lasted for 43 hours, and the estimated value of the property destroyed was Rs. 1,60,000.

(d) A fire occurred on the 10th November 1898 in the Ramdyall Cotton Mill, Ghoosery, Howrah. Machinery was damaged and cotton destroyed to the estimated value of Rs. 20,000. The fire lasted 1 hour and 30 minutes.

(e) On the 14th December 1898, at the Guzdar's Hydraulic Jute Press, Ghoosery, Howrah, a large two-storeyed building containing jute was destroyed; estimated value of damage Rs. 20,000. The fire lasted for 13 hours and 30 minutes.

(f) A fire occurred on the 30th December 1898 at the Ganges Jute Mill, Sibpur, Howrah. A large masonry building containing machinery, gunny-bags and waste twine was destroyed. The building was not licensed under the Act, as it was not used for storage of jute or cotton. The fire lasted 6 hours and 50 minutes, estimated value of damage done being Rs. 80,000.

9. During the year two prosecutions were instituted under the Explosives Act. Both cases ended in the conviction of the defendants.

10. A memorandum of the fires that occurred is enclosed.

The other crops, jute and sugarcane especially, appear to be doing well. More rain is needed in Orissa and one or two districts in Chota Nagpur. Prices show a tendency to rise. There is still a little cattle-disease.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JULY 1899.

WEATHER during the past month was remarkable on account of the complete absence of cyclonic storms over the Bay, and for the almost continuous low pressure over the Province, Assam and Burma. As no depression of any depth passed inland from the sea, the variations of pressure or the differences from the normal were generally small or of moderate amount; but as the defect was continuous and westerly winds prevailed over the western districts, the moist southerly winds from the Bay, which were quite up to average strength, failed to obtain the usual outlet north-westward up the Ganjetic plain. The result was heavy general rainfall over the greater part of the Province, with a more irregular distribution than in ordinary years.

The part of the Province where defect in rainfall was greatest was naturally in the south-western districts, including Orissa and the south of Chota Nagpur, where the south-westerly winds were most prevalent. The deficiency, however, was in nearly all cases small, as may be seen from Orissa receiving on an average for the whole Division 99 per cent. of the normal for the month, and Chota Nagpur 110 per cent., the excess in the latter being due to the heavier falls in the north of the Division.

A very noticeable peculiarity in the rainfall distribution is that in sub-montane districts, whether in the east or north of the Province, and probably over the lower ranges of the hills, falls were in almost all cases in slight defect, whereas at higher levels, as in the Darjeeling hills, there was a fairly large excess. A marked contrast is shown between Baxa and Darjeeling, at the former of which there was defect of 16 inches and at the latter excess of 11 inches. This slight deficiency extended along the foot of the Himalayas as far as Darbhanga, but from there excess steadily increased, and was greatest in Champaran and Bettia.

Though no cyclonic storm occurred over the Bay, depressions were not wanting inland, and during the latter half of the month a continuous slight depression obtained over Bihar. The first depression began about the 4th in the north of the Bay owing to a rapid fall of pressure in the east. It remained diffused, but moving northwards instead of to the west, it caused heavy general rain in Bengal. When the recovery of pressure began in Burma, and the east of the Province a day or two later, the depression became better defined and moved rapidly westward on the 7th, after which the pressure distribution was normal and rainfall was neither so heavy nor general.

Pressure again fell in the east on the 9th, and as defect in that region slowly but steadily intensified during the subsequent days, the conditions of the beginning of the month were almost restored. The low pressure concentrated and the second shallow depression of the month began over Lower Bengal on the 13th, the area of defect, somewhat over ·15 inch, extending eastwards from Calcutta. This depression followed a more westerly course than the previous one, but it filled up over the central districts and westerly winds continued unchanged in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and the west of Bihar. On the morning of the 14th, the depression was well defined with a centre near Krishnagar, and pressure was in defect over the whole of Bengal Proper by amounts up to a fifth of an inch. On the 15th, after a rapid rise, the depression was faint with a centre near Naya Dumka, and on the 16th the distribution was practically normal.

During these days, between the 13th and 16th, heavy general rain fell over the whole Province. The heaviest falls were in Bihar, more especially on the 15th, when the depression was filling up. In Monghyr on that date a large proportion of the rainfall stations received amounts varying from 4 to 8 inches, and the smallest fall was 2·5 inches.

After the middle of the month a slight depression formed over the north-west of the Province, with a fairly regular cyclonic circulation of light winds. The monsoon winds from the Bay were not so strong as in the early part of the month, but the cyclonic circulation and a slight oscillatory movement of the area of lowest pressure was sufficient to maintain continuous rainfall in all except the south-western districts. Pressure rose somewhat towards the end of the third week, when there was excess of nearly a tenth of an inch over the Province and the north of the Bay. This excess continued for a few days only. A rapid fall in Bihar was followed by a slight depression, and further heavy rainfall in that area about the 25th and 26th, after which the high pressure was restored and became an important feature of the weather conditions not only for the remaining days of July, but well into August.

With the development of high pressure at the end of the month, rainfall to a large extent ceased, but there were still cloudy skies and light scattered showers, and temperature was not above the normal except by small amounts in Bengal Proper. In the western districts on the last day of the month there was still a moderate defect.

Pressure was relatively low in Burma, Assam and Bengal Proper during a great part of the month, and at times defect at eastern stations was very little under ·2 inch. In the south-western districts, on the other hand, readings were more frequently in excess. The average difference from the normal varies from excess of ·02 inch at Cuttack to defect of about ·04 inch in the east.

It was low almost continuously in the early part of the month, but during the latter half there was a tendency for high pressure to develop. It did not become established till towards the close, when high pressure prevailed over the province and the north of the Bay, and the distribution became more uniform than is usual at the end of July.

Temperature.—As a marked feature of the prevailing weather conditions was heavy cloud with frequent rainfall, temperature was generally low, especially during the day. Maximum temperature on an average for the month was below the normal, except at a few of the more southern stations, and in the west of Bihar there was a large defect, as much as 5° at some stations. Minimum temperature was practically normal, except in the west of Bihar, where on an average for the month there was defect of 1° to 2°.

Mean temperature was practically normal in Bengal, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur, defect in all divisions being less than half a degree. In Assam there was defect of 1° and in Bihar of 2°.

Rainfall has been exceptionally heavy and continuous over a great part of the province, and even in the south-western districts, where it was least in amount, it all but reached the average fall. In Orissa on an average for the whole division the defect was only ·13 inch. In Chota Nagpur there was excess of 1·35 inches, in North Bengal 3·87, in East Bengal 4·32, in South-West Bengal 6·55, and in Bihar 8·68.

As thunderstorms with heavy local falls were much more numerous than usual over a great part of the province, the distribution of rainfall is marked by greater irregularity than in ordinary years, when the monsoon current in July passes freely over the province towards North-West India, and is not subjected to the frequent checks, which have been a marked feature of the past month. Though the individual falls are irregular, the averages are more uniform than usual, the various divisions of Bengal Proper and Bihar receiving almost similar amounts. South-West Bengal received on an average 18·68 inches, North Bengal 20·61, Bihar 21·7, and East Bengal 21·88.

As the falls have been so irregular no general idea can be given of the distribution, except by the tabular statement which precedes this, but it may be noticed that there were, much the same as in June, three centres of heavy rainfall—one in South-West Bengal, in which falls were 10 to 15 inches in excess, one in North Bengal, and the third in the west of Bihar, where excess amounts were of similar magnitude, viz., 10 to 15 inches.

The greatest defect was 4 inches in the south of Orissa, and the area of deficient rainfall included the whole of that division, except part of Balasore district and the south of Chota Nagpur, where defect varied up to 3 inches.

In North Bengal, the extreme north of Bihar, and near the Garo and Tippera Hill regions rainfall was slightly below the normal, the differences being 1 to 2 inches, except at Siliguri and Baxa, where defect was 9 and 16 inches, respectively.

The following table gives a comparison of the falls in the various divisions during the month of July with the normal fall, the actual being given as a percentage of the normal fall. The table also shows the actual falls for each of the previous months of the year expressed in the same way, and the last column of the table shows the total of the falls of the past seven months of the year in each division expressed as a percentage of the normal fall :—

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of July in all districts of the Province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 25 years; the second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district; the third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage; and the fourth column gives the same information in a slightly different form, expressing as a percentage how much the district rainfall varied in excess or in defect from the normal rainfall:—

PUBLIC DEBT OFFICE, BANK OF BENGAL,
Calcutta, the 18th August 1899.

CITY OF BOMBAY IMPROVEMENT TRUST.

ISSUE OF Rs. FIFTY LAKHS FOUR PER CENT. GUARANTEED DEBENTURES, REPAYABLE IN SIXTY YEARS.

WITH the sanction of the Government of India, and under the provisions of sections 52-59 of the City of Bombay Improvement Act, 1898, the Board of Trustees for the Improvement of the City of Bombay hereby invite tenders for a loan of Rs fifty lakhs, bearing interest at four per cent., repayable in sixty years, by a Sinking Fund to be invested (as required by sections 55 and 56) half yearly in public securities.

The interest and sinking fund charges as aforesaid will be a charge on the property and revenues of the Board, which include, in addition to the properties for the purchase of which the loan is chiefly required, the rents of certain vacant lands in the City of Bombay, valued in the Schedules of the said Act at Rs. 91,01,551, and an annual contribution from the Municipal Fund, not exceeding 2 per cent., on the total rateable value of all buildings and lands in the city (exclusive of buildings exclusively occupied for public worship or for charitable purposes), which contribution is estimated for 1899-1900 at Rs. 4,75,000, besides other receipts reserved to the Board by the provisions of the Act which will be developed by the operations to be undertaken.

The interest on these debentures will constitute a charge on the revenue of the Board prior to the charge for interest payable to the Secretary of State for India in Council and to the Corporation on and from 1st April 1909 in respect of the debt on account of the lands vesting in the Board (section 54).

The payment of interest on these debentures and the setting aside and investment of the sinking fund required for their repayment are guaranteed by the provisions of the Statute (assented to by the Governor-General of India), whereby it is directed that, in the event of any default being made by the Board in any payment of interest, or in the event of the Board failing to set aside and invest any sum required to form the sinking fund, the Accountant-General of Bombay, or other officer for the time being performing the duties of the office of the said Accountant-General, shall make such payment or set aside and invest such sum as may be required to be invested (section 80).

The Board reserve to themselves the right of refusing tenders if they consider the rates offered to be too low; but, subject to this reservation, allotments will be made in full to the highest tenderers, and rateably to the tenderers offering the lowest rate accepted by the Board.

These debentures will be issued for sums of Rs. 500, or multiples of Rs. 500, as may be required; they will be repayable to holder in sixty years, and will bear interest at 4 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly.

2 per cent of the amount tendered to be deposited on application, and the balance on or before Saturday, the 30th September 1899, from which date interest will accrue.

The deposit of 2 per cent. will be returned if no allotment is made, and it will be forfeited if an allotment is not fully taken up on the last date named.

Tenders will be received by the Secretary, Bombay Improvement Trust, up to one o'clock P.M. (gun-fire) on Thursday, the 31st August 1899, and they will thereafter be opened in the presence of the Chairman of the Improvement Trust.

Printed forms of tender can be obtained on application to the Secretary.

By order of the Board,

W. N. SHILSTONE, Secretary.

Office of the Improvement Trust, Albert Buildings, Hornby Road, Bombay, the 7th August 1899.

3. The form of the debentures will be that given in the Twelfth Schedule of Act II (B.C.) of 1888.

4. No debentures will be issued for any sum less than Rs. 500, and above that amount debentures will be issued only for multiples of Rs. 100.

5. Tenders for the whole or any part of the above loan of Rs. 25,00,000 will be received by the Secretary to the Corporation up to 2 o'clock P.M. on Wednesday, the 6th September 1899.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL BILL.

THE following further Report of the Select Committee, together with the Bill as further amended by the Committee, is, by order of the President, published for general information :—

FURTHER REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

We, the undersigned, members of the Select Committee to which the Calcutta Municipal Bill was referred back for further consideration with reference to the recent correspondence* between the Government of India and the Government of Bengal, have considered the said correspondence and have the honour to submit this our report, with the Bill, as amended by us, annexed thereto.

* Circulated to members of the Council on Papers No. 40.

2. The first change† recommended by the Government of India is that the number of Commissioners elected at ward elections should be reduced from fifty to twenty-five, only one Commissioner being elected for each ward, instead of two. The formal amendments required to give effect to this change have now been made in sections 6, 7, 34 (3), 36, 37, 38, 40, 41 and 52B (1) and in rules 5 and 6 of Schedule IVB.

As a consequence of the reduction in the number of elected Commissioners, it has been necessary to modify the arrangements proposed for constituting the first body of Commissioners under the Bill. It was originally proposed that the 50 elected Commissioners should retain their seats till the 1st April, 1901, the date till which they would have been entitled to sit under the present Act. Now, however, that the number of elected Commissioners is to be reduced, this is no longer possible, and we consider that they should all vacate their seats on the 1st April, 1900, the date when, as we anticipate, the Bill will come into operation. On the other hand it is not possible to hold a general election under the Bill before it comes into operation. The plan which commends itself to us is to direct that a fresh general election be held in March, 1900, under the present Act, and to declare that in such election only one Commissioner shall be elected for each ward. We have inserted a new section in the Bill, numbered 33A, to give effect to these recommendations.

3. In consequence of our recommendation that a fresh general election should be held in March, 1900, we have made the following amendments—

(1) we have recast section 54, so as to bring to an end on the 1st April, 1900, the term of office of the present Commissioners;

(2) in section 45 (2), we have altered from 1901 to 1903 the year in which the next general election should take place;

(3) in rules 1 and 3 of Schedule IVA, relating to the preparation of the municipal election roll, we have altered from 1900 to 1902 the first year in which steps are to be taken for the preparation of the roll.

4. In consequence of the reduction in the number of Commissioners, we have—

(1) in section 70 reduced from ten to seven the number of Commissioners required to sign a requisition for calling a special meeting, and

(2) in section 75, reduced from eighteen to twelve the number of Commissioners required to form a quorum.

We have also added an Explanation to section 75 declaring that the President at a meeting of the Corporation shall (when he is not the Chairman) be deemed to be a Commissioner for the purpose of forming a quorum.

5. The second change recommended by the Government of India is in the constitution of the General Committee. It is suggested in paragraph 18 of the Government of India's letter that one-third of the total number of twelve members should be nominated by the Government (as under the Bill as first amended by the Select Committee) and that the remaining two-thirds should be elected by the Corporation; and in paragraph 19 of that letter it is suggested that some plan should be devised to secure that the proportion of the Committee to be elected by the Corporation shall be a strictly fair and proportionate representation of the constituent elements of the electoral body.

To give effect to these suggestions,—

(1) we have amended sub-section (2) of section 8 so as to provide that four of the members of the General Committee shall be elected by the Ward Commissioners and that four shall be elected by the Commissioners appointed by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, the Calcutta Trades' Association, the Port Commissioners and the Government, and

(2) we have altered sub-section (3) of section 8 so as to authorise the Local Government to make rules to regulate the said elections.

We have further, in sub-section (3) of section 8, altered "shall" to "may" so as to make the exercise of the Local Government's rule-making power permissive instead of obligatory.

6. The third and last suggestion made by the Government of India, is* that it might be desirable to lay down rules for the appointment of the Special Committees and Sub-Committees which would secure their being truly representative, in respect of their constituent elements, of the Corporation or General Committee appointing them.

* Paragraph 20 of letter No. 93, dated the 17th June, 1899.

It is difficult to frame clauses for insertion in the Bill to regulate the constitution of Special Committees and Sub-Committees on these lines, and it is hardly less difficult to devise an effective clause to authorise the making of rules for this purpose. We have, however, in deference to the wishes of the Government of India, inserted a sub-section, numbered (3b), in section 88 of the Bill, empowering the Local Government to make rules declaring what proportion of—

(1) Ward Commissioners;

(2) Commissioners appointed by the bodies representing commercial interests; and

(3) Commissioners appointed by the Local Government, respectively, shall be nominated to be members of every or any Sub-Committee

We have also inserted in section 89A (3) a reference to the new sub-section (3b) of section 88, the effect of which will be to give the Local Government a similar power to make rules in regard to the constitution of Special Committees.

At the same time, we feel bound to say that we entertain considerable doubt as to whether it will be possible to make workable rules of this character, or to give practical effect to any rules that might be made on the subject, however well they may be devised. It is even possible that such rules might impair the working efficiency of Committees appointed under them.

7. As it is now proposed to insert provisions in the Bill for regulating the constitution of Special Committees, a reference to such Committees has been inserted in clause (a) of section 95C, so as to prevent proceedings under the Bill being questioned on the ground of there being a vacancy in, or any defect in the constitution of, any Special Committee.

8. We have altered sections 148M, 296D, 639 and 640 so as to admit of proceedings under those sections being taken in the Suburban Small Cause Courts, where the matters in dispute arise within the jurisdiction of those Courts, instead of requiring the parties to resort to the Calcutta Small Cause Court.

9. We have made some minor alterations in the details of the Bill which it is unnecessary to describe in detail.

10. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be passed.

NOTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE.

I SIGN the Report, subject to the following Note of Dissent:—

The Calcutta Municipal Bill, as further revised by the Select Committee, is an instance of legislation under a mandate. It is remarkable that no member of the Select Committee, official or non-official, had, before the receipt of the recommendations of the Government of India, suggested a reduction of the numerical strength of the Corporation or of the popular element in that body; and the Select Committee, which now acquiesces in these important and far-reaching changes, is, with the exception of two of its members, the same Select Committee which, only three months ago, acquiesced in the view that there should be no change as regards these fundamental conditions in the present constitution of the Calcutta Corporation. But now in accordance with the recommendations of the Government of India, the majority agree to reduce the popular element by fifty per cent. of its former strength. It cannot be said that this is altogether a new suggestion, for a proposal of this kind was made in the columns of the Pioneer newspaper, and the suggestion itself was present to the mind of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor. His Honour observed at the last meeting of the Council that the arguments which the Government of India use "have never been absent from his mind or that of his predecessor."

2. When a motion was made in the House of Commons in February last for the appointment of a Commission of Enquiry in connection with the Calcutta Municipal Bill, the Secretary of State opposed the motion on this, among other grounds, that the Bengal Legislative Council was a self-governing body, and to take the consideration of the Bill out of its hands would be an infraction of the privileges of self-government. It is very evident that if the Bengal Legislative Council were a self-governing body, the proposals of the Government of India would not have been accepted by the majority, who had only recently pledged themselves to an opposite principle and an opposite course of policy.

3. The proposals of the Government of India, as interpreted by the Select Committee and incorporated in the Bill, may be briefly summarised as follows:—

(1) That the number of Municipal Commissioners be reduced from 75 to 50.

(2) That the reduction is to apply only to the elected element in the Corporation, the number of nominated Commissioners remaining unaltered. The Commissioners elected by the rate-payers are to be reduced to one-half of their present numerical strength, namely, from 50 to 25.

(3) That as regards the constitution of the General Committee, which is to consist of 12 members, four members, or one-third of the entire body, are to be nominated by the Government, and the remaining two-thirds are to be elected by the Corporation so as to secure on the General Committee "a strictly fair and proportionate representation of the constituent elements of the electoral body." The electoral body, which is the Corporation, will consist of two branches of equal numerical strength, namely, 25 nominated and 25 elected Commissioners. A strictly fair and proportionate representation of the constituent elements of the Corporation has been interpreted to mean that of the eight members to be elected by that body for the General Committee, four are to be nominated and four are to be elected Commissioners.

(4) Lastly, the Special Committees and the Sub-Committees are to be so constituted as to be truly representative of the constituent elements of the body that appoints them, whether it be the Corporation or the General Committee.

4. The Government of India express the hope that these proposals being made by them, there may henceforward be a truce to all dissensions, and the Government appeal to all classes of the community, including the Hindu and Muhammadan rate-payers of the town, for their friendly and disinterested co-operation, with a view to vindicate the wisdom of the decision which twenty-three years ago extended to Calcutta the privileges of Local Self-Government. The Government of India would scarcely make such an appeal, if being convinced of the unsatisfactory character of the Bill as revised by the Select Committee, they did not offer something better. The Bombay municipal system, however inferior to the present municipal system of Calcutta, is undoubtedly less retrograde than the system provided in the Select Committee's Bill. But the modifications now made in accordance with the proposals of the Government of India, as interpreted by the Select Committee, make the Bill distinctly worse and less acceptable to the bulk of the rate-payers of Calcutta. It is almost inconceivable that the Government of India could have offered such a solution of the difficulty and have made it the ground of an appeal to all classes of the community for harmonious co-operation in the municipal government of the town. They suggest, as it seems to me, a much closer adaptation of the Bombay system than what has been attempted by the Select Committee; for, quoting the words used by Babu Norendro Nath Sen and myself in our Note of Dissent which are reproduced in the margin, they say:—"The Government of India are inclined to think that in this suggestion and in a more close adaptation of the Bombay model might be found the solution for which they are seeking." Our "suggestion" was that if the Bombay municipal system was at all to be adopted, it should be adopted in its entirety. But in the proposals formulated by the Select Committee and adopted in the Bill, there has been no real adaptation of the Bombay system, and what is more, these proposals are in direct contravention of the spirit and avowed intention of the letter of the Government of India, which is "to see these objects attained, not by any contravention of the broad principles of Local Self-Government already conceded, but by a curtailment of the abuses to which in practice they may have been exposed and by a restriction within limits suggested by experience of the range of their future operation."

'We are no advocates of the Bombay system; but if it is at all to be given a trial in Calcutta, we are certainly of opinion that it will not do to borrow from it here and there, but that the system should be introduced into Calcutta in its entirety.'

5. Further, it will be seen from paragraph 20 of the letter of the Government of India that they suggest only "the outlines of the revision of the existing system," and nothing more. Nor is the fact to be lost sight of that with the paragraph of the note of the dissenting members referred to above before them, the Government of India suggest "a more close adaptation of the Bombay model" with only two reservations, namely, the reduction of the numerical strength of the Corporation to 50 instead of 72, and a provision for the proportionate representation of the constituent elements of the Corporation in the portion of the General Committee (two-thirds) to be elected by that body. The inference therefore is perfectly legitimate that the Government of India are in favour of the adoption of the Bombay system in all other respects.

6. For these reasons, I cannot think that the Bill, as further revised by the Select Committee, correctly represents the views of the Government of India. I read their proposals in a different way from the majority of the Select Committee. But assuming that the Select Committee are right in their interpretation, I have no hesitation in saying that these proposals are retrograde and reactionary and utterly subversive of the broad principles of Local Self-Government conceded in 1876, which it is the avowed intention of the Government of India to preserve and maintain. If I am right in this contention, then I respectfully submit I am entitled to appeal to the Government of India (assuming that the view of the Select Committee is correct) for a re-consideration of their proposals in the light of their own avowed and declared policy.

7. The Government of India say in paragraph 7 of their letter:—

"The Government of India cannot fail to realise that they have a special responsibility in this case. It would be strange indeed if they did not feel a peculiar interest in a measure affecting the municipal constitution of a city, which is not merely the capital of the Province of Bengal, but also the seat of the Imperial Government and the capital of the Indian Empire. They are deeply persuaded of the importance of a local administration, which shall adequately represent the various great interests that have placed, and still keep, Calcutta in its premier position in India, and which shall be businesslike, efficient, and free from scandal or reproach. At the same time it would be their natural desire, in the interests both of continuity of administration and of public harmony, to see these objects attained, not by any contravention of the broad principles of Local Self-Government already conceded, but by a curtailment of the abuses to which in practice they may have become exposed, and by a restriction, within limits suggested by experience, of the range of their future operation. In these opinions the Government of India are convinced that they have the sympathy of the Lieutenant-Governor."

The Government of India are anxious that the municipal administration of Calcutta should be "businesslike, efficient, and free from scandal or reproach." At the same time they desire that there should be "no contravention of the broad principles of Local Self-Government already conceded," that abuses should be checked and the continuity of administration maintained. I venture to hold that the changes introduced in the Bill, as further revised by the Select Committee, especially the reduction of the popular element to one-half its present strength, is absolutely subversive of the principles of Local Self-Government which have already been conceded. To reduce the number of Commissioners is to restrict the diffusion of local interest in local affairs, and is prejudical to Local Self-Government, but to reduce the representatives of the rate-payers to a minority in the Corporation is to lay the axe at the root of those principles which were conceded in 1876 and re-affirmed in 1888. Let me for a moment consider what those principles were—

(1) In the first place, the Corporation was declared to be the one supreme authority in the administration of the municipal affairs of the town, fixing the rates and taxes, regulating expenditure, appointing the superior officers subject to the sanction of the Government—in short controlling, guiding and directing the affairs of the town. To the Corporation the Executive was responsible. This principle has been recognised in the constitution of the Corporation ever since there has been a Corporation in Calcutta. It was re-affirmed when the system of Local Self-Government was introduced in 1876.

(2) Secondly, the rate-payers of Calcutta were permitted the privilege of electing their own representatives to the extent of two-thirds of the entire numerical strength of the Corporation. In other words, the government of the town, the control of its municipal affairs, was placed in the hands of the representatives of the people. This was the dominant feature of the great concession of 1876, the one most dearly prized by the people; and it is this concession which is now assailed by the provisions of the Bill, as further revised by the Select Committee.

(3) Lastly, as a part of the scheme of 1876, the Government as a necessary safeguard, and in return for its practically complete delegation of authority to the Corporation, reserved to itself the right of control over the Corporation, to be exercised from without and not from within.

8. Now as regards the first of these concessions, namely, the Corporation being the one supreme authority in the administration of our municipal affairs, it is distinctively negatived by the system of co-ordinate authorities. Where there are co-ordinate authorities exercising jurisdiction independent of the Corporation, the supremacy of the Corporation is at an end. The first of the concessions, therefore, referred to above, which is even older than the system of Local Self Government in Calcutta, is withdrawn. I will not repeat the arguments against the system of co-ordinate authorities which I urged in my Note of Dissent (vide paragraphs 12 to 15 of the Note of Dissent). With all the respect that I can possibly feel for the high authorities who take a different view of the subject. I venture to submit that no matter what safeguards may be provided by ensuring homogeneity in the constitution of the Corporation, the most comprehensive foresight will not suffice to guard against every possible contingency which may arise; there will necessarily be friction, there will be conflict of authorities, there will be overlapping of jurisdiction, followed by their inevitable results.

9. Next, as regards the powers of control reserved to the Government under the great scheme of 1876, they are rendered still more stringent under the Bill as submitted to the Government of India, and the provisions of this part of the Bill have been approved by that Government. Here, again, it is unnecessary for me to repeat the arguments which I have already urged in our joint Note of Dissent. I will add that these stringent provisions are justified on the ground that they follow the model of English legislation on the subject. But the provisions of the Bill go much further than those of the English Public Health Act. The interference of the English Local Government Board is confined to sanitary matters, and can only be invoked upon complaint made. The Bill provides for the interference of the Government in regard to all matters, and covers the entire sphere of municipal administration—sanitary or otherwise. Further, the Government need not wait for any complaint being made—it may intervene on its own motion. Again, under the English Public Health Act, the Local Government Board is authorised to levy the local rate only to the extent of the debt due by the defaulting local body. Under the Bill, the Local Government may raise the rates and taxes and may even incur a loan. Some years ago, the Government of Bengal thought of creating a special department of the Government to control the municipal affairs of the Province. The creation of an institution like the Local Government Board. in Bengal, but adapted to the circumstances of the Province, would be a welcome innovation. However that may be, while under the Bill the authority of the Government over the Municipality is increased, the authority of the people and of their representatives is extinguished.

10. I now proceed to consider that which was the dominant feature of the concession of 1876—the essence of the "broad principles of Local Self-Government"—and which I have no hesitation in saying is nullified—(1) by the reduction of the number of Municipal Commissioners, and (2) by the reduction of the representative element in the Corporation to one-half its present strength.

11. Now as regards the reduction of the number of Municipal Commissioners, the Government of India say in their letter—

"The Government of India have been struck, in their examination of the grounds advanced both by Sir Alexander Mackenzie and Sir John Woodburn for the measure, by the allegation that the existing Corporation has devoted itself to speech and to criticism rather than to action. This charge, while doubtless to some extent due to the temper and spirit in which it has approached its work, is in the main to be attributed to the considerable and, as it would seem, excessive numbers of the municipal body. Their numerical strength, when viewed in regard either to the number of electors by whom the majority are returned, or to the experience of municipal institutions elsewhere, seems to be disproportionately and unnecessarily large. There can be no reason why a number of voters returned as only 13,890 out of a total ward population estimated at about 650,000, or a proportion of little more than 2 per cent., should return as many as 50 members; or why the interests of a city even of over 681,000 inhabitants should require the services of 75 Commissioners for their proper protection. The Government of India are disposed, therefore, to think that a most effective, though hitherto unsuggested, check upon the abuses and anomalies complained of might be found in a reduction of the numerical strength of the Corporation."

Even if it were the case, which I am not prepared to admit, that the Corporation "has devoted itself to speech and to criticism rather than to action," the circumstance would imply no reflection upon that body; for being deliberative by its constitution, the function of the Corporation is to criticise, to discuss, and to resolve upon action. There is no higher authority upon the municipal affairs of Calcutta than the late Sir Henry Harrison, and, speaking of the Calcutta Corporation, he said:—"In a body like the Corporation the Executive alone is in a position to push on the work." If the Corporation were devoted to talk rather than to action, it would be difficult to account for those sanitary works which have made Calcutta what it is. This allegation has been repeatedly made, and as often it has been refuted. Those most intimately acquainted with the work of the Corporation have defended it against the charge of wasting time in fruitless discussion. Mr. H. Lee, late Chairman of the Corporation, in the very last speech that he made as Chairman, entered a vigorous protest against it. This was what he said:—

"Less frequently now than of old, because the outside public is better acquainted with the facts, but still occasionally, we hear insinuations that much time is wasted in this hall by long speeches from the Municipal Commissioners. No charge could be further from the mark. In all my experience—and that has covered full three years—I have seldom listened to a speech that has not been useful and to the point. I can hardly recall a single instance in which I have made the reflection that the speaker was throwing no new light on his subject, and was simply speaking to make a speech. The facts, indeed, are conclusive. In the course of the year you hold some 30 General Meetings. All the proceedings of every Committee meeting, of which some 250 are held in the course of the year, come before you in this hall for review. A single Committee will frequently deal with 20 or more separate matters, and you have on the average to review proceedings of such Committees at each single meeting in this hall, so that you dispose of some times 120—seldom less than forty items of business at a sitting. How long do you take over it? As a rule between one and two hours! Who could say with fairness that that is excessive? How many similar deliberative bodies in the world are there that would dispose of the work in less time? The general rule that we endeavour to observe is not to speak without special knowledge and clear opinion, and then to express our thoughts in language as brief as we can make it."

12. It may not be altogether out of place here to observe that a similar charge has often been brought against deliberative assemblies of even higher status and dignity than the Corporation of Calcutta; but it has been dismissed as irrelevant, in view of the great boon which such institutions confer on the community. Sir Henry Fowler, late Secretary of State for India, speaking from his place in Parliament, in February last, in connection with the debate on the Calcutta Municipal Bill, thus defended the Calcutta Corporation:—

"He was not sure that the Mother of Parliaments was free from that objection. But with the Englishman who understood the working of Parliamentary and municipal life and local self-government in all its ramifications those objections would not weigh in the least against the general principle of enlisting the people in their own self-government."

13. But even if it were admitted that the debates in the Corporation were unnecessarily prolonged and involved waste of time which busy people could not afford, the remedy would not lie in the reduction of the number of Municipal Commissioners, for it is obvious that whatever may be the number, there are only a few, the leading Commissioners—about a dozen in number—who would speak and the others would listen. Here, again, I am able to rely upon the high authority of Sir Henry Harrison. Speaking from his place in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 4th February, 1888, he said:—

"At the same time I attach very little importance to this point. I do not believe there will be any practical difficulty in working, whether the number of Commissioners be 75, or 60, or 80, because we know that the time taken up by discussion does not depend on the total number of Commissioners present, but upon those Commissioners who wish to speak, and in a Corporation of even 40 members the leading Commissioners would, for the most part, be returned, and these would take an active part in the discussion as at present. I do not think that in this respect there would be any great difference in a body of 40 members, and a Corporation of 80 Commissioners of whom 15 or 16 would, as a rule, take part in the discussions. Practically, therefore, I attach little importance to the number of the Corporation. We only revise the work of the Committees in General Meetings of the whole body of Commissioners."

14. The opinion of Sir Henry Harrison is confirmed by the testimony of facts. Here is a statement drawn up by a leading Municipal Commissioner, in December, 1896, from which it will appear that in the years 1894-95 and 1895-96, there were on an average only six or seven Commissioners who spoke at a meeting, although the average attendance of Commissioners was 34 in 1894-95 and 40 in 1895-96 :—

YEAR.	Total number of items of business brought up.	Total number of items disposed of without discussion.	Total number of items on which short debates took place.	Total number of items on which long debates took place.	Average attendance at each meeting.	Average number of Commissioners speaking to each item.	Average number of Commissioners who gave silent votes.
1895-96 ...	328	249	54	25	47	7	40

15. It is remarkable that the reduction is to apply exclusively to the elected representatives of the rate-payers in the Corporation, while the number of nominated Commissioners remains unaltered. If one of the objects of the reduction be to save time, which is now said to be wasted in talk, it may be urged that the nominated Commissioners can talk, and sometimes quite as tediously as the elected Commissioners. Why not apply the pruning-knife to them as well as to the elected branch of the Corporation?

16. If the object of the reduction be to strengthen the European element, I maintain that it yet remains to be proved that an amendment of the law is necessary for the purpose. The fact is notorious that the European rate-payers themselves have been apathetic in securing the return of Europeans from the European wards, that the European constituencies have not always returned European members, and the Government have not used to the fullest extent its power of nomination with a view to balance the inadequacy of European representation Before all this is done, any change of the law would scarcely be warrantable. The law cannot be said to have failed when it has not been tried. Let me quote in this connection the opinion of Sir Henry Harrison :—

"And then as regards the power of nomination, this gives a power which the Government has never used to the fullest extent. It has never so used the power of nomination exclusively to strengthen the motive power in the Corporation, and this ought to be tried before the fundamental proportions are changed."

17. Then it is said "that the numerical strength of the Corporation when viewed in regard to either the number of electors by whom the majority are returned or to the experience of municipal institutions elsewhere seems to be disproportionately and unnecessarily large." "There can be no reason," say the Government of India, "why a number of voters returned as only 13,890, out of a total ward population estimated at about 650,000, or a proportion of little more than 2 per cent., should return as many as 50 members." Now, it is a well-known fact that the lists of voters, as prepared at the Municipal Office, are incomplete and inaccurate; and that whenever there is contest in a ward, the list for the ward is revised and largely added to, through the efforts of the candidates and their agents. At the last general election, in 12 out of the 25 wards, there was no contest, and the lists of voters for those wards were not revised at all. Then, again, the number of voters is restricted by law. We have not universal suffrage here. Every person who is a rate-payer is not necessarily a voter. It is only male persons of the age of 21 years, paying rates and taxes to the extent of Rs. 24 a year, who are qualified to be voters. All females, all persons below the age of 21, no matter what rates they pay, are excluded from the list of voters. Then, again, the entire population who inhabit the bustis, though they may pay more than Rs. 24 a year as rates, are not voters; for the rates are paid through their landlords. The franchise is further restricted by fixing the minimum assessed value of qualifying property at Rs. 150. In Great Britain the minimum is fixed at £10; but the minimum of £10 in a rich country like England brings in a large number of voters; the minimum of Rs. 150 in a comparatively poor town like Calcutta excludes a large number of those who would otherwise be voters. As a Ward Commissioner myself, and as one who has been so for the last 23 years, I have no hesitation in saying that our representative character is not to be judged by the number of votes recorded in our favour. We represent a much larger constituency than the immediate circle of our own supporters; for it is within the experience of all Ward Commissioners that they are looked up to for the redress of all municipal grievances, whether they affect their immediate constituents or not.

18. As regards the reason set forth in the letter of the Government of India for the reduction of the number of Municipal Commissioners, namely, that it is excessive when viewed in regard to "the experience of municipal institutions elsewhere," I desire to say that the statement is not consistent with the facts which I here venture to submit:—

Names of towns.	Population in 1898.	Number of Municipal Commissioners.
Glasgow	724,349 ...	78
Edinburgh	295,628 ...	41
Manchester	539,079 ...	104
Birmingham	510,343 ...	72
Liverpool	633,645 ...	64
Sheffield	356,478 ...	64
Leeds	416,618 ...	64

The population of Calcutta is over 650,000, and is certainly less homogeneous than those of the towns referred to in the above statement. Having regard to these facts, I venture to submit that it cannot be said that the number of Municipal Commissioners is excessive as compared to the number of Municipal Commissioners in other towns.

19. Undoubtedly the question of number is one, more or less, of opinion, but the Legislature cannot ignore the past. If we had a tabula rasa we might inscribe on it what we pleased. But Calcutta has a municipal history, and that history has created associations, tendencies, and habits of thought which must be important factors in determining the course of legislation. The practical statesman defers to public sentiment, not merely upon sentimental grounds, but for practical considerations of the highest moment. Any law, especially a municipal law, dealing with the habits and everyday lives of the people, is doomed to failure if it does not secure the sympathy and the active co-operation of the community whom it most intimately affects. Municipal institutions, like all other institutions, are a growth, and they cannot be transplanted from one place to another, unless the ground is prepared for them. In dealing with a proposal which vitally affects the constitution of the Calcutta Corporation, we must take note of what that constitution has hitherto been and what has been the policy of the Government in regard to it. Now, ever since there has been a Corporation in Calcutta, the number of Justices or Municipal Commissioners (the members of the Corporation were known under these two names at two different periods of the municipal history of Calcutta) has never been less than 72 and has sometimes exceeded 120. From 1863 to 1876, the municipal affairs of the city were controlled by the Justices. Their number, unlimited at first, stood at 120 in 1876. In 1876 the Corporation was constituted upon a representative basis and the number of Commissioners was fixed at 72.

20. This was the number from 1876 to 1888, when the municipal law came under revision and the number was fixed at 75. This did not represent any increase in the numerical strength of the Corporation, as considerable addition was made to the municipal limits of Calcutta by the inclusion of the suburban area. Thus, from 1863 to 1899, close upon a period extending over 40 years, the number has never been less than 72, and has sometimes exceeded 120. Further, not a single Lieutenant-Governor, from 1863 to 1899, has ever suggested the reduction of the number to 50, which is now recommended by the Government of India. There never was a more strenuous opponent of the present system of Municipal Government than Sir Alexander Mackenzie, and when he was credited in some of the newspapers with the intention of reducing the number of Commissioners, he indignantly repudiated the suggestion His Honour the present Lieutenant-Governor also declared himself as being distinctly opposed to any reduction. He said:—

"In the criticisms on the Bill the Select Committee will further find the suggestion that the central body of the Corporation should be reduced in number and brought into harmony with the constitution of the General Committee. It is alleged that it is unscientific and illogical to leave the Corporation unchanged while you materially change your Executive Committee, and that the result is certain to be a constant friction. I am not concerned about the charge that our proposals are illogical and unscientific. The most scientific constitutions have not been the most successful in our knowledge. And I have no apprehensions of any injurious friction. At the commencement of all changes there is certain to be opposition and friction of sorts, but as soon as people become accustomed to the change, these temporary sorenesses vanish. It is from the representatives of the rate-payers alone that any friction could come, and they have shown so much good sense and public spirit in all the greater matters of the past, that I have entire confidence in their bearing in the future. And, speaking for myself, I endorse with the [heartiest] pleasure and satisfaction the decision that the constitution of the Corporation shall remain as it is. I look upon it as of the greatest value to the administration of the City that there should be numerous wards and numerous delegates. The information and advice about local needs, which these delegates bring, will be of most important service. There could be no more excellent illustration than in the assistance they gave last hot weather in calming the fears of the people and establishing the temporary hospitals, which were the best means of re-assuring them. I welcome, therefore, the arrangment which retains a large number of local Councillors, and the dangers of possible friction I personally regard as enormously outweighed by the certain advantages of their help."

21. The position, therefore, is narrowed down to this simple issue—Ever since there has been a Corporation in Calcutta, the number of Commissioners has never been less than seventy-two, and has often exceeded that limit. No Lieutenant-Governor has ever suggested the reduction of the number of Commissioners to the limit now proposed by the Government; many have been in favour of the higher number of 72 or 75. The proposals of the Government of India in this respect, therefore, involve a great departure from what has hitherto been the accepted constitution of the Corporation, and is opposed to the consensus of opinion of many Lieutenant-Governors intimately acquainted with our municipal system and possessed of the largest local experience. If, under these circumstances, a change is to be made, it can only be justified on grounds of the clearest necessity supported by the strongest reasons. I have already shown that no such reasons are apparent. On the contrary, the change is likely to be attended with serious administrative inconvenience. The wards are for the most part far too large to be attended to by a single Ward Commissioner. Their wants are numerous; the populations are far from being homogeneous; there are diverse, at times, conflicting interests. For the mere efficiency of municipal administration, apart from the higher consideration of representation, all sides of a controversy that may spring up in a ward should be laid before the Corporation; and it is obvious that for such a purpose the presence of more than one Commissioner from a ward is essential. If there is a controversy in any ward, and there are several wards which have a mixed population, I ask is one Commissioner representing the ward able to do justice to the issues raised, or to present all phases of the controversy? Even when the question is one affecting a particular interest, the presence of another Commissioner in the same ward, whose personal or racial feelings are not enlisted in the matter, must exercise a sobering influence upon the situation. As an impartial and at the same time a sympathising friend, his advice commands respect; his authority enforces the weight of his advice, and altogether he exercises a healing and moderating influence. I have in my mind a case in my own ward which is yet pending and which exactly illustrates the truth of my observation.

22. Nor is this all. There being one Commissioner allotted to each ward, whether the ward comprises a mixed population, or otherwise, the electioneering contests will now be conducted on class lines. The Hindus will vote for the Hindu candidate, and the Muhammadans for the Muhammadan. Religious and racial acerbities, which were rapidly disappearing under our happy educational influences, not the least important of which is a better understanding owing to association in public affairs, will thus come into full play, and the seeds of dissension between class and class will be sown broadcast in a city in which the elements of public discord are sufficiently rife. I have no hesitation in saying that the larger number of Commissioners, such as we now have, is a distinct advantage to a Government that is responsible for the peace and well-being of such a town as Calcutta. The larger the number of Commissioners, consistently of course with the convenient transaction of municipal business, the greater is the local influence secured on behalf of authority and the maintenance of order. If unhappily there was to be a recrudescence of the plague in Calcutta, followed by a repetition of the popular excitement which we witnessed in the summer of 1898, would not the Government find its hands weakened by the reduction of the number of Municipal Commissioners? No one was more cordial in his acknowledgment of the services rendered by the Ward Commissioners on that trying occasion than Sir John Woodburn. "The information and advice about local matters," said His Honour, "which these delegates (the Ward Commissioners) bring will be of most important service. There could be no more excellent illustration than in the assistance they gave last hot weather in calming the fears of the people and establishing temporary hospitals which were the best means of re-assuring them." In the mixed wards, where the population is partly Hindu and partly Muhammadan, it is obvious that unless the circumstances were exceptional, the Hindu Commissioner would scarcely be in a position to restrain the rowdy element in the Muhammadan population, and the Muhammadan Commissioner would feel himself powerless in the presence of a Hindu mob ready to break the peace. Of course, the Government is omnipotent, and it can readily suppress all disturbances. But an appeal to force is the last resort of a civilized Government, and is adopted only when moral persuasion has failed.

23. In this connection there is another consideration which cannot be overlooked. In a contest between Hindu and Muhammadan candidates in the wards where there are Hindus and Muhammadans, the Muhammadan candidates are likely to be defeated; for the Hindu rate-payers are the wealthiest, their plural votes depending upon property give them a distinct advantage, and their influence is commensurate with their wealth. The reduction of the number of Municipal Commissioners will affect the election of Muhammadan representatives to the Corporation. This deficiency in respect of Muhammadan representation will probably have to be made good by a liberal use, in favour of the Muhammadan community, of the power of nomination held in reserve by the Government. To that extent the power of nomination for the benefit of the other communities will be curtailed.

24. The reduction of the number of Municipal Commissioners is therefore liable to be attended with serious administrative inconvenience; it is opposed to what has been the accepted constitution of the Corporation for the last forty years, and to an overwhelming consensus of opinion on the part of eminent Lieutenant-Governors; it is also prejudicial to "the broad principles of Local Self-Government already conceded" I therefore recommend that the present number of Municipal Commissioners be not reduced, and in this view I am supported by the opinions of Sir Alexander Mackenzie and Sir John Woodburn, and by the Select Committee who reported in April last.

25. I now desire to call special attention to the provisions of the Bill which curtail the proportion of elected in relation to nominated Commissioners, and thus reduce the elected element to a minority in the Corporation. Here again the provisions of the Bill, as further revised by the Select Committee, are in entire conflict with the municipal history of Calcutta and the policy of the Government in the past. Ever since the Corporation has been re-constituted upon a popular basis, the majority of the Corporation, representing two-thirds of the entire body, have been the elect of the rate-payers. The concession was made in 1876, and has been continued up till now. Sir Richard Temple was indeed prepared to raise the proportion of elected Commissioners to three-fourths of the entire body, if the number of Commissioners representing the different nationalities could be fixed by law. "I am myself so far sanguine," said Sir Richard Temple, from his place in the Bengal Legislative Council, "that I am quite willing to reduce the proportion from one-third to one-fourth if that shall be the pleasure of the Council." The matter again came up for consideration in 1888 when the present Municipal law was passed. Two conflicting proposals were made. Mr. Irving, the representative of the Trades' Association, proposed to reduce the number to sixty, and the representative element to one-half of the entire body. Babu Kally Nath Mitter proposed to raise the number of Commissioners to eighty, and the representative element to three-fourths of the entire body. The Government of the day, under Sir Stouart Bayley, would not accept either of these amendments. It fixed the number of Commissioners at 75, and maintained the former proportion of two-thirds of the Commissioners being elected by the rate payers. "I think," said Sir Henry Harrison, "we ought to follow the old lines as laid down in the Bill which allows two-thirds of the Commissioners to be elected by the wards, and I therefore trust the Council will, on the fullest consideration, adhere to the proposals before them in the Bill" But it was not merely on sentimental grounds that he objected to the motion for the reduction of the strength of the representative element in the Corporation. Sir Henry Harrison based his objection upon practical considerations of the highest moment. "If I had any hopes," said he, "that the European members would take the same interest as the native members, I should be more disposed to yield to the Honble Mr. Irving's argument, but I am afraid we must put this aside as really out of the question." The Hon'ble Mr. Macaulay, who for many years was Secretary to Government in charge of the Municipal Department, said:—

"* * * * * * And for myself I am glad to have the opportunity of explaining the apparent incongruity of voting against the amendment of my hon'ble friend Babu Kally Nath Mitter, which involves an extension of the principle of election, while I am myself primarily responsible for the clause of the section which will give that principle a still larger extension. Briefly, I oppose the amendment of the Hon'ble Babu Kally Nath Mitter, on the ground that, although it involves the expansion of the principle of election, it involves not the expansion, but the contraction, of what is much more important—the principle of representation; I oppose the amendment of the Hon'ble Mr. Irving on the ground that it involves the contraction of both: * * To guard against misunderstanding, I wish to state my distinct opinion that the working of the elective system in Calcutta has been a decided success. I cannot agree with my hon'ble friend Sir Henry Harrison in thinking that, if we were beginning to legislate for an elective system, we might take the Hon'ble Mr Irving's proposal for electing only one-half. I think that, looking to the experience we have had of the working of the system as a whole, we should be fully justified, were we in the position of our predecessors, the legislators of 1876, in taking the proportion of two-thirds elected by the rate-payers. For this reason I will certainly oppose my friend the Hon'ble Mr. Irving's amendment. The elective system has brought forward men like my friend the Hon'ble Babu Kally Nath Mitter, men of ability and business habits, who have done excellent service to the community, and I think that all friends of Self-Government must rejoice that these men owe their positions, not to the voice of nomination, but to the suffrages of their fellow townsmen."

26. It is now proposed to contract the principle of representation in opposition to the opinions of high authorities intimately acquainted with the municipal history of Calcutta, and to what has for so many years been the accepted constitution of the Corporation. No Lieutenant-Governor, not even Sir Alexander Mackenzie, has ever suggested such a radical and revolutionary change. It will be absolutely subversive of the "broad principles of Local Self-Government already conceded." No doubt it will be said in reply that all that is intended is merely to restrict and not subvert the principles of Local Self-Government. But the restriction that is proposed will not only limit, but, in the attempt to check alleged abuses, regarding which no formal enquiry has been held, will practically extinguish the principles of Local Self-Government in Calcutta. Local Self-Government means the administration of local affairs by the representatives of the local public; but if in the Corporation, which is entrusted with the management of local affairs, the representatives of the people are reduced to a minority —it may be to a hopeless minority—with little or no influence in the administration, Local Self-Government is practically at an end. In a Corporation of fifty members, only twenty-five will be the representatives of the rate-payers. The other twenty-five members will represent the European and official view, and with the official Chairman, the Commissioners representing the rate-payers will be in a minority; and if some of the European wards were to elect European Commissioners, as they are likely to do after the present controversy, it is no exaggeration to say that the representatives of the Hindu and Muhammadan rate-payers would be in a hopeless minority. The present Bill therefore is distinctly worse and more retrograde than the first Bill submitted by the Select Committee, and is even more reactionary than the Bill introduced by Sir Alexander Mackenzie's Government. If not under both these Bills, at any rate under the Bill as revised by the Select Committee, the power of the purse was vested in the representatives of the rate-payers who were in a majority in the Corporation. They fixed the rates, regulated finance and controlled expenditure. The determination of all large questions also belonged to them. Being now reduced to a minority in the Corporation, their power and influence will be gone. It is the Hindu and Muhammadan rate-payers who pay the bulk of the taxes; but their representatives will have little or no influence in determining how the proceeds of the taxes are to be spent. The result will be disastrous to the ends of economical administration, for it is the universal verdict of mankind, confirmed by the experience of all countries where the system has been tried, that the greatest security of the public revenue is the control of the public purse by the representatives of the tax-payers. When people have to spend others' money, they are apt to be extravagant. When they spend their own money, naturally enough they are disposed to be economical. The truth of this observation is amply corroborated by the sound and economical administration of the finances of the Calcutta Corporation, under the government of the elected Commissioners; and when it is borne in mind that finance is the backbone of every form of administration, municipal or otherwise, I have no hesitation in saying that the provisions of the Bill which reduce the representatives of the rate-payers to a minority in the Corporation is a dangerous innovation which may have a most disastrous effect.

27. In case the present proposal for reducing the numerical strength of the Corporation and fixing the elected and nominated elements in equal proportions is persisted in, there should, in justice to the Indian community, be a re-arrangement of the wards and a re-distribution of the seats. For there will no longer be any reason for allowing to the European wards, such as wards 15, 16, 17 and 18, with their smaller areas and still smaller populations and handful of voters, the same amount of representation as to the Indian wards with their larger areas, their teeming populations, and more numerous voters. The concession of a proportionately larger measure of representation to the European wards was admittedly designed to be a check against the possibility of an undue preponderance of the Hindus on the Corporation, and to provide a strong minority of Europeans on that body. But that was when the proportion of elected to nominated Commissioners was as 2 to 1. To continue the concession now would be to weaken still further the Indian element which under the Bill would necessarily be in a minority.

28. It is said that this part of the Bill is based upon the model of the Bombay municipal system. Even if it were so, I would object; for our municipal system, whether it be the system of the Presidency town or of the townships in the interior, is distinctly in advance of the system in vogue in Western India, and I respectfully protest against the Municipal system of Calcutta being assimilated to that of Bombay. But I venture to dispute the proposition that the Bombay model is faithfully reproduced in the provisions of the Bill I am now considering. The Bombay Corporation consists of 72 members, one-half of whom are elected, and the other half nominated. The Calcutta Corporation under the Bill, as further revised by the Select Committee, will consist of two equal sections, one-half of whom will be elected and the other half nominated. But here the analogy ends. This apparent similarity between the two systems really covers the widest divergence. In the one case, the system ensures the preponderance of the Indian element in the Corporation; in the other case, it will reduce the representatives of the Indian element who pay the bulk of the rates and taxes to a minority in the Corporation. In the one case, it preserves Local Self-Government; in the other it will completely destroy it. Let me for a moment compare the constituent elements of the two Corporations.

29. The Corporation of Bombay consists of 72 members, as follows:—

(1) 36 Elected at ward elections.
(2) 16 Elected by the Justices.
(3) 2 Elected by the Fellows of the University.
(4) 2 Elected by the Bombay Chamber of Commerce.
(5) 16 appointed by the Bombay Government.

It may be noted that the Justices and the University are mainly Indian constituencies—the majority of the members being natives of India. Out of 572 Justices, 335 are Indians. Out of 342 Fellows of the University, 208 are Indians. Therefore in Bombay practically 54 out of the 72 members are returned by the natives of the country or their representatives. What might have been anticipated from the constitution of the Bombay Corporation is more than confirmed by actual results. Out of 72 members 60 are Indians; and there are only three Europeans who are members of the Standing Committee.

30. Now contrast the situation with that of Calcutta. Under the provisions of the revised Bill, the Calcutta Corporation will consist of—

(1) 25 Members elected at ward elections.
(2) 15 Members appointed by the Government.
(3) 10 Members nominated by the European Trading and Mercantile Interests, as follows:—
    4 Nominated by the Chamber of Commerce.
    4 Nominated by the Trades' Association.
    2 Nominated by the Port Trust.

Now it is very obvious that the ten members nominated by the special constituencies will all be Europeans, and the bulk of the fifteen members nominated by the Government will also be Europeans in the sense in which that word is used by the Government, and then there are the European wards which in all probability will return Europeans. Further, among the elected Commissioners there may be a few officials, as there are at present. It is safe to assume that the "Europeans" will, generally speaking, vote on the official side. The representatives of the rate-payers in the Corporation and in the General Committee will thus be in a minority, and not as in the Bombay Corporation in a majority. How then, let me ask, is the Bombay model faithfully reproduced? What becomes of Local Self-Government in Calcutta?

31. If the Bombay system is indeed to be closely followed as regards the constitution of the Calcutta Corporation, the constituencies from which the members of the Corporation are to be recruited should be differently arranged. The following arrangement of the constituencies would represent a "faithful reproduction" of the Bombay system:—

25 Members elected at the ward elections.

11 Members (and not 15 as proposed by the Bill) appointed by the Government.

10 Members nominated by the Presidency Magistrates (corresponding to the Bombay Justices).

2 Members (and not 4 as proposed by the Bill) nominated by the Chamber of Commerce.

2 Members nominated by the University.

The Port Trust and the Trades' Association would cease to be constituencies under this scheme.

32. But there are other and hardly less important points of difference between the Bombay system and the system proposed for Calcutta under the Bill. In Bombay, the Corporation, with a preponderance of the Indian element, is the superior administrative body, and chooses its own president who is the chief spokesman of the Municipality. The Standing Committee elects its own chairman; and the Municipal Commissioner, the chief executive officer, is not even a member of either the Corporation or the Standing Committee. This is one of the most essential features of the Bombay system; for, while the Municipal Commissioner is untrammelled and not to be interfered with as regards the details of executive work, he is jealously excluded from exercising any influence over the decisions of the deliberative bodies. It is noteworthy that the president of the Standing Committee is not necessarily the president of the Corporation, nor vice versa; so that while the three co-ordinate authorities are perfectly free and untrammelled in their respective provinces, the possibility of any one of them unduly dominating over another in its peculiar sphere of action is entirely removed. Now in Calcutta, under the Bill, the Indian community, paying the bulk of the rates and taxes, will be in a minority both in the Corporation and the General Committee; and the chief executive officer, as ex-officio president of both these bodies, will guide and control their deliberations, and with his casting-vote exercise a potent influence over their decisions, while he himself will be perfectly free and independent of them as regards the details of executive work. Thus the Chairman, in Calcutta, will be the most powerful of the three authorities, in fact he will be the predominant partner, entirely overshadowing the other co-ordinate authorities. In Bombay, the Corporation as the superior administrative body, enjoys the fullest opportunity of criticising the acts of the Municipal Commissioner and of the Standing Committee, with the most unrestricted freedom; and as a matter of fact, in practice, in the words of Mr. Pherozeshah Mehta, it controls, criticises, supervises, and directs them constantly and continuously; whereas the Corporation of Calcutta, which has hitherto been vested with supreme control over the minutest details of the municipal administration of the city, will, under the Bill, be deprived even of the power of effectively criticising the acts of the Executive. For, there can be no useful criticism without knowledge. In Bombay, the Corporation has the most ample powers to call for any information and papers regarding the details of municipal administration; the powers of the Corporation, in Calcutta, in this respect, are, however, extremely limited. This will be clear on a reference to sections 65* and 66* of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, and comparing them with the provisions of section 95 of the present Bill. Section 95* of the Bill is practically the same as section 65* of the Bombay Act, but with an important difference. In Bombay it is incumbent on the Standing Committee to comply with the requisition of the Corporation without unreasonable delay, but here such compliance is not obligatory on the General Committee; while it is remarkable that the Bill nowhere contains any provisions similar to those of section 66 of the Bombay Act which confers upon the Corporation in Bombay the power of obtaining the fullest information as regards the details of work from the head of the Executive. Then again the privilege of appointing Special Committees has, it is true, been conceded to the Corporation of Calcutta, under the amended Bill, but under restrictions which find no place in the Bombay Act; while an invidious distinction has been made as regards the payment of fees, between Special Committees of the Corporation and Sub-Committees appointed by the General Committee.

As regards the constitution of the General Committee, the Bill now submitted makes a departure from the Bill as revised by the Select Committee. The Government of India recommend that of the 12 members of the General Committee, two-thirds are to be elected by the Corporation, and one-third

*Section 95 (1). The Corporation may at any time require the General Committee to furnish them with any extract from any proceedings of such Committee or of any Sub-Committee constituted under this Act, and with any return, statement, account or report concerning or connected with any matter dealt with by such Committee or any such Sub-Committee.

(2). The General Committee shall comply with all such requisitions, unless in any case they consider that inconvenience or unreasonable delay would result . . . . . Bill.

to be nominated by the Government. This would have been a distinct improvement upon the Bill as revised by the Select Committee, if the constitution of the Corporation had not been interfered with. "But where is the good of it," as a leading London newspaper pertinently asks, "if the Corporation has an official majority?" The eight members to be elected by the General Committee, in accordance with the proposals of the Government of India, are to be representative of the constituent elements of the electoral body, and the other four are to be appointed by the Government. The Bill accordingly provides that of the 12 members of the General Committee, 4 will be appointed by the Government, 4 will be elected by the elected Commissioners, and 4 by the nominated Commissioners. This is not the Bombay system which is distinctly more advantageous to the interests of the rate-payers. Of the 12 members of the Bombay Standing Committee, 4 are appointed by the Government, and the rest are elected by the Corporation in which the representatives of the rate-payers are in a majority; and as might have been expected, the majority of the members of the Standing Committee are representatives of the rate-payers. Under the Bombay system, therefore, as in the Corporation, so also in the Standing Committee, real power and authority is vested in the representatives of the Indian community. But in the constitution of the General Committee of the Calcutta Corporation as now proposed, the voice of the Government will be supreme. Directly the Government will appoint 4 members; indirectly through the nominated Commissioners, 15 of whom will be the nominees of the Government; the Government will exercise an influence in the appointment of even the members elected by the nominated Commissioners.

*Section 65. The Corporation may at any time call for any extract from any proceedings of the Standing Committee, or of any Committee or Sub-Committee constituted under this Act and for any return, statement, account or report concerning or connected with any matter with which the Standing Committee or any such Committee or Sub-Committee is empowered by or under this Act to deal; and every such requisition shall be complied with by the Standing Committee or other Committee or Sub-Committee, as the case may be, without unreasonable delay. . . . . Bombay Act.

*Section 66 (1). The Corporation may at any time require the Commissioner—

(a) to produce any record, correspondence, plan or other document which is in his possession or under his control as Commissioner, or which is recorded or filed in his office, or in the office of any municipal officer or servant subordinate to him;

(b) to furnish any return, plan, estimate, statement, account or statistics concerning or connected with any matter appertaining to the administration of this Act or the municipal government of the city;

(c) to furnish a report by himself or to obtain from any head of a department subordinate to him and furnish, with his own remarks thereon, a report upon any subject concerning or connected with the administration of this Act or the municipal government of the city.

(2) Except as is hereinafter provided, every such requisition shall be complied with, by the Commissioner without unreasonable delay; and it shall be incumbent on every municipal officer and servant to obey any order made by the Commissioner in pursuance of any such requisition:

(3) Provided that if, on such a requisition as aforesaid being made, the Commissioner shall declare that immediate compliance therewith would be prejudicial to the interests of the Corporation or of the public it shall be lawful for him to defer such compliance until a time not later than the second ordinary meeting of the Corporation after he shall have declared as aforesaid. If at such meeting or any meeting subsequent thereto, the Corporation shall repeat the requisition, and it shall then still appear to the Commissioner inexpedient to comply therewith, he shall make a declaration to that effect, whereon it shall be lawful for the Corporation to elect one Councillor who with the President of the Corporation and the Chairman of the Standing Committee (or if the President of the Corporation is also Chairman of the Standing Committee, with the said President and one member of their own body elected by the Standing Committee) shall form a Committee who shall engage to keep secret, save as hereinafter provided, the existence and purport of such documents and matters as may be disclosed to them; and to the said Committee the Commissioner shall be bound to make known and to disclose all writings and matters within his knowledge, under his control, or available to him and embraced within the requisition, and the said Committee having taken cognizance of the information, writings and matters so laid before them shall determine, by a majority in case of difference, whether or not the whole or any part and which part, if any, of such matters ought to be disclosed to the Corporation or kept secret for a defined time, which decision shall be conclusive, and shall be reported to the Corporation at the next Ordinary Meeting thereof, where also the Commissioner shall be prepared to produce documents and to make any report or statement requisite to give effect to the decision of the Committee when called on to do so by the Corporation. . . . . Bombay Act.

Thus directly or indirectly Government will exercise a potent influence in the nomination of two-thirds of the members of the General Committee. This is not the Bombay system. It is a system which I have no hesitation in saying would be fatal to the influence of the rate-payers in the governing body of the Corporation. The difference between the Bombay and Calcutta systems is based on the ground that the population of Calcutta is more diversified than that of Bombay. As a matter of fact it is not so. There is a greater diversity in the population of Bombay than what exists among the population of Calcutta. The population of Calcutta consists of the three great divisions of Hindus, Muhammadans, and Europeans. The population of Bombay is less homogeneous and there is a greater conflict of interests there than here. In addition to the Hindus, Muhammadans, and Europeans, the population comprises the Parsees, Portuguese, and Jews, who form influential sections of the community in Bombay.

33. An alternative scheme has been suggested, which, I must say, is better than what the Bill provides in this respect. It is this—that the 12 members of the General Committee should all be elected by the Corporation, in the proportion of one-half from among the elected Commissioners, and the other half from among the nominated Commissioners. For my own part, I strongly maintain that the present constitution of the General Committee has worked well, and no case has been made out for a change.

34. I have made it abundantly clear, in the course of this Note, that I am entirely in favour of the maintenance of the existing system of municipal government in Calcutta which, according to the highest official testimony, has proved beneficial to the town. No case has been made out for a change. But if the Government of India have definitely resolved to modify the present municipal system of Calcutta on the Bombay model, I have no hesitation in saying, as I have already urged in my previous Note of Dissent, that the Bombay system should be adopted in its entirety. As I read the proposals of the Government of India, it seems to me that this is what they mean, subject to the reservations to which I have already referred. The Select Committee, however, have understood the proposals in a different way. I, therefore, recommend that a reference be made to the Government of India in this connection. Let us clearly know what is intended by the Government of India before we proceed to embody their views in a legislative measure.

35. In conclusion I feel that I should be wanting in my duty as a Member of this Council if I did not raise a note of warning. The Indian community fully recognize the spirit of the Government letter, and they are deeply grateful for it. But they feel that they cannot assent to the proposals of the Government which involve the sacrifice of one of their most cherished institutions. Local Self-Government may be English in its origin, but being in harmony with our own ancient institutions, viz., the punchayet system and the village communities, it has become a cherished institution, and has drawn to itself in an unstinted measure the love and devotion of the people. The Government of India have appealed to the patriotism of all sections of the community to co-operate with them in the settlement of this controversy. Such an appeal, coming from so exalted an authority and addressed in a spirit that leaves nothing to be desired, ought to elicit the most cordial response But I venture respectfully to submit that if the Bill be passed into law, there will be no Local Self-Government to vindicate; nor is the patriotic co-operation of a community possible, when their strongest patriotic sentiments are put to the severest strain by the practical abolition of a much-prized and dearly-beloved institution. If the amicable co-operation of all parties in the future municipal government of the city is essential to its efficient administration, then I am bound to say the prospects of the success of the measure are remote; for the Bill has created the gravest disappointment, and has alienated the sympathies of those, without whose good-will no municipal administration in Calcutta can be successful, namely, the sympathies of the great body of Indian rate-payers and residents of Calcutta.

The 10th August, 1899. SURENDRANATH BANERJEE.

NOTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE MR. APCAR.

I REGRET that in the Select Committee we were strictly restricted to the consideration of the recommendations which, it was alleged, were specifically made by the Government of India. The fact that shape was given to certain suggestions does not militate against my contention that other points were designedly left open for discussion and consideration. This view is supported by paragraph 21 of the letter of the Government of India, where it appears that that letter purports to give only "the outlines of the revision of the existing scheme which, in the interests of the future efficient and orderly administration of Calcutta, the Government of India commend to the consideration of the Government of Bengal.

2. The fresh proposals, as interpreted in the Select Committee, leave those who have been most aggrieved by the measure before the Council, with their representation in the Corporation considerably weakened, and generally, in every particular, in a far worse position than under the Bill as amended by the Select Committee in April last. If I am to regard the narrow interpretation of the letter of the Government of India, that has prevailed in the Committee as the true one, then I must take it that it is at the moment when those who have been most prejudiced in the controversy are in their worst position, that they are called upon to be satisfied with and acquiesce in their own greater discomfiture. It is impossible for me to accept that the Government of India, whose letter is instinct with courtesy in every sentence, deliberately intended to make sport of those whom they ostensibly wished to conciliate. On the other hand, if in other directions there were amendments entertained, that would serve to safeguard the interests which the new changes have injuriously affected, there might be reason to suppose that those to whom the appeal for a truce to dissensions has been made, may be induced to acquiesce in a remodelled Bill, and co-operate with the Government in the administration of the city.

3. The Government of India in their letter have expressed, in a marked manner, their approval of the Bombay model, and have pointedly suggested that a solution of the present difficulty may be found in a closer adaptation to that system, of the constitution for Calcutta. The letter seems to me to indicate that no objection or disapproval would come from the Government of India, however close the adaptation may be carried, and only two points that were in some degree at variance with the Bombay Act, were formulated in a definite manner for the guidance of the Local Government. The reply of the Local Government does not qualify their acceptance of the suggestions of the Supreme Government. These letters come in at the present stage as a new factor in the question, and they, with the terms of the motion* under which the re committal to the Select Committee was made, create, I venture to say, a legitimate claim on the part of those who may desire it, for at least the consideration of the question in what respects, and to what extent, if any, the constitution for the Calcutta Corporation may be assimilated to that of Bombay. This claim was preferred but was not allowed in the Select Committee.

* That the Calcutta Municipal Bill be referred back to the Select Committee for further consideration with reference to the correspondence between the Government of India and the Government of Bengal which was published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette of the 12th July, 1899, and with instructions to report within two weeks.

4. In my opinion no change is called for in the system that gives the control of the administration to the Corporation of Calcutta. Those who so easily speak of the waste of time, forget that not so many as 5 per cent. of the business transacted in general meetings are even discussed. Those who complain that that there are unnecessary delays by reason of the frequent references back of business from the General Meetings to the Committees, do not seem to be aware that 98 to 99 per cent. of the business of the Corporation is got through without any reference back being made, and do not pause to think that, if such a very large percentage of business is treated finally, there may be good cause for referring back the small proportion of one or two per cent. which are sent back for re-consideration. We ought not to lose sight of the fact that legislation with regard to the Corporation in 1876, when an elective system was granted, was undertaken after due enquiry, which covered, among other points, the adequate representation of the various mixed communities of Calcutta: that, again, when in 1888 amalgamtion with the Suburbs was effected, legislation was not undertaken until after full enquiry relating to the object in view. On each occasion the conduct of the proceedings was left by the Government in expert hands. In 1876 the Member in charge of the Bill in this Council was Sir Stuart Hogg, who then was the Chairman of the Corporation, and had been in that office for 9 years. In 1888 the Member in charge was Sir Henry Harrison, who then was, and had for 8 years previously been, the Chairman of the Corporation. Each of them had intimate practical knowledge of the subject. Who could be better advisers of the Government, from their own point of view, than men such as those to whom I have referred? From whom would come the best suggestions—again from the point of view of the Chairman and of the Government—for the efficient administration of the town? It has been publicly stated, and the statement has been echoed in the Council chamber, that the existing law fails to define the powers of the Executive. A reference to the proceedings of this Council, in connection with the Act of 1876, will show that that question was prominently brought forward at the time, and was present in the minds of the Legislators. That Act was deliberately shaped to define the relative functions and powers of the Executive and the Corporation, and the part relating to this question, after a test of 12 years, was deliberately re-enacted in the Act of 1888. If either of the distinguished and experienced Chairmen whom I have named, had found the existing system to be in truth inefficient and unworkable, it would have been his duty, and in his own personal interest, to report to that effect. He most assuredly would have done so, and the Government of the day would as certainly have paid heed to him. So far from seeking any change, Sir Henry Harrison openly declared in Council his conviction to be that the system was not unworkable, and later took an opportunity of paying an eloquent tribute to "the moderation in judgment, the sense of responsibility, the toleration of opposition, and the practical sagacity" shown by the leading Hindu Commissioners.

5. When one who has had experience as the Head of the Executive is in charge of legislation intended to effect changes in the Corporation, we have some guarantee that the proposals will not be uncalled for, and will not be based on theoretical and general ideas that will be found unworkable and unwise in practice. And so sensitive have the Government hitherto been to be in touch with the Corporation, in any legislation affecting that body, that when the Fire Brigade Bill was before the Council, a measure that concerned the Corporation in a very small degree, they sought the assistance of Mr. Lee, who then had only a short time been the Chairman of the Corporation, in the Council in connection with that measure.

6. The present Bill was framed and presented to this Council by one of the Secretaries to the Executive Government who has had no practical knowledge of the Corporation, and who has had no practical experience of any other Municipality other than, perhaps, that of the summer Capital of the Local Government. The Bill shows his inexperience of the working of the administration, and the statements on which it has been attempted to justify the changes that have been proposed, teem with inaccuracies and are generally such as could not have been relied upon by any person acquainted with the facts. If there are faults to be remedied, most certainly they should be remedied; and where there is a genuine desire for reform, only an enquiry, such as we have established precedent for, could elicit how it could best be effected. But the present situation is emphasised by the fact that, although we have an inexperienced stranger to the administration set to work to devise a scheme of government, a completely novel constitution, which makes a sweeping change in every particular, is decided upon without any enquiry as to where the faults in the present system lie, and how they can best be remedied. In view of all these circumstances, it is not surprising that not only the power of control that has been held by them for 36 years is taken away from the Corporation, but even the opportunity of criticism to be allowed to them under the new law, must prove ineffectual. In legislation of the nature of the Bill before the Council, there are no rewards or punishments: there are consequences, and the manner of proceeding to which I have drawn attention gives promise of no permanent or satisfactory arrangement for our municipal administration.

7. We have not a tabula rasa to work upon, and if fresh legislation is found to be required, the statesman-like policy, I venture to say, is to reform the constitution, not re-make it. It has been the frequently declared policy of the Government when legislating in connection with the Corporation to proceed on the old established lines, and I think that there ought to be no departure from that policy. While, however, I cannot admit that there is reason for revolutionary changes, or that it is wise to adopt them, I acknowledge, very readily, that the Bombay Act has presented to that city a well-thought-out and carefully-considered constitution for municipal government. The idea of the so-called co-ordinate authorities embodied in the Bill is borrowed from that Act, but the proposals for Calcutta fail in the very particulars that make the Bombay constitution a suitable one for municipal administration. To take first the point which, in my opinion, is the most important of all.

8. In Bombay the three co-ordinate authorities are—

I. The Municipal Commissioner.—He is appointed by the Local Govern ment. He is the Head of the Executive. He is not a member of the Corporation He attends all the meetings, he can give his opinion thereat, but he is not allowed a vote.

II. The Standing Committee.—This Committee answers to the General Committee in the Bill for Calcutta, and is what has been termed the Executive body of the Corporation. Since they are intended in a great measure to be a check on the Executive staff, the Head of the Executive is not permitted to preside over their deliberations, and is not, as I have indicated, even a member of their body. They elect one of their own body to be their Chairman.

III. The Corporation—consisting of the whole body of the Commissioners, or Councillors. They consider questions relating to the budget, they, to some extent, have powers of control, and are given full powers of criticism, which they can make use of effectually. The proceedings of the Head of Executive and of the Executive body, that is to say, the Standing Committee, are liable to be called up for consideration by them. When they meet, the Standing Committee merges into the general body of Councillors, and so jealous is the law to secure an independent, free, and impartial consideration of all questions, that the representative of the Executive body, in the person of the Chairman of the Standing Committee, does not become the President of the general body of Councillors, but free choice is given to the latter to elect whomsoever they think fit.

It will be observed that, under the Bombay Act, the intention is to have 3 co-ordinate authorities who shall be independent of each other in their allotted spheres of action, and not be dominated by any one or other of them, and this intention is carried out so far as circumstance can possibly allow.

9. Under the Bill for Calcutta, the so-called co-ordinate authorities are—

I. The Chairman of the Corporation.—He is appointed by the Local Government. He is the Head of the Executive. He is a member of the Corporation, and can speak at the meetings and vote. Moreover, he is ex-officio Chairman of the General Committee, of any other Committees he may attend, and of the general meetings of the Commissioners, and has the power of giving a casting vote on a division.

II. The General Committee.—This forms the so-called Executive body for Calcutta. Their functions, as those of the Standing Committee of Bombay, include the exercise of a check on the Executive through their control over the finances. The Head of the Executive is, ex-officio, the Chairman of the Committee, and he will be in the Chair to control and guide all enquiries and discussions by that body. They cannot, however, enquire about the acts of the Chairman and his subordinates.

III. The Corporation.—That is to say, the general body of Commissioners in meeting assembled. They also are not to be allowed to even enquire about the acts of the Chairman and his subordinates. But they may endeavour to criticise the acts of the General Committee, who become merged in the larger body at their general meetings. The Head of the Executive who, as the Chairman of the General Committee, may be a strong partisan in the question coming up from that body, again appears as the ex-officio Chairman of the general meeting. He can open a discussion, intervene when and as often as he chooses, and close it; give rulings on points of order; control the debate without any sort of appeal; and there is reserved for him a casting vote in the event of equality on a division.

10. It is not fair to the Chairman to place him in a position so invidious. The Bombay Act recognises the difficulty, and provides for it. It would be wise if, in the Bill for Calcutta, that example were followed. In the constitution intended for Calcutta it is a misnomer to call the Chairman of the Corporation a "co-ordinate authority." His rank is designed to be distinctly supreme, and his authority will overshadow that of the others. The General Committee also with their representative, in the person of their Chairman, presiding ex-officio at the general meetings, will have superior power to that of the general body of Commissioners.

11. The discussion of the budget remains to the general meeting. Here, again, the subject will come before them from the General Committee. Their information on general questions, so necessary to take an intelligent and independent part in the discussions, will, at best, be meagre, and they will be unable to cope with the General Committee, particularly as the Chairman of that Committee will preside. In the present system, there is full power of becoming acquainted with all that is being done, and the whole body of Commissioners can be in touch with the General Committee. On the other hand, the elected Commissioners are largely represented on the General Committee, and through these representatives, among whom are the leading and most active Commissioners, that Committee are kept in touch with the general body. The Commissioners in general meeting, under the new constitution, it is easy to foresee, will lapse into a useless and ineffective body, to register the decrees of the General Committee who will not be the representatives of the rate-payers. The rate-payers will be in a hopeless minority of 4 to 8 in the General Committee exclusive of the Chairman; there will be a standing majority against them in the general meetings; and there will be the weight of the influence against them of an irresponsible Chairman, in whose appointment they have no voice. The Bill, as remodelled, will take the control of the finances completely out of the hands of the rate-payers who contribute practically the whole of the revenue of the Corporation.

12. I must not omit here to express a strong objection to the Government reserving to themselves the power of appointing 4 members of the General Committee. The Government will have to rely on the advice of the Chairman, and, in practice, the patronage will be that of the Chairman. And since membership of the General Committee will carry with it emoluments, not insignificant in amount, the influence and power of the Chairman will be overwhelmning in the so-called Executive body, and, through that body, in the Corporation. It is true that in Bombay, the Government have the same power, but there is the important distinction that their official representative is not the permanent Chairman either of the Standing Committee, or of the Corporation. He is not even a member of the Corporation.

13. If in the General Committee, even as re-constituted, the Government thinks that a member cannot be found fit to be its Chairman, and if the General Meeting cannot be trusted to elect a President for themselves, it will be far better to make the Municipality a Government Department, for the public would then know where the responsibility will lie.

14. To such a degree is the centralisation of power in the Chairman and the subordination of the Corporation carried, that even when the Chairman is unable to be present at a General Meeting, he will nominate either the Deputy Chairman or Vice-Chairman to preside. This is the more remarkable since neither of the two officers named are to be members of the Corporation. They will become members on the nomination of the Chairman for the period of the Meeting only, and on the termination of the Meeting over which they may be appointed to preside, they will lapse back into their original obscurity.

15. There are many more reasons why the Head of the Executive should not be the permanent Chairman as is proposed in the Bill. Whatever may be argued against me on this head, it cannot be denied, I submit, that the three so-called co-ordinate authorities for Calcutta are not kept distinct and independent of each other. In the constitution for Calcutta the scheme, in extreme contrast with Bombay, tends towards official absolutism.

16. Now, when the power of control rests with the Corporation, the system that places the Head of the Executive permanently in the Chair, to preside over all the proceedings, has disclosed disadvantages. But when control is taken away from them, and even their powers of obtaining information and of criticism are seriously encroached upon, I fear that discontent and friction will be inevitable.

17. Again, I do not approve of the appointment of the "Sub-Committees," which I understand are to be Standing Committees, being given to the General Committee. There has not been a suggestion, in the varied assortment of charges that have been levelled at the Corporation, that they "pack" their Committees. On the contrary, they have been charged with making them too large and unmanageable. I think that the number of each Standing Committee being fixed by law, the right of electing them ought to be given to the general body of Commissioners. This body will be in a far better position to judge of the relative merits of the candidates, and since the members of the Sub-Committees are to be paid fees, it is inadvisable to give further powers and influence to one of the so-called co-ordinate authorities, by conferring on them the patronage of making these appointments.

18. I am opposed generally to the unnecessary expenditure in the payment of fees to the members of any committee, and my objection is stronger with relation to the "Sub-Committees" referred to in the Bill. The Special Committees that may be appointed by the Corporation will get no payment. The "Sub-Committees" receive no remuneration in Bombay, and I see no reason why they should do so in Calcutta.

19. The letter of the Government of India, as I understand it, intimates the opinion that the elected Commissioners and the nominated Commissioners should be given proportionate representation in the General Committee under the remodelled Bill. This view has not been accepted in the Select Committee. I submit that, to be in accordance with the terms of the letter, not less than half the General Committee ought to be representatives of the elected Commissioners.

20. I venture to observe that a misapprehension underlies the idea, that, in Bombay, the Ward Commissioners as the representatives of the rate-payers on the one side, and on the other side the other members of the Corporation, form two bodies of equal numbers. There, it is true, the Wards elect 36 members which gives half the number of the Corporation. But in the other body, the justices who, in a very large proportion amongst themselves, represent the rate-payers, elect 16 members and their numbers almost wholly represent the rate-payers. Personally, I am by no means averse to some constituencies being formed of selected classes, so long as there is a genuine election of members by them. I am entirely in favour of those who play the more manly part and put themselves forward for election. They have a greater sense of responsibility, they act with greater zeal, and more on their own independent judgment than, in my experience, I have found among the nominated Commissioners as a body. It cannot be denied that it is in rare exceptions only, that equally active members have been found among the nominated members.

21. I am constrained to protest against the reduction in the number of the elected members to 25, that is to say, allowing only one member to each ward.

The efficient administration of the Municipality, I think, essentially requires that the rate-payers should be given a powerful and effective voice in the control of its finances I do not so much care how it is arrived at, whether by giving the privilege of election to selected bodies or in other ways, so long as the control I seek, is established. The mercantile interests contribute to the funds of the Municipality only by the license tax levied on them, which as a matter of fact, is comparatively an insignificant amount. The members of that community pay an amount, as residents and occupiers, which is comparatively small and they are not concerned, the difference to them being inappreciable, whether the rates are at 25 per cent. or 15 per cent. The business firms do not pay any octroi duty on goods handled by them, and their license tax is a fixed sum and does not vary with the rates. There is no substantial reason to hinder them from accepting the most extravagant schemes that will land the Corporation into serious financial complications. The other nominated Commissioners will be ready to agree with the views of the Chairman, who has no permanent interest in the city and whose tenure of office is only an incident in his career, while the more money that he can induce the Commissioners to vote for, the easier it will be for him to show good results during his incumbency.

22. The representatives of the rate-payers, on the other hand, have to protect permanent interests and are concerned on their own account, and, being in touch with the poor of the city, are concerned also on their behalf, because they know that the limit of taxation that the latter can bear is not more than 19½ per cent. Even Sir Alexander Mackenzie did not intend to deprive them of the control of the purse, for their numerical position was maintained under the Bill as it was originally framed, although that position was rendered less effective by other provisions of the Bill. All that prejudiced their position remains, and they are reduced to a minority under the fresh proposals.

23. Furthermore, this reduction in the number of Ward Commissioners will entirely destroy the representation of minorities which was built up with such solicitude on a previous occasion in this Legislature. It will be exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, for a Muhammadan to be returned for any ward. Muhammadan Commissioners are returned now in a friendly spirit in conjunction with Hindus, with the support of Hindu votes. Sometimes they are returned without a contest with a Hindu colleague. The elections will in future be fought out purely on class lines, and I venture to warn the Government that there will be risk of racial feeling being excited in Municipal election contests, particularly if the Muhammadans find themselves unsuccessful in elections throughout the town. The European Ward Commissioners will be reduced to a minimum. Even if their numbers are proportionately small, they form not an inconsiderable body. Elected Commissioners work cordially together for the common interest of the administration irrespective of their nationalities, and European elected Commissioners give serviceable help in spreading through the various Committees.

24. There is another highly important aspect of the question that ought to be considered: to allow only one Commissioner to each ward will concentrate too much power into the hands of the Commissioner who may be elected, and the inhabitants of the ward may have to suffer in more ways than one. It cannot be denied that rivalries frequently arise in each ward of the native city, the influence of which permeates throughout the ward. The assistance of the Ward Commissioner must be sought for many purposes, and those who do not belong to his party, or are attached to a rival party and their dependants, will suffer. With two Commissioners for each ward, if an inhabitant cannot go to one of them, he may generally safely rely upon the help of the other. I am quite prepared to hear this objection made light of, but any person who is acquainted with the subject will know how serious are the difficulties that I have mentioned. In the native quarters of the town, a Ward Commissioner's duties are not merely with those who may have the franchise: his work lies mainly with the poorer inhabitants of his ward. And if only one Commissioner is to be allowed to each ward, in the quarters to which I have referred, I have no hesitation in saying that his attention will be required for his municipal duties to such an extent that he will hardly have any time to attend to anything else. The reduction of the number of elected Commissioners is a solution of a difficulty that is attractive on paper, and is a change that is fatally easy of execution. But in practice, it will be found that while there is no real gain obtained, such a proceeding will inevitably be fruitful of much inconvenience and hardship, it will unnecessarily destroy the representation of minorities, and will withdraw even the nominal control of the purse from the rate payers.

25. I very anxiously ask that a larger representation of rate-payers be given, whether it is directly or indirectly obtained; that is to say, that either the original number of 50 elected Commissioners be restored, or that there be a re-distribution of seats, with wards of smaller areas than as at present formed, or that selected constituencies as at Bombay be enfranchised, and for the purpose of considering these questions and adopting any of them or any combination of them, there be a re-committal to the Select Committee; and I would further venture to urge a reference to the Government of India on the issues I have raised.

26. I do not think that a complete abandonment of the present system is called for; but since we have the Bombay constitution quoted so frequently with such high commendation, let the principles of that constitution be adopted in their entirety for Calcutta mutatis mutandis, without disturbing the representation of the Chamber of Commerce, the Trades Association, or the Port Trust which have been enjoyed by them for nearly 12 years.

27. With an increase in the number of Commissioners, there should be a proportionate increase in the number of the General Committee, with proportionate representation on the principle that prevails in Bombay.

28. I have referred to certain salient matters in the Bill from which I dissent. I have other objections to the Bill which will appear in the amendments that will in due course be moved in Council.

The 19th August, 1899. J. G. APCAR.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the Municipal Affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and to authorise the extension of the same to the Town of Howrah.
